Labor Gov't Sets Price On ECM Entry

Demands Protect Canada

STOCKHOLM (CP) — George Brown, Britain's deputy prime minister, said today trade with Canada, Australia and New Zealand lies at the heart of Britain's difficulties in considering new moves to join the European Common Market.

In the clearest outline yet provided on the Labor government's Common Market policy, Brown said in a speech prepared for a socialist's conference here that Britain insists that five principles must be preserved if it is to enter the European trade bloc.

These are: Safeguards for British farmers; safeguards for European Free Trade Association partners; freedom to allow Britain to pursue its own foreign policy and the preservation of British rights to plan its own economy.

Brown, economics minister charged with exploring Common Market entry, said he does not believe these problems are insurmountable but some present major difficulties.

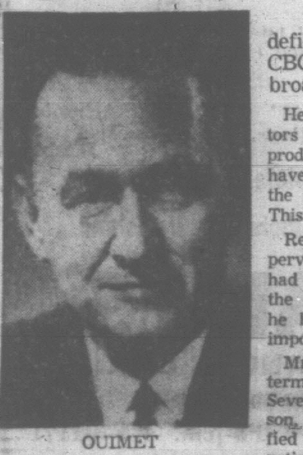
THINKS AHEAD

"It is clear," he said, "that if Britain were to enter the European Economic Community and apply the common agricultural policy as it now stands, it could have profound effects on the pattern of our imports from New Zealand, Australia and Canada—the heart of the overseas Commonwealth.

"At present Britain's imports from them are free of duty and many items enjoy a tariff preference over the same products imported from foreign countries."

CBC CHIEF TELLS COMMONS COMMITTEE

Officials Openly Defied Management Authority



OUIMET
. . . impossible situation

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC officials who have openly defied the management are in an impossible situation, CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet told the Commons broadcasting committee today.

He said the board of directors will decide what to do with producers and supervisors who have defied the management in the dispute over the program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Reeves Haggan, general supervisor of public affairs, now had supported the attitude of the Seven Days producers and he had "placed himself in an impossible position."

Mr. Ouimet said Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of Seven Days, and Patrick Watson, the co-host, have openly defied the authority of the corporation since mid-April. This was unheard of and unprecedented.

Resignation normally preceded any public attack on an employer.

David Lewis (NDP — York South) asked whether a "wholesale firing" would do the CBC any good.

Mr. Ouimet said he could not answer yes or no. He personally had the power to hire and fire, but in this case he preferred not to take any decision alone.

Therefore, he would ask the CBC board to review the whole Seven Days controversy.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) asked whether the board would await the House committee's report before taking any action.

Mr. Ouimet said this is one of the factors being considered.

"It had better be," Mr. Peters replied.

L. R. Sherman (PC—Winnipeg South) asked whether Mr. Haggan would be dismissed because of his testimony before the committee.

Mr. Ouimet said he was being careful not to refer to testimony before the committee. But Mr. Haggan's attitude now was known and his case would be placed before the board of directors.

The CBC president said he means no disrespect for Parliament, but he shares the view that the committee's hearings are complicating the solution of the Seven Days dispute.

Mr. Haggan told the committee Tuesday that senior executives of the CBC don't know anything about programming and have suggested indirectly that he should resign.

Mr. Ouimet read an hour-long prepared statement after asking the committee to hear him immediately, rather than continue questioning CBC Vice-President H. G. Walker.

Mr. Ouimet said his statement had been ready for two days and he was anxious to read it to the committee because of the possibility of "leaks inside the corporation."

Mr. Lewis said this remark showed Mr. Ouimet did not trust his own staff. "This alleged reason is not dignified enough to justify changing the order of witnesses."

Other committee members replied that Mr. Ouimet was acting in good faith and should be heard immediately. The committee voted to call the CBC president and to continue questioning him Monday.

Reporter Hit on Head By Sevigny

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet said today a CBC reporter was hit on the head by former Conservative cabinet minister Pierre Sevigny when he attempted to interview Mr. Sevigny without permission last March.

Mr. Ouimet cited the incident before the Commons broadcasting committee as an example of the questionable journalistic ethics of the program This Hour Has Seven Days.

"When it was rumored that Mr. Sevigny was involved in the Munsinger affair," the CBC president said in a prepared statement, "Seven Days sent a camera crew to his home in Montreal, who set up their cameras and lighting equipment on Mr. Sevigny's property and then rang the doorbell.

"The intention was for the camera to act as a reporter when Mr. Sevigny appeared. The objectionable aspect here was the intention to confront and question with the camera rolling without permission, on private property.

"In this instance, the reporter was hit over the head by Mr. Sevigny with his cane and the item was turned down for broadcast because it constituted an invasion of privacy."

In earlier testimony before the committee, Vice-President H. G. Walker identified the reporter as Larry Zolf.

Cost of Living Continues Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index rose by eight-tenths of a point during April to a record of 143.2, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

Increased food costs and an increase in the Ontario provincial sales tax to five per cent from three were mainly responsible. All seven sections of the index were up.

The index, based on 1949 consumer prices equalling 100, had stood at 141.2 in January, 142.1 in February and 142.4 in March, the previous high. The April figure was four per cent higher than in the same month of last year.

There is no exact parallel index of incomes. But an index of industrial wages and salaries, based on 1961 equalling 100, was at 116.9 in December, latest figure available.

RADAR ADEQUATE

Bomber Alert Curb Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has ordered a reduction in the continuous airborne alert of B-52 bombers, it was disclosed today.

He told the House of Representatives appropriations committee the constant bomber alert aloft, conducted for more than five years, no longer is needed because:

—Of "the declining importance of bombers in relations to missiles."

No indication of the extent of the reduction was available.

McNamara's testimony, given in secret earlier this year, seemed certain to arouse new criticism from advocates of the bomber and from those who question reliance on missiles.

ALERT WILL GO ON

The defence secretary's published words gave the impression that the airborne alert will be ended entirely, but the defence department said this is not so—that there will continue to be an airborne alert, although reduced in size.

Defence sources said a portion of the bomber force will remain ready to take up a broader airborne alert, if this becomes necessary in an emergency.

They also said that 50 per cent of the fleet of about 600 B-52 bombers will continue to be held on airstrip alert, ready to take off on 15 minutes warning—well within the maximum 30 minutes warning radar installations could provide in event of an intercontinental ballistic missile assault.

The U.S. now has about 900 ICBMs in firing position, all in protected underground launch sites. It also has 36 Polaris subs in commission, mounting a total of more than 575 missiles.

RCMP Evidence Attacked As Spy Hearing Closes

VANCOUVER (CP) — The royal commission into the affair of alleged spy Victor Spencer ended its hearings today with a lawyer attacking evidence given by an RCMP official which said the former postal clerk's action fitted into an espionage program.

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, one-man commissioner, said he will return to Ottawa today or Saturday to start writing his report.

He hoped to have the report in the government's hands within a month. The commission had sat here for two days.

The hearings ended with a summing up by J. J. Robinette, commission counsel, rebutting a summation by Spencer lawyer Harry Rankin that said there is nothing in the law that forbade Spencer giving such information as the location of available farms to the Soviet embassy.

Mr. Justice Wells replied it depends on the purpose for which it was given.

Mr. Rankin was summing up the two days of hearings of the commission which is seeking to determine if Spencer was unfairly dealt with when he was dismissed from his post office job after allegations of spying were made in the Commons. Spencer died last month.

Today and Thursday he attacked the evidence of RCMP

VACCINE REDUCES SIDE EFFECTS

Scientists Win First Round in Flu Battle

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two advances in the battle against the flu were disclosed Thursday at a meeting of the American Society for Microbiology.

Two scientists of the University of Michigan's school of public health reported what they called a "striking finding": a vaccine which reduces side effects and can be given safely to newborn children.

A research team of the University of Maryland school of medicine told of an experiment with the drug amantadine hydrochloride in which high fever was eliminated and the incidence of generalized aching and headache was cut by half.

The Michigan researchers, Dr. F. M. Davenport and Dr. A. V. Hennessy, noted that standard influenza vaccines usually have a toxic effect on children under three and are not often recommended by pediatricians.

Their new vaccine, developed in the last five years, eliminates the flu-like symptoms of fever and headache felt by adults after standard vaccination and is safe for infants, they said.

It differs from other vaccines in that it uses only one-tenth of the influenza virus instead of the whole virus but is several times stronger than standard vaccines, they reported.

Half the group were given amantadine capsules every 12 hours for nine days and the other 23 were given an inactive placebo. After 36 hours all 46 volunteers had nose and throat sprayed with live A-2 Asian flu virus.

Minor symptoms showed up only half as frequently in the drug-treated men. The most severe form of the illness—high fever—occurred only in those men not given the drug.

LIFE IN PRISON

'Moor Murders' Pair Guilty

CHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) — A young man and his mistress were found guilty today in the "moor murders" and both were sentenced to life improsnment.

Ian Brady, 28, and Myra Hindley, 23, were convicted of killing Edward Evans, 17, and Lesley Ann Downey, 10. Brady alone was found guilty of murdering 12 - year - old John Kilbride.

Judge Fenton Atkinson termed the lovers "sadistic killers of the utmost depravity," adding: "These were three calculated, cruel, cold - blooded murders.

He told Brady: "In your case I pass the only sentence which the law now allows, which is three concurrent sentences of life imprisonment."

The death penalty for murder was abolished in Britain last year for a five-year trial period.

Just before the jury retired Judge Fenton Atkinson said it was not possible to find Brady not guilty in the axe slaying of 17-year-old Edward Evans.

HACKED TO DEATH

Brady allegedly hacked and strangled the youth to death after enticing him from a Manchester homosexuals' club to demonstrate the art of murder to a friend.

He advised the jury not to convict the couple of killing either Kilbride or the girl if there was any reasonable doubt.

He also said Brady's collection of books of pornography, perversion and torture did not prove anything.

"I daresay that dozens of people read books of that sort and never dream of putting the things they read into practice," he said.

The judge said a tape-recording of Lesley's screams and protests, made while Brady took pornographic pictures of her, was obviously highly prejudicial to the two accused.

"They cannot escape that. It must throw a merciless light on the character and disposition of persons who treat a little girl in that way."

One could never forget hearing the little girl begging and praying for mercy, he said.

It was obvious Lesley had been indecently assaulted, a serious crime in itself, he said. But the jury must ask whether this offence threw any light on the way the girl died.

NOTHING can be arranged now for any exchange of prisoners of war in Viet Nam, U.S. roving Ambassador Averell Harriman said today in Geneva. Both the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments are ready to discuss trade with the Communists, he said.

8.7 Million Cars Recalled by Firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Abraham R. Ribicoff revealed today that U.S. automakers had conducted recall campaigns involving 8.7 million cars produced since 1960.

At a news conference, Ribicoff said all the cars involved in the recall operations did not have safety defects. Some recalls were related to mechanical problems, he said.

But he noted that 18.5 per cent of all cars made during the past six years "have been defective in some respect."

Ribicoff did not immeditely release the list dealing with individual makes.

. . . SPY

Assistant Commissioner W. H Kelly in Ottawa, the transcript of which was released here. He said the evidence should not be admitted, and when Mr. Justice Wells said it was acceptable, said he would sit through the hearings as an observer only.

Commissioner Kelly had said that the actions of Spencer in acquiring such information as clothing worn by Canadians, farms available in the Fraser Valley near the United States border, names on cemetery gravestones and about the Trans Mountain oil pipeline could be used by Russian agents for various purposes.

In answer to a question about whether he believed these actions fitted into an espionage program he said he did.

Mr. Rankin said commissioner Kelly had made the Russian request for information on farms sound very sinister indeed.

Yet Sgt. M. G. Low of the RCMP, who had taken a statement from Spencer which admitted he acquired information for the Russians, had not sounded sinister.

QUOTED SPENCER

Sgt. Low had quoted Spencer as saying Russians had asked about the farms and he had told them information could be obtained very easily from any real estate agent or from newspaper advertisements.

Commissioner Kelly had made it appear that the Russians were setting up a spy system.

Mr. Rankin also attacked other Kelly evidence in a similar vein, saying the information was readily available to the Russians.

He said the U.S. made a large-scale investigation in Quebec, he believed in connection with "revolution possibilities."

If such an investigation had been made by the Russians "we would have had 15 royal commissioners."

He said Mr. Justice Wells had remarked that the case was complicated by the fact that Spencer was in the service of the Queen.

But Mr. Rankin said while Spencer was in the Queen's service his role was a very minor one.

Spencer's role certainly did not justify the invocation of the rarely-used Section 50 of the Civil Service Act which gave the government the right to dismiss an employee without a hearing.

"It is very, very rare indeed that this section is ever used against a civil servant," he said.

'Communism Issue Came Between Us'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The former wife of accused spy George Victor Spencer said Thursday that "communism was an issue that came between us."

Kathleen Stephens, who operated a clothing store in Courtenay on Vancouver Island prior to her retirement earlier this year, said in an interview her former husband always wanted to go to Russia.

Miss Stephens married Spencer 33 years ago. They were separated in 1936 and divorced in 1942.

Communism came between them, she said, but was not a factor in their divorce.

"He talked of going to Russia to study. He always wanted to be a teacher.

"I don't think he was always a Communist but he had leanings towards being one," he said.

Spencer said in a written statement to RCMP last May that he became a member of the Communist Party "about 1936 or 1937" and was expelled from the party in 1946.

Free Vote Necessary In Viet Nam

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP)—A leader of one of South Viet Nam's major nationalist parties said today elections in the country will have no meaning unless two-thirds of the people are able to vote freely.

He estimated that only about one-fifth could do this at present.

Ha Thuc Ky, secretary-general of a faction of the Dai Viet party and no relation to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, said that the elections promised by the military government could only be held in cities and towns under present conditions.

He suggested at least six months for organizing elections and an interim civilian government to serve during the period.

As now planned by the government, Ky said, the elections "will be only a show to satisfy the foreigners. It will not be representative of the people."

SEES BUDDHIST CONTROL

Ky, 47, a forestry engineer who served briefly as interior minister in 1964, also predicted that the voting promised by the military junta in the fall would produce a Buddhist - controlled national Assembly.

"The Buddhists want to oust the Americans and leave this country to neutralism," he asserted.

"The Dai Viet feels it is necessary for the United States to stay and help in the fight against the Communists. We are grateful for U.S. help. Viet Nam cannot survive without this help."

CBC DISPUTE

Errant Microphone Minister's Undoing

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons was told inadvertently Thursday that the government does not have the power to appoint a mediator in the dispute between CBC management and producers.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said as an aside to Prime Minister Pearson, "we can't appoint a mediator," but a microphone near Mr. Pickersgill's desk picked up the comment and boomed it over the Commons sound system amid laughter.

The minister's comment came after Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said that Stuart Keate, on leave from his post as publisher of the Vancouver Sun, has no powers to mediate the CBC dispute.

Mr. Pearson said he had personally asked Mr. Keate to review the controversy informally. Mr. Keate had not been named by cabinet order.

The prime minister said Mr. Keate is not acting as a mediator but is merely trying to reach agreement between the CBC management and producers on terms of reference for a possible future mediation of their dispute.

The centre of the dispute, the television program This Hour Has Seven Days, will be shown for the last time this season at 10 p.m. Sunday.

Mr. Keate returned to Ottawa Thursday.

BEFORE U.S. AUDIENCE

'Not Hostility But Concern,' Claims Sharp

By JAMES NELSON

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP)—For a man who isn't ready to say yet whether he will be in the race when it comes for the Liberal party leadership, Finance Minister Sharp put on a performance here Thursday that should be to his credit when the race begins.

Invited to address the University of Rochester's Canadian studies group, Mr. Sharp delivered a basic working paper on his concept of Canadian-American economic relations which at the same time set out his view of Canada's place in an interdependent world.

It was a soft-sell job, delivered with a competence which came from years of inside experience in the finance and trade departments.

In addition to the lecture, Mr. Sharp spent nearly two hours in a closed seminar meeting with members of the university faculty and graduate students in Canadian affairs.

A seminar participant said later Mr. Sharp "let his hair down—as much as he could." Near the end a student asked him point - blank whether he would run for the leadership whenever Mr. Pearson retires. That was a question, Mr. Sharp said, he hasn't answered yet even in Canada.

COMMITTED HIMSELF

In his lecture, which included case histories of the development of the Canada-U.S. auto tariffs agreement and the gaining of exemptions from most of the U.S. guidelines designed to restrict the outflow of U.S. dollars, Mr. Sharp committed himself as an internationalist.

"Do not be misled by occasional burst of what may appear to you to be shrill nationalism (in Canada)," Mr. Sharp told the audience of about 300 students, professors, and Rochester businessmen.

"Throughout our history as a nation we have known instinctively that our destiny lay in the world, not in frigid isolation within our borders or even in the more luxurious North American isolation we might share with you in a strictly bilateral arrangement.

"Interdependence is not new or foreign to us. We recognize and accept it in our bilateral relations with you. We are prepared upon occasion deliberately to extend it, as in the automobile agreement.

"We seek to establish and work through new institutional arrangements which reflect its growing significance. But interdependence confined exclusively to our bilateral relationship with the United States could develop as far as Canada is concerned into dependence, and ultimately to complete loss of independence.

RESPONSE INSTINCTIVE

"Thus Canada responds instinctively, positively to multilateral relationships and the institutions set up to organize them."

The minister met local reporters who questioned him about "hostility" in Canada to American corporations. Mr. Sharp said it shouldn't be called "hostility," but concern for American direction of Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms which should act as good corporate citizens of Canada.

Mr. Sharp said in his lecture that Canadian - American economic relations in the past three years in which he has been trade minister and then finance minister were, on the surface, generally quiet and progressive. But he said they had moments of high tension, suspense, and drama behind the scenes.

This was obviously how he would like to have it continue, without open rancour—or "hostility," as the Rochester reporters termed it—but with effective discussion and decision in cabinet offices and joint conferences.

Until recently the difficulty has always been that decisions made by the U.S. in domestic affairs frequently have a profound impact on Canada, and Washington tends to forget the existence of its neighbor and number one trading partner. He said in a question period following his lecture he now believes there is more awareness of Canada in Washington.

SHARP CHINA WARNING TO THAILAND LEADERS

TOKYO (UPI)—Red China warned Thailand today its decision to send air and naval units to Viet Nam was a serious step "to widen the war" and a step for which it would be held "to account."

The warning was carried by Peking's Dwangming Daily, and broadcast by the New China News Agency.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT FILES SUIT

Sheriff's Vote Victory Disputed

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—The U.S. justice department has charged that nearly 1,700 Negro voters were improperly disqualified in Tuesday's Democratic primary in Dallas County to assure a victory for Sheriff James Clark.

In a suit filed Thursday in U.S. District Court at Mobile, the federal government asks that Clark's opponent, Wilson Baker, be declared the winner of the disputed contest for the sheriff's office.

The government suit seeks to overturn the action of the county's Democratic election committee, which supports Clark's contention that ballots in six of the county's 80 voting districts were handled improperly. It asks for a preliminary injunction to prevent the disputed ballots from being destroyed.

If the predominantly Negro votes are counted, then Baker would win the primary by a clear majority, thus avoiding a May 31 runoff election for the party's nomination for sheriff.

Remedy With Side Effects

WITH THE UNITED STATES balance of payments deficit not improving as quickly as had been hoped, an organization called the National Export Expansion Council has drawn up a list of recommendations for the government showing ways in which exports could be increased.

Since several of these recomendations would affect Canada—and British Columbia—if put into practice, the situation will bear close watching.

Number one in importance to this province is the suggestion that American West Coast lumber being transported to the east be no longer required to use American ships. This would immediately destroy the freight rate advantage enjoyed by British Columbia interior sawmills and would result, the committee estimated, in the loss to Canada of a $100 millions a year market in the United States.

Along the same lines is the suggestion that the government drop the requirement that 50 per cent of all grain sales to Communist countries be shipped in American vessels. With this trade growing in volume there is a danger that considerable Canadian wheat could be priced right out of this market.

One thing to bear in mind is that both of these proposals to drop the American-flag shipping requirement would also result in the elimination of a large part of the costly and heavily subsidized American merchant marine. This would pose a tough political problem for the government even though the savings would be considerable.

On a broader scale, the committee recommended that the government lift all restraints on export financing and insulate export credits from any effects of domestic tight money. With its enormous financial resources, the United States could in this way make it even more difficult than it is now for lesser countries such as Canada to compete in overseas markets where credit sales are a big factor.

The committee went out onto pretty thin ice in a further proposal. This was to the effect that the United States study the feasibility of pressing for a change in rules of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade to allow a degree of subsidization of exports. This would be a particularly cruel thrust for countries which, unlike the United States, must export in order to earn a living. The American interest in boosting exports, it must be remembered, is primarily to offset the drain on the dollar; exports as a means of livelihood for the American nation are not a major factor in the total economy.

Related to the idea of subsidizing exports was a suggestion that the United States adopt the value-added tax on production as a full or partial substitute for the corporation tax. A value-added basis of taxation means that at each stage of production or distribution, as the product increases in value, the tax increases. The advantage of this is that the tax can be easily abated for exports and imposed on imports without, apparently, violating GATT rules on subsidization.

These were just some of the suggestions put forward by the advisory group but they should be enough to give Canadians an idea of how rough things could become if the United States should decide that its balance of payments problem was serious enough to justify drastic measures.

What is needed now is for the Canadian government with the cooperation of business and industry to make a careful study of these proposals and to counter them by pointing out to Washington how self-defeating they could be in the long run if they resulted in Canada, the United States' best export market, no longer being able to buy American goods.

Too Many Angles

AS MIGHT BE EXPECTED, THE auto insurance proposals of the New Democratic Party, as expressed to the royal commission, lean heavily to NDP social doctrine and political philosophy. The question of insurance seems to be merely a base from which to launch into other related fields involving social justice as the Party sees it.

It is typical of the Socialist trend, too, that the proposal should include a recommendation that bureauracy — hopefully, no doubt, some day to be that of the NDP—be empowered to punish through suspension of driving licences. Surely the suspension of licences is a matter for the courts to decide, not some civil servant.

While suspension might in some cases be an excellent thing for both the individual and society at large, such an important deprivation in this day of mechanized mobility should be entrusted only to the established courts.

Typically, too, the NDP proposal calls for full and widespread recompense for anyone harmed physically or materially through an automobile accident. "Inherent in the purpose of auto insurance," says the NDP, "should be the object of providing compensation for all victims of accidents where automobiles are involved . . ." and "this compensation should be available regardless of who is at fault."

Unless the proposal envisages a substantial subsidization of the insurance fund from the public funds —which means the taxpayer—it is clear that insurance rates would achieve a higher level under such circumstances. The NDP no doubt would support the former supposition in order to avoid the latter, and indeed the brief hauls in the old comparisons of rates under the Saskatchewan insurance plan and under privately offered policies. Such comparisons are, of course, almost impossible to make because of the differences in contract terms and physical conditions.

Tacking on meritorious appendages involving safety training courses, road condition reports and other aids to better driving does not change the basic requirements of properly organized and actuarially sound insurance. And this problem the NDP proposal does not solve.

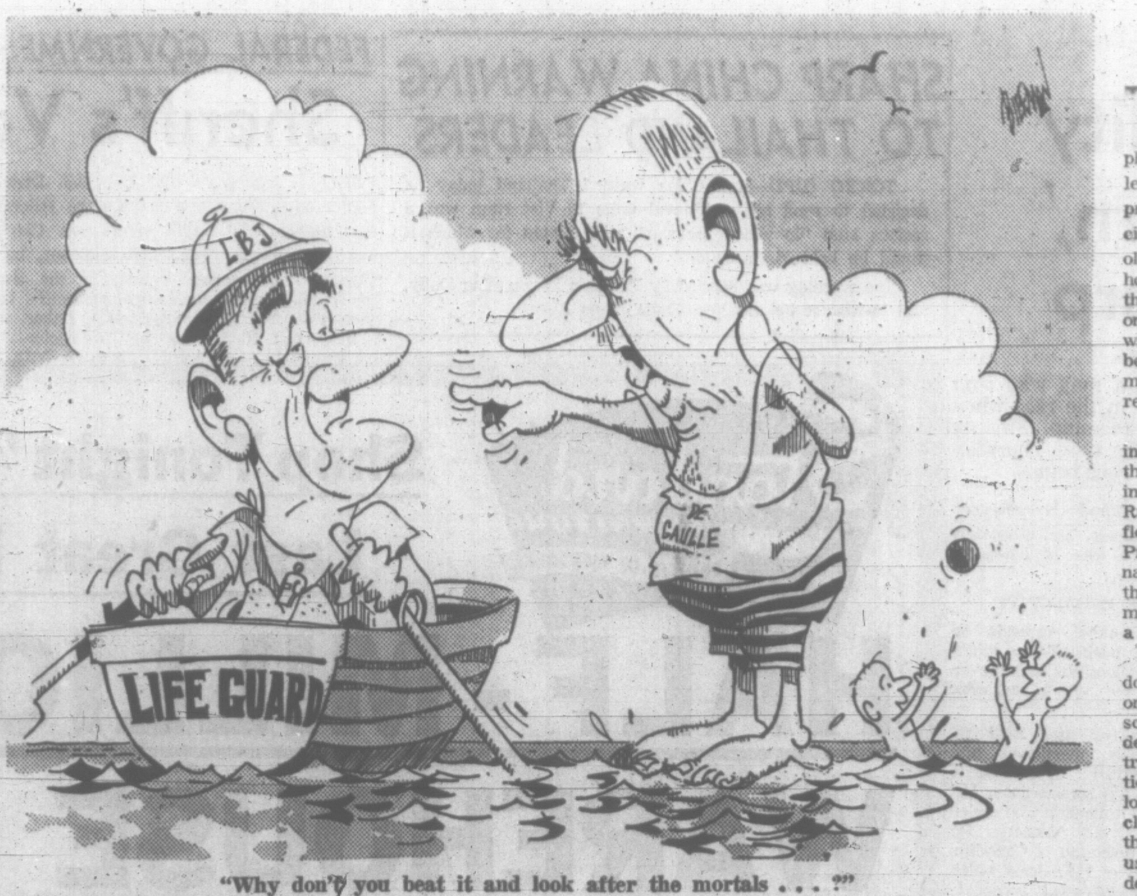
. . . and with Flashing Colored Lights

SIR BERNARD LOVELL, THE eminent director of the Jodrell Bank observatory in England, has brought a note of sanity to the flying saucer epidemic with his protest against the widespread publicity given to such outbreaks of public nonsense.

Unexplained things which untrained observers see, or believe they see, in the skies are the normal material of scientific enquiry and research. The public rushes to ascribe a magic or dramatic cause to the things it cannot explain in terms common to its previous experience. The scientist withholds judgment on the temporarily unexplainable, and seeks out causes which are in harmony with all that has been known heretofore — the gradually revealed laws by which nature operates.

Those laws, and that operation, are far more fantastic and wonder-inspiring than the fictional excitements dreamed up by observers of flying saucers. The radio observatory at Jodrell Bank is now just beginning to break through some of the secrets of nature by probing billions of miles into space and billions of years into time. Such study is to flying saucers as our greatest literature is to the scruffiest of comic books.

If and when the little green men with the outsize intellects do appear, it will be to the scientists of Jodrell Bank and elsewhere that they apply, and not to the unidentified staring people who see unidentified flying objects.



"Why don't you beat it and look after the mortals . . . ?"

Medicare

New York Times

On July 1 the existing shortage of physicians will be still more of a problem. On that date the new Medicare program will remove many of the financial barriers that now hinder millions of older Americans from receiving all the hospital and medical care they need. At the same time, the Viet Nam war's drain on the availability of younger physicians will be felt more as the armed services begin enrolling the almost 2,500 medical men for whom the defence department recently issued a "special call."

Fear of measures that might further increase medical manpower shortages in this country has already become evident in Congress. Last month the House Rules Committee refused to schedule for floor action a bill to enact the measures President Johnson included in his international health program. Concern that this bill would result in the export of medical personnel appears to have been a prime motive.

A desirable approach to meeting the doctor shortage would be prompt action on the part of the nation's medical schools to speed up training of their students. One measure that would not detract from the quality of medical education would be to eliminate the traditional long summer vacations and to conduct classes, say, at least eleven months of the year. Such a schedule would make a useful beginning in a period of rising demand for physicians.

EASILY TURNED THE TIDE

Truth and Falsity Behind the Non-Confidence Vote

Western

MR. PEARSON'S defence of his conduct in the events which led up to the Munsinger inquiry was effective enough to split what seemed on Monday a united Opposition. It must be considered in the context of some rather confused events. On Thursday of last week Commissioner McClellan testified that he had been asked by the prime minister in late November 1964 whether he had "any information indicating any impropriety or anything of a scandalous nature involving any MP in any party over the last 10 years." This is from the text of a CP report. The actual words used do not appear in Hansard because Mr. Speaker ruled that direct quotation from the transcript was not in order.

Mr. Pearson made no statement on the report on Friday, presumably because of the government's view that matters before the commission are, in effect, sub judice. Two attempts to elicit a statement were made by New Democrats but neither question was permitted by Mr. Speaker.

'Deplores and Condemns'

On Monday Mr. Fairweather introduced an amendment to the supply motion which read as follows: "This house strongly deplores and condemns this government's actions in having the RCMP provide information to the government as to the past conduct of all members of Parliament generally, a course of action which would destroy the independence of all members and undermine the institution of Parliament."

The amendment was obviously based upon an interpretation of Commissioner McClellan's evidence. In general, it was the Conservative case that the Munsinger attack was premeditated and politically motivated; that the government, stung by opposition criticisms at the time of the Rivard affair, had instructed the RCMP to turn up material damaging to its opponents; that Mr. Pearson had known about this and had in fact kept the file in his possession for 15 months waiting for an opportunity to strike back.

In the absence of a statement by the prime minister, who was away on Monday suffering from influenza, the House spent its first day of debate groping in the dark. The affair assumed serious proportions and the Conservatives made the most of what probably seemed an admirable opportunity to deflate the Munsinger inquiry.

Mr. Pearson's defence set the whole matter in a very different light. If the Conservative interpretation of the evidence was correct and if the government had acted in the manner described in the motion then, he agreed, the results indicated might well have followed. But the interpretation was wrong. The RCMP had not been asked to provide information to the government as to the past conduct of all members of Parliament. Such a request, he said, would have been indefensible and shocking, an offence against Parliament and an improper use by the executive of the powers of the police.

Semantic Argument

For taking this line, the prime minister was promptly accused by Mr. Diefenbaker of repudiating Mr. McClellan and, in effect, placing the commissioner in the dock. But this clearly is an argument of semantics.

Mr. Pearson recalled the allegations made inside and outside Parliament at the time of the Rivard affair. These had to do with improper pressures brought to bear on ministers or members of Parliament by criminal elements. Charges were made of political interference with the administration of justice and the government was reproached for its alleged indifference to the spreading influence of organized crime. In fact the prime minister was shocked and deeply disturbed by these extremely unwelcome revelations.

It was for this reason that he asked, in his words of Tuesday, "not for any new inquiries to be made, not for the police to report into or look into private conduct of members of Parliament, not to search for personal scandal but for them to give me a record as to whether there had been in the past the kind of contact with dubious and criminal elements now charged, reports of which had been increasing month by month. How deep did this sort of thing go? Was Parliament becoming a victim to criminal pressures?"

Mr. Pearson did not know, until he spoke to the commissioner, of the Munsinger case. It impressed him as a serious security matter. He at no time had the file. He saw a precis, which was not circulated but was turned over immediately to the chairman of the government security panel for safe-keeping. There was no action, presumably because those involved were no longer in government.

The prime minister also denied any knowledge of Mr. Cardin's intention to mention the Munsinger affair during the Spencer debate. It was, he contends, simply blurted out by the minister when he was "goaded beyond exasperation" by Opposition attacks.

Narrower Rule

There have been suggestions outside Parliament that it is improper for one government to use reports and information bearing on the operations of a previous government. In fact, as Mr. Pearson pointed out, the rule is much narrower. What cannot be properly used are memoranda to the cabinet or to cabinet committees and records of discussions of the cabinet or its committees. Such papers, he noted, cannot even be seen by the successor government.

The Munsinger affair is instructive in this context. It arose in Conservative days. But it was quite proper, as Mr. Pearson emphasized, for the RCMP at that time to look up immigration records from the period of Liberal rule when Mrs. Munsinger gained entry to Canada.

In his conversation with the commissioner, the prime minister sought information covering a 10-year period which would embrace not merely the Diefenbaker years but also those of the previous Liberal administration. He found it reassuring, as it should be, that there was "only one case of any significance at all." There may be many legitimate criticisms of our MPs but evidently wrong-doers among them are extremely few.

Perfectly Credible

These are the main points of the prime minister's account. It is a perfectly credible explanation, given the atmosphere of November 1964. One can understand how the McClellan testimony, in the absence of an explanation (or further examination by the commission), might have given rise to a different interpretation. But Mr. Pearson's speech, by giving a quite different significance to the commissioner's evidence, easily turned the tide of debate.

Particularly revealing was the defection from the Opposition front of a number of NDP members who evidently felt despite the arguments of their leader that they could support the motion only by refusing to accept the solemn word of the prime minister. They were not willing to do so and the government, in consequence, won an impressive victory.

To the Editor

A Task for Women

I doubt very much the value of Saanich Schools Superintendent McLellan's views in the Times of May 4 ("Boys Will Be All-Boys in Grade 1") expressing the view that primary school boys become troublesome because their life so far has been dominated by women.

While I wholly agree that some boys at grade one level are slower learners than the girls, I cannot see that their upbringing by women up to the primary school level can harm them. In all human cultures the task of child rearing to a certain age — usually until a few years before puberty—belongs primarily to women. In most animal societies it is also the female which spends more time than the male at raising the young. This practice of ours is, therefore, ethnologically universal as well as biologically sound. — G. E. Mundschutz, 45 Regina Ave.

Supremely Queen

On her 40th birthday Elizabeth is supremely Queen. The French are enchanted by her; Americans gladly throw their sternest principles overboard for her; the world acknowledges and we love her.

The Queen and her husband take every opportunity to share the interest of laughter; such was the example set by her father. Let us thank God that this example has been continued.—B. Sekreve, 548 Baston St.

Hold The Line

In reporting their 1966 budget, municipal councils have tried to give the illusion that by holding the line on the mill rate, taxes have been maintained close to last year's rate. This is far from the truth. In the final analysis it is the total taxes in dollars levied which count.

Isn't it about time homeowners woke up and insisted that councils truly hold the line on general costs until the provincial government assumes costs of schools, public health and welfare! Mr. Bennett may find the next election will be decided on this issue.—E. T. T.

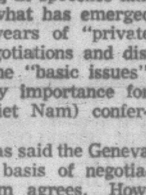
Four Key Themes of a Business Trip



Frye

UNITED Nations diplomats are carefully studying the impact of Secretary-General U Thant's current trip to Europe. Beneath the surface manifestations, they see these key themes. Viet Nam: Thant is calling upon "the parties directly involved in the conflict" to define their objectives more clearly. Specifically he wants them to say whether and if so, how they will carry out the Geneva agreements of 1954, which called for reunification of Viet Nam by free elections.

This, Thant is saying in speeches and press conferences, is what has emerged —after nearly three years of "private and very informal negotiations and discussions"—as one of the "basic issues" which are of "primary importance for discussions at any (Viet Nam) conference table."

The United States has said the Geneva accords could be the basis of negotiations. North Viet Nam agrees. However, Hanoi has outlined "four points" for "implementation" of the accords which Washington believes would simply be a formula for communization of Viet Nam.

Thant is, in effect, asking Hanoi to spell out, and by implication to modify, the four points. He is asking the United States to be specific on how it would propose to implement Geneva.

Rhodesia: The secretary-general is calling on Britain to take "more courageous action" for a "peaceful" settlement of the crisis provoked by Prime Minister Ian Smith's independence grab last November.

Virtually the only significant "peaceful" action not now being attempted would be an extension of current economic sanctions to South Africa, from which country Smith's regime is obtaining enough oil to keep going. Thant appears to be urging this course.

Use of Force

Britain is attempting to negotiate with Smith, and the Africans say they fear a "sell-out." They want Britain to toughen its bargaining position by threatening to crush the rebellious white-supremacy regime by force. The issue is due to be aired anew in the 15-nation UN Security Council next week.

Thant's re-election: The secretary-general has added France to its list of supporters for a second five-year term, beginning in November. Gen. Charles de Gaulle told Thant his qualities "lead us warmly to wish that you pursue your task."

Britain and the United States were already in the bag for re-election. There have been no private hints that the Soviet Union is also willing.

Only Nationalist China, from among the powers that can block Thant with the veto, is uncommitted—and the secretary-general has been very circumspect of late about urging the seating of Red China in the UN.

Thus if the secretary-general wants another term, he probably can have it. He has shown some reluctance to run again—reluctance which many believe to be largely genuine (though it is also good tactics). He has promised a decision this month on his availability.

France and the UN: Related to France's support of Thant's re-election is a distinct warming of relations between Paris and the world organization. Many believe this new atmosphere may soon lead to a French "voluntary contribution" to ease the UN's financial crisis. France has been one of the countries refusing to pay peacekeeping dues. If she "defected" from this group, there would be greater pressure on Russia to pay up.

'Noble Efforts'

Thant helped butter up de Gaulle by praising him for "efforts to achieve a thaw in the cold war," a reference to the general's forthcoming trip to Moscow, and for "noble efforts to bring about new conditions in the light of the changing circumstances in the world . . . You consider the future instead of the past."

These views will produce ironic smiles in Washington, where de Gaulle is regarded as mentally in the 19th century; but Washington will forgive Thant much if he gets Viet Nam off dead centre, stiffens the British on Rhodesia, and extracts money from the French.

Looking Back

From The Times of May 6, 1906:

A voyage of 11 months from Liverpool to Victoria is not a usual one in these days when the journey is sometimes made in the smart time of 103 days. The ship Beacon Rock therefore, which is now discharging at the outer wharf after a trip of the duration first mentioned, is a craft of considerable interest.

The ship ran into mountainous seas off Cape Horn and was in distress for six weeks. At one point a huge sea smashed the pigpen on the forward decks and the pigs had to run to safety.

FLEXIBILITY

What we must do all the time, in trying to see world politics in focus and perspective, is to be ready at any moment to abandon our crude models or working images of how forces are arranged: to remain sensitive to the astonishing speed and completeness with which transformations can take place in our own times; and to think out anew the nature of the relationships which appear, at least for a time, to be attainable between continents, regions, and states.

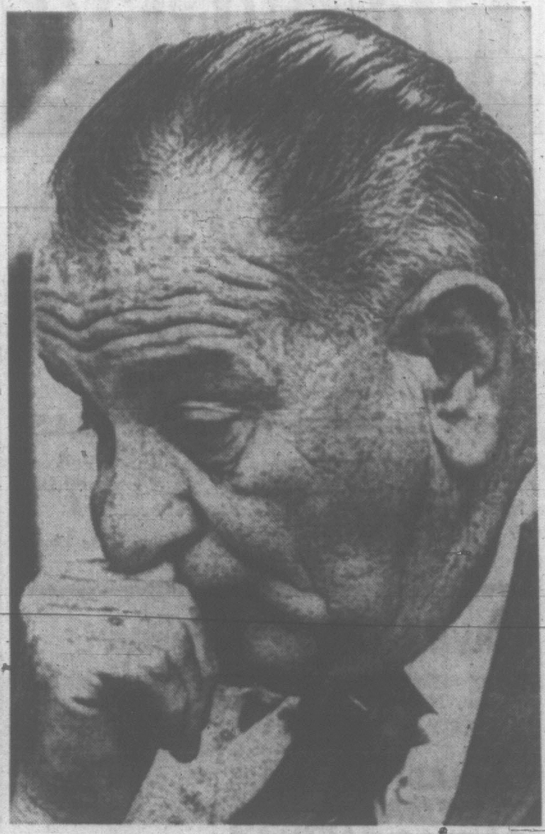
The State of the Consensus

Is President Johnson Providing Leadership?

THE ECONOMIST
By Special Correspondent

The atmosphere in Washington this spring resembles that of Washington in the later Eisenhower period. There is the same bitter criticism of a president who is failing to give America the leadership that his nation-wide popularity would enable him to give and that the country needs, in the opinion of sophisticated Washington, at least.

The president's own Democrats, who are of course in the great majority in the city today, are naturally much more bitter than the Republicans, just because their disappointment is so great, particularly after last year's huge leap toward making the United States a country fit for Americans to live in.



JOHNSON: He Loves to Be Loved

The amount that has already been achieved by President Johnson is one great difference between Washington in 1966 and 1958. Another is that this time the blame can be placed on an outside factor — the war in Viet Nam, a nagging worry that is ever present everywhere.

And a third is that the President shares the dissatisfaction of his critics. He is not a simple man but he has a simple desire to be liked and to do things for people; one has only to see on the television screen his happiness at the enthusiasm of his greeting in Mexico City, his emotional delight when in recent speeches he has recounted all that has been done for the ordinary American during his Administration, to apprciate his frustration at being forced to divert his attention to the seemingly insuperable problems that press in from the outside world.

Moreover, the most immediate of these problems, the war in Viet Nam, is threatening his two great domestic achievements: the establishment of lasting prosperity and his far-reaching program of social improvement.

Boom Inflation Is Imminent

Whether or not the moment would have come, without Viet Nam, when the steady economic expansion that began in 1961 would have blown up into an inflationary boom, this year's extra spending on the war has made that moment imminent.

In New York businessmen and bankers are sure that it arrived some weeks ago, that monetary checks — credit restraints and higher interest rates — have already been applied as tightly as is desirable and that fiscal remedies — higher taxes and lower government spending — are necessary.

In Washington, where the businessmen's approach is only one of many and where there appears to be more realization that the present inflationary influences may not last, and perhaps also because observers there are closer to what is actually happening, there is much more sympathy for the President's determination to hold his tax fire until he sees the whites of the inflation's eyes.

Even last week's booming increases in the gross national product, in new orders for durable goods and in consumer prices did not change Mr. Johnson's mind.

He prefers to wait, for another month at least, until he can judge the effects of the fiscal steps which have already been taken, such as the temporary increases in excise taxes which began in March, and until the future demands of the Vietnamese war can perhaps be estimated more firmly.

The decision to delay is the President's own; his advisers seem to be divided on whethe or not it is desirable. Here at least he has certainly exercised leadership. He has done it in a characteristic way, using all his powers to keep prices down, exhorting businessmen and consumers to do the same, striving for yet another of his famous consensuses.

Would Pay Price For Increases

Thus if he has to request a tax increase he will have made it clear to the people who will be voting in next November's election that it was inevitable. If Mr. Johnson does ask for higher taxes (and this now seems unlikely), he will presumably exert all his influence to push the measure through Congress, and there is little doubt that his request would be granted. But he might have to pay a price in the form of further reductions in appropriations for some of his favorite domestic programs.

Already he and his Administration are being attacked for making those who can least afford it bear the cost of the war in Viet Nam, for cutting back the programs that benefit the poor; the attack comes notably from Senator Robert Kennedy, who is now making an open bid for the leadership of the dissident Democratic left.

Programs Not Really Cut Back

In fact, these programs are not being cut back; it is just that they are not getting as much money as their supporters would like or as might have been offered if so much had not been needed for Viet Nam. How much more could have been satisfactorily spent this year is doubtful.

Probably the poverty program, particularly its various schemes for helping children and training young people, would be able to use more money since it was the first to get started.

But even so, it could hardly come up to the promises that were made for it when it began; Mr. Sargent Shriver, the head of the program, must have regretted this initial over-enthusiasm when he was shouted down at a meeting in Washington two weeks ago. This demonstration was an ominous forecast of what is to be expected during the coming summer, the season of organized protest.

But more fundamental than the war on poverty, because they dig into the roots of the matter, are the health and education programs approved by Congress last autumn; these are putting a great strain on government departments which had to expand and reorganize to deal with them and which would certainly not welcome any more obligations at present.

Professor Galbraith, speaking to the Democratic progressives in Washington recently told them that "our gains under the Johnson Administration on civil rights far outweigh losses on behalf of Marshal Ky."

Said Reputation Was At Stake

But he also warned the President that the "reputation of what would have been the most successful Administration since Roosevelt is in danger of being ruined" by its foreign policy.

Many would say by its lack of foreign policy. It is only here that criticism of the Johnson Administration is really justifiable, but this is the place that matters.

The miserable war in Viet Nam is the over-riding problem, of course, but Europe cannot, or should not, be neglected much longer and another attempted revolution could come in Latin America at any time. So far President Johnson has not found his feet in foreign affairs and this is why Washington is an unhappy place today.

When he looks abroad Mr. Johnson loses the flexibility and drive which characterise his attitude to affairs at home. He is not, it seems, prepared to let his advisers replace this lack. While it is not fair to say, as is often said, that all the best people have left the government and that their successors are second-rate yes-men, yet it is disturbing that Mr. McGeorge Bundy's post as the President's adviser on international matters has been filled, in so far as it has been filled at all, by the less imaginative Mr. Walt Rostow and that Mr. Dean Acheson, growing ever fiercer as he grows older, is now so close to the President.

Undoubtedly there are many men in the State Department and elsewhere who are thinking about new approaches to foreign policy, but the President is not ready to listen to them — or if he is they are not allowed to say so.

It is the apparent absence of planning for long-term solutions, of any decisions on more than a day-to-day or month-to-month basis, that worries the more thoughtful observers in Washington.

Mr. Johnson does not like to commit himself in advance because that keeps him from applying his old senatorial technique of secret dealings with both sides, keeping options open until a basis for agreement is arrived at, something which, as he must be discovering, is not really suited to negotiations with foreign governments.

Great Distrust For Newsmen

It is because newspapermen also force him to commit himself that Mr. Johnson distrusts them so much. He only likes to talk to those who will report as he wants them to report. To him probing journalists are embarrassments to his consensus, not assistants who could help him to explain what he is doing and to educate public opinion.

Indeed, it appears that he does not even appreciate the need to educate public opinion. Senator Fulbright has stepped in with a series of hearings before his Foreign Relations Committee, on Viet Nam, on China, and soon on Europe. In this field the leadership that should come from the White House is now coming from Capitol Hill, even though the country as a whole may not be paying much attention.

BRITAIN'S INDUSTRY CAPTAINS

By DAVID HAWORTH

LONDON—How many years has your current marriage lasted? Do you think the wife of a busy and successful businessman gets a fairly raw deal? How much do you smoke—and drink?

The personal questions like these may seem a long way removed from the problem of Britain's painfully small growth rate and poor export performance. But these were among the 200 inquiries made in a survey of members of the Institute of Directors, which has just been completed. The ultimate responsibility for the country's economic growth belongs to the directors of Britain's 500,000 companies, and until now no one has bothered to ask: who are these men and what are they like?

Very Different

This survey has now provided a broad answer. The British "captain of industry" is, it seems, a very different sort of man from the image painted by popular imagination either at home or abroad.

He most certainly is not an Oxford-educated Colonel Blimp holding multiple directorships and gracefully swanning from office to office in a chauffeur-driven Rolls Royce. Indeed, the survey makes clear he is just the reverse.

Only 18 per cent of the directors who were questioned went to university—a surprisingly small number—and multiple directorships are the exception rather than the rule. The British diector is also a notably abstemious man; 40 per cent of those in the survey classed themselves as "very light social drinkers" and over one-third do not smoke at all.

Self Made

Although their education seems somewhat inadequate and only one-fifth had ever attended a management course, the majority of British directors are self-made men. Their fathers are more likely than not to have been businessmen, but the present-day directors have made their own way, learning as they went. At the end of their careers they represent achievement in the best—or worst—British amateur tradition.

What conclusions of national significance can be drawn from this survey? The government has taken a keen unofficial interest in its results and is likely to have made note of the most depressing feature of all: that almost half of the firms to which the directors belong take no part at all in the present export drive which is vital to Britain's economy. Of the companies which do sell abroad, almost half again say that they could export more "given capital, labor, and other help."

Not Encouraging

Why should they need this help to increase their exports, the government has probably asked itself. It is hardly very encouraging that these leading businessmen should feel they need the active assistance of the government before export prformance can be improved. Top flight businessmen should be able to triumph over shortages of capital if they are really determined to improve export performance.

After that, the fact that 50 per cent of the directors would choose the same wife if they had their time over and that one per cent would not marry at all is little more than an interesting irrelevance.

Simmering Labor Turmoil Trouble for Government

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

British Columbia could be in for a sweaty summer of turmoil in labor-management relations.

Tough bargaining positions are being taken up by both union and company negotiators in a number of key industries which have working agreements coming up for renewal in the next few months.

Mika

The situation could develop into a much bigger headache for the government than last autumn's general strike threat.

It looks as though the government will be put on the spot in successive disputes, not all of which will provide the necessary blend of conditions enabling Premier Bennett to come up a hero as he did with the automation formula that settled the oil industry strike.

Some of the major labor disputes will find the government under heavy pressure from both sides and an increasingly angry public adding to the squeeze.

Lumber Workers

At the moment, most attention is concentrated on the battle involving 27,000 lumber workers and the forestry companies but the construction carpenters and contractors are slugging it out too on a new contract and some 7,000 pulp workers and mill operators also have begun making faces at each other over wage demands.

In the background, and more directly concerning the government, simmers the ferry workers' grievance against new work schedules while the civil servants who most want the right of collective bargaining are bound to be restive since their federal counterparts in this province soon will have it.

But that's not all either. More public pressures of all kinds are bound to build up as the disputes near their climax.

Only this week, a group known as the Committee for Justice and Liberty Foundation, citing the Bible, Bill of Rights and UN Charter, told the cabinet it should abolish union shops.

The controversy between the International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations which represent employers provides a good example of the problems facing the government.

50-Cent Raise

The union wants a 50-cents-an-hour increase in wages and the companies want a gurarantee against wildcat strikes.

If the union ultimately wins most of its wage demands, the industry might blame the government and demand that it rectify the balance by tightening up its labor legislation.

A hint that this may become management's general response to any setbacks in contract disputes came a couple of weeks ago in the complaint of Gordon R. Hodson, general manager of the Heavy Construction Association, who said the government has to share the blame in recent construction cost spirals.

Noting Premier Bennett's warning that ever-higher construction tenders will be met by government decisions to suspend work on such projects as the Centennial Museum-Archives here, Mr. Hodson said the government passed over a chance to nip the situation in the bud in 1965 after having planted the seeds several years ago.

Mr. Hodson contends that it was the 10-year no-strike agreement made by B.C. Hydro with construction contractors and unions working on the Peace and Columbia Rivers that started off the escalating bids.

Work Assured

He argues this means a major segment of the workers is assured of employment even while other parts of the construction industry are shut down by disputes.

"Such a situation serioulsy weakens the bargaining power of the individual organized groups of contractors," he claimed.

"Realizing our dilemma, we asked the government to appoint an industrial inquiry commission to inquire into the many problems which confront our industry in collective bargaining.

"This request was denied and the industry has been criticized ever since for the costly settlements which came out of these negotiations (last year)," he said.

Tiny Frogs Deadly

By GAIL BENSINGER

WASHINGTON—It's a fat kokoa frog that weighs more than a single gram, but the tiny creatures are still the world's deadliest animals. And Marte Latham brought them back alive.

The frogs produce a venom more toxic than any other known. Although natives in the Colombian rain-forest have been using the substance for poison darts for centuries, Mrs. Latham was the first outsider to find kokoas.

She just recently returned from a six-month stay there collecting 190 milligrams of pure venom—from more than 6,000 frogs—for the National Institutes of Health. She also brought some live kokoas (called "phyllobates latinasus" by less poetic zoologists) which are now on display at the National Geographic Society's Explorers Hall here.

Once, when Mrs. Latham was pouring vials of the venom into large bottles for transport, some entered an open wound on her finger. Within two days her hand and forearm had turned blue. Because of extended contact with the venom, the nerves in both her hands were damaged, and her right arm, which received the toxic dose, has almost no feeling. "I've learned to look at what I'm picking up now to make sure I've got hold of it," Mrs. Latham said.

Nerve cells do not mend quickly, she added. "The doctors say almost assuredly the arm will repair within a year."

April 22 Anniversary Slipped By Unnoticed

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA—The wasting away of the enormous prestige that Nobel Peace Prize winner Lester Pearson brought to the prime ministership only three years ago is one of the fascinating stories of our contemporary political life.

Waring

No doubt Mr. Pearson would describe the attrition of his image with some adjective other than "fascinating." So also with his crest-fallen supporters.

But for those of us required to abjure the luxury of partisan loyalties, the deflation of Mr. Pearson's early prospects has gone on long enough to permit a detached study of cause and effect. The perspective isn't exactly historical, but it is considerably better than the short-range view from the Commons' press gallery to Mr. Pearson's seat in the House.

Looking back, I am appalled by the carnage, by the corpses of political reputations, by the wreckage of ideas that crashed on take-off, or were shot down in flames. They serve as milestones over many mud-spattered miles: Gordon, Favreau, Sevigny, Hees, Lamontagne, Tremblay, Dupuis, Rouleau, Chevrier, Davey; the takeover tax, $2 wheat, "outside assistance" on budget preparation, and a seemingly endless procession of government and parliamentary scandals.

Conservative leader John Diefenbaker used to display petty jealousy of Mr. Pearson's Nobel Prize. For all Dief cares now, it could be the Iron Cross.

It is not easy to point a finger and say here is when Prime Minister Pearson started to skid downhill. Perhaps it was the day he accepted the Liberal Party leadership—for the record since that January day in 1958 shows that he was but poorly equipped by temperament and by diplomatic training and experience for the cockpit of the Commons and the hurly-burly of the hustings. He was a nice guy, the Mike of the old days. Still is. It was Lippy Durocher, I believe, who spelled out where nice guys finish.

He's not a tough guy. Not a little despot. But the things he is—fair, considerate, modest, genuine, honest, intelligent, humanitarian, courageous and dedicated—they somehow are not enough when the political knives are out.

If I had to name the turning points for the Grits in the last three years, I'd make number one the decision to run Tom Kent against Tommy Douglas in Burnaby-Coquitlam in the 1963 election. Had Kent been at Mr. Pearson's side during that campaign, as his closest political confidant and most brilliant adviser, the Liberals likely would have won a majority, and much of what happened since would not have happened.

Number two: the disastrous first budget of Walter Gordon that destroyed even Liberal confidence in the PM's chief lieutenant.

Number three: the scandals.

Number four: the unnecessary and futile 1965 election.

Mr. Pearson is amazingly prone to make bad political decisions. The transformation from renowned world statesman to national political leader has hardly been successful, and for practical purposes time has about run out.

Mr. Pearson and his ministers were sworn into office on April 22, 1963. I witnessed their jubilation as they emerged from Government House. Funny how April 22 slipped by almost unnoticed this year. Just another Friday.

SAANICH LOSSES CUT

'Greater Awareness Of Fire Prevention'

Take a moderately-priced new house.

Burn it down.

And that was the extent, financially, of fire losses in Saanich during 1965.

The total fire loss during the year was $18,923,59, just under half the loss in the previous year.

"Last year's fire loss is a very low figure but it is hoped that with a stepped up fire prevention program it can be kept down to this level," said fire chief Joseph Sutherland.

The chief attributed the low loss to the many new homes in fast-growing Saanich which are built to modern specifications and have oil furnaces rather than the old wood and coal ones.

POSTERS TO PUPILS

Other factors included a greater public awareness of fire prevention and actions by the fire department itself, including posters given to children at school for them to take home.

The posters are headed: "A clean house seldom burns."

The Saanich fire department conducted 43 drills in public buildings last year, gave nine fire prevention lectures, inspected 198 sites for safe burning, issued 6,230 forestry and rubbish permits and delivered 3,000 fire prevention posters to municipal schools.

The 56-man staff attended 1,084 alarms, half of them ambulance and resuscitator calls.

The five trucks, two cars and the ambulance travelled 43,634 miles.

What did it all cost the ratepayers?

This year's budget shows expenditure during 1965 was $359,317 ($265,508 of this in salaries for fire-fighters) with an expected expenditure of $443,755 this year.

The $84,000 increase reflects increases in salaries and the full effect of the eight men hired last year to implement the shorter work week.

BIG 'COPTER WILL BE BASED AT PR. RUPERT

HOME GARDEN

Few Generalities And a Lot of Luck!

By HILDA BEASTALL

Gentian blue is a standard of color wherever gardeners get together.

In May we notice many lovely blue flowers — the blue of bluebells (Scilla nutans), blue forget-me-nots, the blue of the Dutch bulbous irises, of the native camass, the attractive polemoniums, the spring ceanothus and the blue spiderwort (Tradescantia).

Hilda

All these we think of as being blue until the gentians bloom.

There are many gentians to brighten our gardens over three seasons, Gentiana acaulis being the first to claim our attention.

It is easily recognized by its trumpets of "gentian" blue on stems two or three inches long. The word acaulis meaning sessile, refers to the stemless leaves.

The intense blue of the trumpets is deepened by the dark markings which run the length of the segments on the inside of the blooms.

If we knew a set of rules to give home gardeners so that all may have success with their gentians, we would be delighted. As it is we can only toss off a few generalities such as their need for good drainage in winter and a unusually sunny slope. It is also said that ground limestone is a necessity in the soil when planting.

On the other hand, I once saw a row of 50 plants of this spring gentian, full of blooms, in the partial shade between long rows of sweet corn.

I've seen gentians in the gravel at the edge of a driveway, in natural rocky outcrops, and in quite ordinary flat flower borders.

If you feel the urge to grow gentians you may be lucky in the choice of site, and if successful, you will be fully repaid by the true blue of the gentian flowers.

Cuba Issues Call For Insurrection

HAVANA (Reuters)—Cuba today called for a campaign of "violence, insurrection and armed struggle" throughout Latin America.

The call came in an editorial in the country's official Communist party organ, Granma, attacking recent statements in the Yugoslav press critical of Cuban positions.

"There is no force capable of restraining the revolutionary struggle of the peoples of America," Granma declared.

The paper said if there were simultaneous risings in various countries of the continent, "Yankee imperialism" would not have sufficient troops to suppress them.

The paper said the victory of the Cuban revolution resulted from conditions of Latin America "and these conditions with Cuba as an example show which is the revolutionary path."

The newspaper rejected a Yugoslav statement that Cuba neglected ideological struggle in favor of an armed struggle. It accused Yugoslavs of being "historically frozen by passivity, inaction, opportunism and appeasement" and denied them the right to give opinions on the character of revolutionary organizations in Latin America.

'Wider Benefits At Less Cost'

Level Out High Rates Charged To Some Group, Inquiry Told

Royal commission on auto insurance wound up its initial hearings here Thursday.

It will resume public hearings in Vancouver sometime after June 10, deadline for receipt of written briefs from all parts of the province.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice R. A. B. Wootton of Victoria, indicated at the opening session Monday the itinerary of its future hearings will be decided on the basis of the number of briefs received from various parts of the province.

Final witness heard in the Law Courts session here was Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) acting as spokesman for the official opposition.

Under cross-examination for several hours, Mr. Macdonald maintained that a government-operated auto insurance scheme would provide wider benefits at less cost than present.

He conceded that a government plan would not have as wide a network of agents as the 1,800 now employed by the 209 private companies operating in the province.

But, he said, such an elaborate apparatus would not be needed under government insurance because 'most accident cases would involve only compensation payments and not disputes over liability.

Premium rates and benefits would be standardized so that information enquiries would be reduced to a minimum.

"Drive-in claims adjustment" stations would be established in principal cities and changes in insurance status could be made by mail.

Mr. Macdonald admitted a government plan probably would seriously affect incomes of some independent agents. He emphasized the purpose was not to hurt agents but to provide better insurance coverage for the public.

He said that present high rates for persons under 25 and over 65 years of age would be levelled out by stretching the premium rates of middle-aged drivers to help cover the risks.

"Many young, and older, drivers are good, safe drivers and there should be recognition of their individual records," he said.

Mr. Macdonald said he was opposed to the present system in which drivers with poor records are permitted to drive if they can afford premium rates of several hundred dollars.

He said a government agency could rule them off the road until they had passed a safe-driving course.

Strikes Up But Less Time Lost

There were more strikes and more workers involved in them last year compared with 1964.

But the amount of time lost, while up on the previous year, amounted to only .17 per cent of the total time worked.

The figures are disclosed in the April edition of the Labour Gazette, published by the federal labor department.

There were 476 strikes last year involving 171,858 workers with a time loss of 2.3 million working days.

In 1964, there were 343 strikes involving 100,535 workers and a time loss of 1.5 million working days.

DON'T BE TEMPTED BY WAGES BEFORE SKILLS DEVELOPED

Most high school dropouts end up in unskilled jobs and have the longest and most frequent periods of unemployment, National Employment Service manager George Bevis warned today.

With summer holidays approaching, there are always a number of students who haven't decided on a career.

"It is this group who, most frequently, are tempted by wages received from summer jobs to continue working instead of returning to school," he said.

But there was a growing demand for technicians and a decreasing need for unskilled workers.

Because most technical jobs and some apprenticeships require at least Grade 12, "it becomes most important that all students be impressed with the need to continue their studies until they have reached their maximum capacities."

It's Not Anything; Just a Wave That Comes and Goes: Expert

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BEATLE JOHN LENNON . . . ready for crew-cut?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Beatles all will get crew-cuts within the next five years and their squealing teen-age admirers will swap army jackets and jeans for dresses, a leading psychiatrist predicted today.

"It's all a passing fad," said Dr. Wladimir Eliasberg of New York, former president of the American Society of Psychoanalytic Physicians.

"I see no deep-rooted behavior disorders in the present tendency of girls to look like boys and boys to look like girls. It's not psychiatric. It's not biological. It's not neurotic.

"It can be traced directly to social factors. It is rebellion—rebellion of the youngsters against their parents and against society."

Eliasberg, 78, German-born, European - educated, well-known author and lecturer, said in an interview that he did not subscribe to the alarm expressed in some quarters that humanity is drifting toward a "uni-sex."

Some boys are going in for shoulder-length hair, lip pomades, false eyelashes and sweet - smelling perfumes. Girls are affecting male haircuts, workmen's boots, heavy belts and military apparel bought from war surplus stores.

"Just a wave," said the psychiatrist. "In my 78 years, I have seen many waves. They come and go."

GIRLS TO BLAME

Eliasberg blamed the girls for turning their boy-friends into perfumed counterparts.

"Girls, teen - agers especially, abhor cave - man types," he said. "They no longer want to be dominated. They want boy companions who are subordinate to them in strength, who are senitive and who talk a lot. They don't want masters. They want equals, or less.

"This naturally appeals to some boys. This is their weapon against the popularity of the muscle-bound athletes. They let their hair grow, they adopt feminine attributes and the girls swoon."

The psychiatrist said there were definite contradictions in these patterns.

"For instance, the boy will let his hair grow like a girl's and then cultivate a beard, which is very masculine. On the other hand, the girls let their hair fall sexily over their shoulders and put on boys' pants.

"That proves there is nothing to worry about. . . .After a while, girls will want their men to be strong again and the boys will start drifting toward the effeminate girls. Then we will sit back and wait for another wave."

Speech Ambiguous, Quebec MLA Admits

QUEBEC (CP)—"If I had it to do over again, I wouldn't," Guy Lechasseur, legislative assembly Speaker and centre of a controversy involving government control of the press, said Tuesday.

Mr. Lechasseur was referring to a speech he gave last Wednesday which was interpreted as advocating government control of news media.

Admitting that his speech was in some respects vague and subject to misinterpretation, the Liberal MLA from Vercheres said what bothered him most about the reaction to the speech was the effect it might have on Premier Jean Lesage, who faces a provincial election June 5.

"I'm sorry I made the speech," he said in an interview. "I've been very embarrassed by this. I didn't want to stir up all this controversy. I am not a fanatic and I hate fanaticism and regimentation."

'SHOULD HAVE ETHICS'

What he wanted to suggest in his speech was news media in general—anyone responsible for providing the public with information, and newspaper men in particular—should have professional training, standards and ethics.

The other suggestion he wanted to make in his speech, he said, was that the government should set up a ministry of information which would gather, co-ordinate and distribute government information.

However, he admitted the speech was ambiguous and that there were sections where the two proposals became mixed up, leading to the possibility of interpreting his words as advocating some degree of "control" over all "social communications."

The speaker said he took the blame for the "misinterpretation" upon himself. His words had been reported accurately.

SELF-TAUGHT biologist, Gaston Naessens, was sentenced in absentia Thursday in Paris, to two years in prison and 10 years loss of civil rights on charges of false pretences. Naessens, who claimed to be able to cure leukemia, is said to be doing cancer research in the U.S.

Eskimo Hunting Rights Upheld

OTTAWA (CP)—The government of the Northwest Territories cannot enact laws restricting hunting rights of Eskimos, the Supreme Court of Canada was told Thursday.

A. E. Williams of Yellowknife, appearing for Eskimo hunter Sigeareak of Whale Cove, said the N.W.T. Council can make laws relating to preservation of game but that these laws are subject to an act of Parliament which says no territorial ordinance can restrict "Indians or Eskimos from hunting for food."

A full bench of nine judges reserved judgment on an appeal by Sigeareak against a Territorial High Court decision finding him guilty of abandoning game fit for consumption contrary to N.W.T. law.

Sigeareak killed three caribou in July, 1964 and took only parts of the animals. A few months later an RCMP constable found the remainder of the carcasses in a badly-decomposed condition.

Police Magistrate P. B. Parker refused to convict the hunter because he felt bound by a previous N.W.T. High Court decision which said N.W.T. hunting laws do not apply to Eskimos. The Crown appealed to the Territorial Court of Appeal which reversed the decision.

Mr. Williams also said the Royal proclamation of 1763 has the force of a statute as far as Indians and Eskimos are concerned. The proclamation assures the native peoples of continued unfettered hunting rights.

MEMORIAL SERVICES IN HOLLAND

'Heroes We Owe Our Liberation'

BERGEN OP ZOOM, Holland (CP)—Some 1,400 Canadian soldiers who lie buried here were described by a Royal Dutch Air Force chaplain Thursday as "the young heroes to whom we owe our liberation."

At a memorial ceremony for Canadians killed in Holland in the Second World War, and attended by many children, the chaplain, Rev. Henrik Laan, spoke of the events of 1944-45. He said the youngsters should know about them, and about a debt of gratitude they and their families owe Canada.

Canadian Ambassador W. F. Bull and his wife also attended the rites, held at the Canadian military cemetery here. Units of the Canadian 4th Infantry Brigade formed a guard of honor and the Canadian national anthem was played by the band of the Royal Dutch Engineers.

This town of 35,000 is in Zeeland province near the Scheldt Estuary, where Canadian soldiers engaged the Germans in some of the bitterest fighting of the war.

It was 21 years ago Thursday that German forces in Holland surrendered.

Tory MP Resigns

OTTAWA (CP)—The resignation of Conservative MP Clement Vincent, who plans to enter Quebec provincial politics, was formally announced to the Commons Wednesday. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux said he has asked for a writ of election for Mr. Vincent's riding of Nicolet-Yamaska. This gives the government six months in which to set a date for a byelection.

SPOKANE MAN

City Exchange Chief Named

By AB KENT
Times Business Writer

President G. C. "Pat" George of the Spokane Stock Exchange is slated to become working president of the revived Victoria Stock Exchange, with trading floors here and in Vancouver.

Vancouver mining, real estate and investment dealer Stanley E. Cropper today confirmed that a group of Vancouver, Victoria and American businessmen are picking up the unlapsed charter of the old Victoria exchange that was granted in 1911.

Mr. George, he said, has discussed the re-establishment of the old Victoria exchange with superintendent of brokers William Irwin and the group is confident of getting government support.

So far there has been no discussion with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whose written consent must be given to setting up a stock exchange.

Mr. George is an experienced man in his field, Mr. Cropper said.

CURB SECTION

The Spokane exchange deals about 80 per cent in unlisted, or curb market stocks, the Vancouver man said.

It would be the intention of the Victoria exchange to pick up companies trading shares on the Vancouver Stock Exchange "unlisted" board, he said.

VSE is dropping its unlisted market June 6 in an effort to tighten up market control and encourage proper listing. Exchange president Jack Van Luven said Thursday many of the unlisted companies can't qualify for VSE listing.

MAIN FLOOR

Mr. Cropper said Mr. George intends to establish residence in Vancouver, where the Victoria Stock Exchange would have its main trading floor and expect to handle most of its business.

"It is essential that it be handled by the most senior and qualified and experienced men in the business," he said.

Mr. Cropper said that since the first announcement of the revival in the Times Wednesday he has had requests for seats on the Victoria exchange.

POLICE FIRMS

By taking all unlisted stocks into one exchange, a burden will be lifted from the superintendent of brokers by helping his staff police companies better, Mr. Cropper said.

SUMMARIES

Wall St. Battered Again

Wall Street made a feeble attempt to recover and then was battered by another heavy wave of selling late this afternoon. The ticker tape lagged five minutes behind transactions.

Another stiff loss was in the making as IBM sank nearly 17 points, Zenith and Eastern Air Lines 3, Xerox 11, Polaroid 4½, Texas Instruments 6 or more.

General Motors was down between 1 or 2 points, touching new lows.

Brokers said the fresh wave of selling arose from disappointment over failure of a rally to develop.

Four mines dipped to new lows in a generally bearish morning on the exchange.

Casino was off four to 96 cents; Chataway lost 10 cents to $1.30; New Cronin was down Titan lost 15 to $3.15—all new lows.

Other losers were Arlington down three to 60 cents; Buttle Lake off 10 to $1.25 and Lornex down 20 to $6.30.

Dynasty reversed the trend and rose 75 cents to $13.25.

CPR WEST HEARINGS OPENING SATURDAY

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the Commons transport committee left by air today for Vancouver to begin a series of cross-country hearings on CPR passenger train service.

The 24-member committee, under the chairmanship of Joe Macaluso (L—Hamilton West), has scheduled its opening hearings in the Vancouver courthouse Saturday at 10 a.m. local time.

Wine Sales Booming

Total sales nearly $1 million more than in 1964 are reported in the 1965 annual report by Calona Wines Ltd.

President Pasquale Capozzi reported the hefty increase continues through the first quarter of 1966, during which sales are 27 per cent ahead of last year.

Sales in 1965 were just under $3 million, he said. net profit was $357,806. In 1964 sales amounted to $1,472,922 with a net profit of $217,465.

The president said Calona is the first place producer of grape wines in B.C. and is determined to increase its lead over other producers.

The company has been granted Ontario listing and has shipped its first carload of wine to eastern Canada.

During the year, five new wines were added to the list produced in the Okanagan winery at Kelowna, bringing the total to 18.

A new quality control laboratory was built and this year it is planned to modernize the bottling plant, Mr. Capozzi said.

He said Calona paid the federal government $839,666 in direct taxes last year and provincial revenue from sales of Calona products came to $1.7 million.

Growers Wine, of Victoria, is a major shareholder in Calona, in 1964 having 16,857 of the then issued 77,712 shares. Capozzi Enterprises Ltd., of Kelowna, held 35,961.

Exchange Man Named

Vancouver lawyer Angust C. Ree, 36, has been appointed legal administrative assistant to the Vancouver Stock Exchange, president Jack Van Luven said Thursday.

He is a law graduate of the University of B.C., 1953, after which he spent six years in the army with the judge advocate general's department.

Mr. Ree then practised law in Vancouver before joining the legal department of Trans-Mountain Oil Pipeline Co. in 1964.

Economy of B.C. Vulnerable—Kiernan

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Recreation and Conservation Minister Ken Kiernan said Thursday British Columbia has "perhaps the most vulnerable economy in North America."

Since the province depends heavily on world markets and export trade "a 10 per cent slack-off on our foreign sales could very seriously affect the economy of this province."

The minister made the comment to the annual convention of the B.C. Wildlife Federation in response to calls for the government to use some of its budgetry suprlus for conservation.

He said a treasury surplus is essential as a financial buffer because of the province's economy and its dependence on world markets.

He also urged delegates to practise the "art of government" to attain its objectives. The "art of government," he said, is the art of "reconciliation of diverse interests."

Progress at all levels, including recreation and conservation, must be obtained by developing "a broad and tolerant viewpoint, listening to the other fellow even if you don't agree with him."

Forests and Resources Minister Ray Williston told the convention that the government intends that "a vast part of the province will remain water, mountain tops and forests" even in the face of industrial growth.

ALCAN ALUMINIUM LIMITED and the short of it !

ALCAN

Alcan Aluminium Limited is the new name the shareholders have just approved for the parent company of the Alcan group, formerly Aluminium Limited. The French name is Alcan Aluminium Limitée, and these new names are now in effect.

The main object in making "Alcan" the key word in the Company's name is to increase recognition of both the parent and its subsidiaries as an integrated international enterprise.

The name ALCAN also identifies the company more closely with the products of ALCAN companies, which are sold under the widely-known ALCAN name all over the world.

The trade name and mark was registered in Canada in 1945 and is owned by the Company's principal subsidiary Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd which represents some 60% of the parent company's $1.6 billion net assets. Assets of other Canadian operating subsidiaries are in excess of $60 million.

Other subsidiaries, each with net assets of $10 million or more, operate in U.S.A., U.K., Germany, Italy, South Africa, Australia, British Guiana, Jamaica, Brazil and Argentina. These and some smaller group companies operate in a total of 30 countries.

GM Lays Off Hundreds

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Several hundred U.S. auto production workers have been laid off and hundreds more face unemployment because General Motors Corp. is cutting production for the first time in five years.

GM, the world's largest automaker, said Thursday the cuts were to "get production schedules in line with current stocks in the field."

At the same time, Ford scheduled 10 of its assembly plants on overtime operations Saturday. Chrysler and American Motors were on regular five-day weeks.

All the companies were expected to be mentioned today in Senator Abraham Ribicoff's report on auto defects.

The Connecticut Democrat, head of a Senate subcommittee investigating auto safety, recently asked the four major U.S. auto firms to list all manufacturing and design defects found in cars since 1960.

SENT LISTS

GM, Ford, Chrysler and AMC sent their lists to Washington Thursday. They are due to make them public in Detroit at exactly the hour that Ribicoff begins a Washington press conference today.

The newest development in the government's efforts to reduce highway fatalities came as GM revealed the production cut.

GM made no announcement of the cuts, but in answer to questions said Chevrolet lines in Ypsilanti, Mich., and Van Nuys, Calif., and GM assembly units in Atlanta, Ga., and South Gate, Calif. were on short work time this week.

Later in the day, the list was expanded to include four New York plants.

About 700 Chevrolet workers were made idle Thursday at Tonawanda, N.Y., and told not to report for work today. The workers, all Corvair assembly-line workers, were told they would be idle the same days next week.

GM's Harrison Radiator division said there would be partial shutdown today in its Lockport and Buffalo, N.Y., plants. The number of workers affected was not disclosed.

WILL BE IDLE

The firm's Delco products division said 2,500 of the Rochester, N.Y., plant's 4,300 workers would be idle May 13.

Announcement of GM's cuts was listed as one of the reasons for a drop in the New York stock market Thursday. GM fell to $88, a low for the year.

Figures released by GM indicated the firm sold 404,407 new cars in April, a drop of 15,820 from totals for April, 1965. Corvair sales accounted for most of this decline, dropping 11,861 to 7,903.

Industry sources generally were reluctant, however, to blame the auto safety hearings for the sales decline. They noted that sales in April, 1965 were unusually high because of consumer demand built up during the auto strikes of late 1964.

Women Outraged

JAKARTA (Reuters)—The Indonesian Women's Action Front has demanded that film stars allegedly involved in sex scandals with former cabinet ministers be put on trial for "outraging the dignity of womanhood."

Registration Rate Soars

Registration of new B.C. companies in the past six months is nearly 100 per cent greater than in the same six-month period five years ago.

Records at the office of registrar of companies show that in April alone there were 435 new firms listed within the province, or better than 14 a day.

The registry shows 2,620 companies listed in the period November, 1965-April, 1966, compared with 2,252 in the preceding six months between May and October.

The six-month total ending last month is almost 20 per cent higher than the 2,199 companies registered in the province during the same period ending with April, 1965.

Labor Asks Action by Peterson In Firings by Electric Company

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Federation of Labour Thursday asked Labor Minister Peterson to intervene in a dispute involving 257 workers dismissed last week by Lenkurt Electric Co. of Canada Ltd after a wildcat walkout.

The labor body warned in a wire to Mr. Peterson that the dispute could "spread and involve other unions and operations."

The Lenkurt employees walked off the job in protest at being told to work overtime, claiming the company had promised there would be no overtime while contract negotiations were under way.

Lenkurt, Canada's largest manufacturer of telecommunications equipment, countered by firing the 257 workers and advertising for replacements.

Company president C. W. Hunter said Thursday 1,800 applications have been received, including 65 from discharged employees. He said more than 90 have been hired, including 20 ex-employees.

NOT ACCEPTABLE

Art O'Keefe, business manager of Local 213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (CLC), said on Wednesday, however, that the company's rehiring terms were not acceptable.

"The workers will lose all their seniority and their previous pension credits won't be restored until after five years of service from the date of rehiring," Mr. O' Keefe said.

In a wire to Labor Minister Peterson, the B.C. Federation of Labour said:

"There is every possibility that the Lenkurt dispute will spread and involve other unions and operations. It is seriously questioned whether trade unions will tolerate the cavalier attitude of Lenkurt Electric Co. toward its employees. Urge your department to attempt to resolve this dispute before it becomes more troublesome."

Federation secretary Pat O'Neal declined to say how the dispute would spread or which other unions of companies could become involved.

OIL DELIVERIES UP

Deliveries of petroleum by Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line Co. in April are up 17 per cent over the same month last year.

Daily average during the month was 259,264 barrels compared with 214,207 barrels a day in April, 1965.

MPs Pepper Auto Pact

'Confirms Complete Domination Of Industry by U.S. Interests'

By GERARD McNEIL

The Opposition tried twice Thursday to amend the government resolution asking Commons approval for the major agreement.

The first amendment, to send the matter to the standing committee on energy and national resources, was ruled out of order.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux indicated that a second amendment, requiring prior parliamentary approval before the agreement is reviewed in 1968, will go the same way.

Conservative and New Democrat MPs from Ontario ridings where the auto industry is important peppered criticism at the pact.

Alfred D. Hales (PC—Wellington South) said it was supposed to lower the price of cars in Canada. But 80,000 Chryslers shipped to the U.S. sold for an average $615 less than the same models in this country.

He and other Conservatives said Industry Minister Drury's contention that the agreement had created 10,500 new jobs in the industry might be correct.

But these were assembly line jobs, calling for unskilled workers, they claimed.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) said the machine tool industries that produce auto parts and employ highly skilled workers are being disabled.

Auto manufacturers were importing parts from the U.S. and having them assembled in Canada.

Opposition MPs also said the 11-per-cent federal sales tax on production machinery posed a severe handicap for Canadian parts manufacturers trying to sell in the U.S.

"Canada is one of the few countries in the world that has been so cleverly able to discriminate against its own industry," said Reid Scott (NDP—Toronto Danforth).

Mr. Scott said Canadian MPs had to get most of their information on the plan from hearings in Washington.

Like other opposition MPs, Mr. Scott indicated approval would be coming.

FOR GERMAN SCIENTISTS

Canada Sets Series Of Rocket Firings

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The National Research Council has authorized the firing of six Canadian-made Black Brant rockets at Fort Churchill in northern Manitoba this summer and fall for West German scientists, it was learned today.

The research rocket range at Churchill now under the management of NRC is operated for the joint benefit of Canadian and American scientists.

The range has been made available by a joint Canada-U.S. committee. Canada will act as the sponsor of the shots for West Germany's scientific team engaging in upper atmosphere research.

The West German government has purchased six rockets from Canadian Bristol Aerojet Ltd. of Winnipeg. Bristol will also provide telementry equipment for the experiments.

There will be three stages of experiments each using two rockets. In the first experiment to be launched in the week starting Aug. 15 two Black Brant fives will be fired. They are 17 inches in diameter and 28 feet long and are used for high altitude research.

In the first two firings clouds of barium in vapour form will be released at some 230 miles up. The results will be recorded by photographic and photo electric means.

In the second experiment two Black Brant threes will be fired in the week commencing August 15. They are 10 inches in diameter and 18 feet long. In this experiment instruments will be carried aloft to measure the composition of the earth's atmosphere.

The third experiment will also require the use of two Black Brant threes. Tentative date for the third stage is late in 1966. Object of the third stage is the measurement of diffused light and to determine the amounts of light at different altitudes together with dust concentration in the atmosphere.

Results of the firings will be made available to scientists all over the world.

'Won't Accept Invitation'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A British Columbia Supreme Court justice said Wednesday he will refuse any invitation to head a conciliation board involving a dispute of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers and Canadian Railways.

Mr. Justice Craig Munro issued a statement two days after the CBRT said it would not join in an invitation to ask the justice to head the board.

A statement issued to the press said:

"The CBRT are perfectly entitled to ask for another chairman for their board and I shall respect their wishes by refusing to accept appointment to that board."

PM REVEALS

Disaster Legislation Under Study

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister L. B. Pearson disclosed in the Commons Thursday that his government has been giving consideration to introducing disaster legislation so that the federal government could deal with such developments on a different basis than in the past few years.

"We have been giving consideration to this situation for some time. I hope that the progress of parliamentary business will enable us before long to deal with this matter of disasters on a somewhat different basis than the pragmatic way in which we have been approaching it over the years," said Mr. Pearson.

He was replying to H. W. Herridge (NDP — Kootenay West). The B.C. member said "as a pragmatic socialist" he wanted to know if the government was going to take any action to pass legislation regarding disaster situations in the light of the Manitoba flood?

Mr. Pearson replied that "as a pragmatic Liberal as well as a convinced one, I would naturally want to give consideration to such a bill." He said the government was very much aware of the problem.

In the Manitoba flood situation this year the federal government, following the policy set in the 1950 Manitoba crisis, provided 75 per cent of the flood fighting costs.

Henri's Shady Goal In Overtime Gives Canadiens the Cup

DETROIT (CP)—Henri Richard borrowed a page from his famous brother's notebook Thursday night and scored at 2:20 of overtime to give Montreal Canadiens a 3-2 victory over Detroit Red Wings and with it the Stanley Cup before 15,154 fans.

It might not have been as pretty as others scored by the crafty little centre, or as fabulous as many scored by his brother, but it gave Montreal the best-of-seven series 4-2.

It was the first time Henri scored in overtime in Stanley Cup play compared with a record six overtime goals by the now-retired Maurice Richard in 15 explosive playoff series.

And it came in the Detroit Olympia, scene of one of the Rocket's greatest playoff feats, overtime goals in successive games that allowed Montreal to rebound from a two-game deficit and beat Detroit in the 1951 semi-final.

By coincidence, the same pattern was followed in both series with the Red Wings winning the first two games in Montreal only to have the Canadiens storm back with four successive victories.

No Comeback Win

The comeback marked only the second time in cup play that a final series has been won by a club losing the first two games. The other was in 1942 when Toronto Maple Leafs lost the first three and roared back to beat Detroit.

From start to finish, it was a lusty, wide-open game as both sides threw everything into the fray. Action seldom let up and reached a peak in the closing minutes of regulation time when first Montreal and then Detroit missed glorious chances to get the winning goal.

While Richard suggested after the game he would rather have seen a more prominent member of his team get the winner, it was the play of the 160-pound centre that had as much as anything to do with Montreal's comeback.

Richard referred to Jean Beliveau and J. C. Tremblay, outstanding in both the semi-final and final series, and top candidates for the Conn Smythe Trophy awarded to the outstanding player in the playoffs.

The trophy was awarded by the National Hockey League governors to Detroit goalie Roger Crozier.

He Sparked 'Em

Montreal didn't begin to overpower the Red Wings in this series until the 30-year-old Richard returned to form after recovering from a leg injury suffered late in the season and reinjured in the semi-finals against Toronto.

Detroit won the first two games 3-2 and 5-2 before losing 4-2, 2-1, 5-1 and 3-2.

Richard said the puck bounced into the net off his arm, but Crozier and Detroit defenceman Gary Bergman said Richard pushed it into the goal with his hand.

Several Red Wings protested the goal briefly to referee Frank Udvari, but to no avail.

Prior to Richard's winner, Beliveau and Leon Rochefort gave Montreal a 2-0 lead and Norm Ullman and Floyd Smith brought the Wings level to force the overtime.

Canyens' 15th Cup

This was the fifth time Montreal has won the cup after taking the league championship and the 15th in Stanley Cup history Montreal has won.

Under coach Toe Blake, who conceded the Wings were the better club Thursday night, Montreal has won seven Cups in 11 years and eight league titles.

The Cup triumph is a record for Blake, 53, who has suggested that for reasons of health he might retire.

The league title and playoff series victories by the Habs meant $5,750 for each regular member of the club. The victory in the final was worth $2,000 a man.

The Red Wings won $2,750 each for finishing fourth in the regular season, winning their semi-final over Chicago Black ers' share in the final.

CONN SMYTHE TROPHY AWARDED TO CROZIER

DETROIT (CP)—Roger Crozier, the brilliant netminder of Detroit Red Wings, was named Thursday the winner of the Conn Smythe Trophy as the most valuable player in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The award, won in its inaugural year in 1965 by captain Jean Beliveau, of Montreal Canadiens, was decided by the six National Hockey League governors.

Crozier won $1,000 with the award.

Despite the fact Crozier played in a losing cause in the Stanley Cup final, it was his brilliance that kept Detroit in the chase. He was instrumental in Detroit's victories in the first two games of the series.

SAYS RICHARD

Didn't Deserve To Score Winner

DETROIT (CP)—While the man who scored the winning goal thought it should have gone to someone else and the opposing coach and goaltender believed it should have been disallowed, the Stanley Cup rests once again with Montreal Canadiens.

Henri Richard, who had gone eight playoff games without a goal, accounted for the overtime tie-breaker that beat Detroit Red Wings 3-2 Thursday night and brought Montreal the Cup for the seventh time in 11 seasons.

In the hubbub of the celebrating Canadiens' dressing room, Richard sat quietly in a corner peeling off his equipment and mused that the goal should have gone "to someone who played well for all the series."

"It should have been someone like J. C. Tremblay or (Jean) Beliveau who played well all through the series that got that goal, not me," Richard said.

"It was a lucky one. (Dave) Balon gave it to me from the corner and someone grabbed my stick and pushed me," he said, adding that the puck hit him when he fell and went into the net past Detroit goaltender Roger Crozier.

"Richard was sliding across after he fell and he hit the puck with his hand into the net," Crozier said.

"I asked the referee (Frank Udvari) if it was a good goal and he said it was, and I never saw them change their minds yet."

Detroit coach Sid Abel was dejected by the sudden turn of events that overcame his club at 2:20 of overtime.

"My only wish is that the game had been decided on a clean, hard-shot goal," he said. "I asked Roger about it and he told me Richard had gloved the shot into the net.

A jubilant Toe Blake, who has coached Canadiens to their last seven Cup wins, admitted that he thought "they outplayed us but we still won."

Blake was busy parrying questions with reporters as to his plans for next season.

"This is a bad time to say anything about retiring. I've got a winner now, but maybe I'll be back next season."

Detroit veteran Bill Gadsby is not certain he'll return.

Gadsby, a 20-year man in the league and who has yet to be a member of a Stanley Cup team, played Thursday night wih a special protector attached to the boot of his right skate to protect a broken big toe on that foot

Gadsby said he would consider a coaching offer if it's "from Detroit."

Question Mark Hovering Over Bucks' Goalies

Hal Laycoe never has been credited with an official degree in psychology, but people closest to the Western Hockey League scene generally agree the Portland manager-coach is an artist with "the needle."

And psychology culd be the major manouevre in Laycoe's efforts to revive his Buckaroos in the best-of-seven final against Victoria Maple Leafs.

Leafs lead the Lester Patrick Trophy series 2-1, and hope to bring Victoria its first professional hockey championship in 15 years by wrapping up the final with victories tonight and Saturday at Memorial Arena.

Laycoe hasn't said it out loud, but he must be aware of the fact the Bucks are playing below the form that marked their march to first place in the regular campaign.

OFF FORM

The Bucks turned in their poorest performance of this year's playoffs Tuesday night in Portland, losing 4-1.

If Laycoe plans any lineup changes, he hasn't revealed them. That means Hal may rely strictly on his psychological bag of tricks in an effort to "work up" the Portland team.

Past history indicates Laycoe has had considerable success with the mental "needle."

The Portland team arrived in Victoria late Thursday night, and Laycoe hung the "do not disturb" sign on their hotelroom doors this morning.

BET CHARRON

The big question mark hangs over the Portland goaltending position.

There has been talk of veteran Don Head returning. Head, who has been troubled with a groin injury since midway in the regular season, hasn't seen much action lately and the betting is that rookie Rick Charron will again start for Portland tonight.

Dave Kelly, who was Portland's regular after Head was injured, is also available.

All three goaltenders are capable.

Victoria coach Frank Mario plans no lineup changes and feels "optimistic" about the Leafs' chances of completing the series on home ice.

"The team is in a good frame of mind," he said. "They know they can't let down against Portland . . . not for a minute."

ROM KNOTT PARK OPENS ON SUNDAY

Opening of the new Rom Knott Memorial Park, Wallace Drive and Sluggett Road, in Brentwood is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday — and not Saturday, as reported in Wednesday's Times.

Dedication of the park will coincide with the opening of the Colwood and District Softball Association.

Mt. View, Oak Bay Triumph

Steve Hume was Mount Doug's only double winner, taking the 880 and mile.

Oak Bay had little trouble with Brentwood College, sweeping eight out of nine track events and four of six field events for a 98-68 victory.

Oak Bay's Brian Howe won the pole vault and the 100. Brentwood victories came in the mile, triple jump and discus.

Ron Leopold Leads Miners

CALGARY (CP) — Drumheller Miners, paced by forward Ron Leopold, Thursday downed Sherbrooke Beavers 6-3 in the first game of the best-of-seven Allan Cup senior hockey final.

The Miners downed the defending champion Beavers on the strength of a big effort in the third period. The first was scoreless and the second ended in a 2-2 tie. A crowd of 1,536 watched the contest.

The Beavers' playing-coach Georges Roy said Calgary's 3,500-foot altitude above sea level tired his players and "we plan to bring in some oxygen to help us in the next game."

Drumheller coach Roy Kelly said his club was fired up and "hungry" because for several of them, this is their last season in the Alberta Senior League.

Industrial Bats Beat Merry Tune

The Industrial Softball League is shaping up as a hitter's league.

A total of 87 runs were scored in four games played Thursday night.

Island Tug tripped Victoria Plywood 12-3; Bapco downed Yarrows 11-3; Post Office stuck RCMP 17-10, and Shepherd's defeated Orphans 21-10.

GOLF WINNERS

Mrs. H. Haynes and Mrs. J. Gillan finished 1-2 in a hidden hole competition for ladies at Uplands Golf Club Thursday.

'Shoe' Aboard Favorite In Bid to Tie Record

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bill Shoemaker, trying to become the first jockey in 64 years to ride two Kentucky Derby winners in a row, climbs aboard pre-race favorite Abe's Hope in Saturday's 92nd Derby.

Abe's Hope, from the Grand Prix Stable of Joe Bartell and Robert Byfield, was made a 5-2 favorite by the Churchill Downs handicapper Thursday.

The Kentucky Derby will be telecast by CBS (Channels 7 and 12) and CBC (Channels 2 and 6), starting at 2 p.m. (PDT.)

A field of 16, including two questionable starters, were entered Thursday, each adding $500 to the Derby pot. If all start, the 1¼-mile classic will gross $164,000. If any drop out, its starting fee of $1,000 will be subtracted from the total.

TRAILS ARCARO

Second choice at 7-2 before the betting starts was shared by Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Stupendous, carrying the colors of the Wheatley Stable, and Kauai King, owned by Michael J. Ford of Omaha.

Reginald Webster's Amberoid was next at 6-1.

Shoemaker, beginning to grey a little at 34, will be starting in his 15th Derby, more than any other active rider. The retired Eddie Arcaro holds the all-time record with 21 appearances and six winners.

Shoemaker has won three times, including last year with Lucky Debonair.

RECORD SET IN 1902

Still in doubt as Derby starters are Sean E Indian, with a bothersome leg scratch, and Blue Skyer.

"They just talked me into entering," trainer Jim Padgett said after he pulled a surprise and made Blue Skyer the last entry in the box.

The field, in order of post position, with jockeys and probable odds:

1—Amberoid (Boland) 6-1;
2—Blue Skyer (Broussard) 20-1;
3—Stupendous (Baeza) 7-2;
4—Rehabilitate (Turcotte) 20-1;
5—Advocator (Sellers) 12-1;
6—Dominar (Harmatz) 20-1;

11—Tragnew (Pierce) 10-1;
12—Kauai King (Brumfield) 7-2;
13—Abe's Hope (Shoemaker) 5-2;
14—Sean E Indian (Fires) 20-1;

LYNN PATRICK NAMED TO LEAD BLUES' BAND

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lynn Patrick, general manager and coach of Los Angeles Blades of the Western League, was named general manager Thursday of the new St. Louis National Hockey League franchise.

Sidney Salomon, president of the new club, the St. Louis Blues, said it has not been decided whether Patrick also will coach. Blues do not begin playing until the 1967-68 season.

Patrick was at Los Angeles the last two seasons. Formerly, he coached New York Rangers and Boston Bruins of the NHL. He was the Boston general manager from 1954-57 and was vice-president and general manager from 1957-65.

Double by Price Keeps Lions Going

Dave Price's two-run double Thursday night gave Red Lion Inn a 6-4 victory over Carlings at Heywood Park.

Carlings had taken a 4-3 lead into the sixth inning when the Lions struck.

Losing pitcher Wade Burns walked Stan Stewart, gave up a single to Roy St. Denis. Up came Price and that was the ball game.

BOTTLE-FLINGING . . . . . . BRINGS 20 ARRESTS

Scots Haven't Changed Much

GLASGOW (AP) — Twenty appear in court today for greeting a German team in Scottish fashion—with a barrage of bottles.

The bottles showered down from the terraces of Hampden Park Stadium as Borussia Dortmund took their lap of honor after slamming Liverpool 2-1 to win the European Cup Winners Cup.

The 20 arrests were roughly par for the course for a big-time soccer match in Glasgow, and far from the record. A recent encounter between the city's two top teams, Rangers and Celtic, ended with three dead from heart attacks and a dozen in hospital.

Borussia grabbed its victory—first for a German club in a major European competition—with a fantastic goal in the 16th minute of extra time.

Sigi Held, a brilliant centre-forward, raced through alone. Thomas Lawrence, the Liverpool goalkeeper, sped out to make a desperate dive at the edge of the penalty area.

The ball soared way out to the right wing where Stan Libuda hit it first time with a long slow lob. Lawrence lay helpless as the ball floated into the far corner of the Liverpool goal.

Liverpool had equalized and won through to extra time only on a 70th minute goal by inside-right Roger Hunt which the Germans claimed came from a pass beyond the byeline.

Borussia's first goal was scored in the 62nd minute by Held from 15 yards.

The match was a grim defensive battle but for the most part played with even temper by two of the toughest teams in Europe, both winners of their leagues this season.

Ontario Mud Bogs Drivers

By WALTER HAYES

OTTAWA (CP)—Twenty-seven battered and bent cars, all that remains of the original field of 60, left here early today on the final leg of the 4,000-mile Vancouver-Quebec City car rally.

They arrived here Thursday night caked with mud and minus four of their number that fell by the wayside during the 14-hour grind from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—said by many of the drivers to have been the toughest of the rally.

A huge mudhole on a dirt road about 30 miles from Sault Ste. Marie caught at least a dozen cars. They bogged down in the thick mud and many lost valuable penalty points because of the delay.

Four cars were disqualified Thursday, three because of excessive time. The other, trying to make up time after getting free from the mud, left the road and was too badly damaged to continue.

The slimy mud also took its toll of two of the top five drivers.

Ewen Graham and Henry Acteson, both of Calgary, dropped 30 penalty points after becoming stuck and fell from second to third place.

Fourth-place Rosemary Smith of Dublin, Ireland, and her co-driver Ann Coombe of Toronto, dropped from fourth to eighth when they went off course momentarily and got bogged down in mud as they attempted to turn around. They lost 310 points giving them a five-day total of 412.

LEADERS STILL LEAD

MacLennan and Wilson's mates on the three-car Cortina team, Roger Clark of London, England, and Robin Edwardes of Fabreville, Que., also ran clean and finished the day with 67 points, moving into second place.

Graham and Acteson had 46 points when they left Sault Ste. Marie, but were assessed an additional five when officials found an error in scoring on the first day. The 30 points lost through Thursday's delay gave them a total of 76, but they continued to lead the privately-entered cars.

The Barracuda of Scott Harvey of Detroit and Mike Kerry of Toronto arrived at one control one minute late. They were assessed 10 points for a total of 109, but still were able to move from fifth to fourth place vacated by Miss Smith.

Gene Henderson of Dearborn, Mich., and Doug Gallop of Toronto, in their Falcon also picked up points for lost time but finished the day fifth over-all with 223 points. They are second among the private entries.

LEADING defending-champion Greaves Movers into new Senior Amateur Baseball League season Saturday will be manager Larry McKinty. Movers play Transport Workers in season-opening game at Hampton Park at 1:30. Kings Hotel and Rawlings Plumbers clash at 3:30.

Gimple Paces Adanac Upset

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Coquitlam Adanacs upset defending champion New Westminster Salmonbellies, 9-5, here Thursday night in an Inter City Lacrosse League game.

Playing-coach Gordie Gimple led Coquitlam, scoring three goals and picking up two assists. Fred Usselman got two goals and two assists. Mike Gates, Alex Carey, John Surinak and Bill Bradley got the others.

Paul Parnell scored two goals and got two assists for New Westminster. Dave Tory also got two goals and Tom Koretchuk got a single.

New Westminster led 2-1 in the first quarter, Coquitlam took a 5-2 lead at the half and the teams split four goals in the third quarter.

Bill Was Faul Guy As Ump Called Tune

By Associated Press

What's an umpire to do? Take Chris Belekoudas. He had his problems Thursday night during Houston Astros' 4-3, 13-inning victory over Chicago Cubs.

Chicago starter Bill Faul took time out to protest the electronic applauding hands on the Astrodome's scoreboard, but Pelekoudas refused to let Faul get his goat.

Faul suggested Pelekoudas give a signal to stop the scoreboard. Pelekoudas said pitch, or watch the scoreboard show a guy taking a shower.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco Giants outlasted Los Angeles Dodgers 9-8 in 10 innings, Atlanta Braves edged Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 and Cincinnati Reds walloped Pittsburgh Pirates 10-6.

The Astros finally beat the Cubs in the 13th when Joe Morgan and Jim Wynn singled around an infield out. John Boccabella drove across all the Cubs' runs on a homer with one on in the fifth inning and a double in the seventh that knocked in Ron Santo with the tying run.

The Giants chased Sandy Koufax and built a 7-0 lead in the second inning but the Dodgers played a convincing game of catch-up with Wes Parker, Ron Fairly and Lou Johnson hitting homers.

The Giants eventually pushed across the winning run in the 10th without a hit when Jim Davenport reached first on John Kennedy's error, took second on a passed ball by John Roseboro and scored when Willie Davis dropped Jim Hart's long fly.

YANKS REELING

Birdie Tebbetts took advantage of New York Yankees slump and went with John O'Donoghue, one of his second-line pitchers, for Cleveland Indians' series finale in New York Thursday.

The results showed up the Yanks' weakened state as O'Donoghue managed seven shutout innings before needing help from Bob Allen as the Indians scored a 4-0 victory that left the once-feared Yankees with one run in three games against Cleveland, mired in ninth place in the American League.

The Yankees have been shut out four times in their last seven games and have managed just 17 runs in one game against Kansas City Athletics. The team batting average has dwindled to .203.

Drive in Country Well Worthwhile

By ELIZABETH FORBES

This is the time of year when everyone who has a car should drive out into the country — at least once — to enjoy the beauty of the blossoming trees.

In this last month of spring — and especially with the fine weather we have been having — there is an extra heavy flowering.

Forbes

It is not every season that you will find an abundance of arbutus flowers. These small, waxy blossoms that grow in spraying clusters and that look much like the old-fashioned lamps of pioneer days, appear one year in quantity and then, for several years, they almost disappear.

This spring if you care to look you'll find them everywhere. When the sun glints on the feathery sprays and on the crisp green leaves and wine red bark of the madronas (arbutus to you and to me) it's a picture you'll not easily forget.

The dogwoods are also at the height of their bloom right now. Wherever you choose to drive you'll see these four, five and six-petalled flowers creating patterns of beauty against the green maples and firs. They are on the hillsides, edging pasture lands and tucked in, close to the roads, where the trees have found a toe-hold.

To see these dogwoods at their best you must turn away from the highways and take to the old roads that bend and twist between farms and woodlands. There's Oldfield Road and Wallace Drive out in the Keating Valley; the West Saanich Road between the Prospect Lake cut-off and Deep Cove. Or, if you would like to go up-Island a short way, there's no better place for viewing than on the old road into Chemainus from Duncan.

Spend a few hours driving along any of these by-ways and you'll return to your daily tasks refreshed and with the glory of the spring countryside indelibly etched in your memory.

We did this only yesterday. And, as we drove we talked of the legends that have grown up around the dogwood tree.

Best known, of course, is the one that links it with the wood used for the Cross at the time of the Crucifixion.

Some say that the flower with its long and short petals (like a cross), the brownish indents on the edge of the petals (like nail prints) and the raised flower centre (a crown of thorns) point directly to this belief.

Quite a different story comes out of the eastern United States where dogwoods bloom in profusion in the spring of the year.

It's based on a Cherokee Indian legend and it has to do with a cave, deep in the hills, where the Moon-and-Star squaw lived alone.

In this cave was a great chest of stone that spilled over with white moon material.

Each month, the Moon-and-Star squaw picked up a flint and carved a new moon from some of this material. Once she had this silver-white crescent in the sky, she'd add a new bit each night until the disc was as round as the sun. Then she'd cut the old moon into stars and start all over again.

Naturally, as she worked, the scraps flew from her flint and covered the floor of her cave.

So each year when cave-cleaning time came, the Moon-and-Star Squaw would gather the bits and pieces from the floor and scatter them over her favorite tree.

That's why the dogwood bears its glistening white glory for a few weeks in every spring.

No matter what the legend — do try and drive out into the country sometime in the next week. Take the by-ways and not the highways. Make it a point to look for the blossoming trees — the arbutus, the dogwood and even the apple trees in some of the orchards. You will be well rewarded.

STREET WIDENING

Landmark Coming Down

City of Victoria purchasing agent has asked for tenders to demolish the two-storey clapboard structure at 1422 Fort built in 1903 for a Mary D. Adams, 104 Cadboro Bay.

Fort Street was then called Cadboro Bay trail, to which it still bears strong resemblance in places.

During the years it had been a grocery store, rooming house and apartment building, and was notable for its front bay window and bird perch balcony jutting up to the sidewalk.

TOPSY-TURVY art is illustrated by part-time artist Pat Paulsen who feels that hands inhibit the creativity of a painter and uses his beard for a brush by suspending himself from a metal tripod. His nose supplements his beard when necessary in making the abstract. "My work doesn't have the impact of recognizable things," says Paulsen, "but it breathes." It also sells. Most of his painting is done at the Purple Onion, a San Francisco night spot. He uses food products. (AP Wirephoto.)

'No Magic Formula' Found To Solve Western Dispute

The prolonged and controversial legislative committee hearings into Western Mines' proposed townsite inside Strathcona Park was unproductive, Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said today.

He took that position in a speech in Prince George at the ninth annual B.C. Wildlife Federation convention. Copies of his text were released here.

The federation appeared at the hearings and opposed the application in a brief that was at times highly critical of the situation.

FLURRY OF WORDS

Mr. Kiernan said he wanted to reiterate some of the points in the dispute "lest they be lost in the great flurry of words, opinions and ideas expressed on this subject."

He said he asked for the hearings originally to find out "if there was some magical solution to the problem."

"No magic emerged," he said.

"The hard facts refused to go away and after many hours of listening and deliberation the department and I have still to deal with the problem."

Mr. Kiernan noted the committee's report recommended establishment of a townsite within the park but said it should not be considered a precedent.

He added the only reason consideration is being given to permitting the company to deposit mine tailings in a deep area of Buttle Lake "is that our biologists feel this may well be the best solution from the standpoint of the park and the fish in the lake.

"It never was considered as a means of finding an inexpensive solution for the mining company.

"The tailings must be proven to be non-toxic to fish and placed at a depth that will not produce any visible turbidity or harm the fish food productivity in any way."

Mr. Kiernan defended himself from charges that the present administration allowed mineral claims to be staked in the park.

He said there had been crown grants in the Myra Creek basin since 1924 so "no useful park purpose could be served by refusal to grant mineral records in the Myra Creek basin.

"Since we have permitted Western Mines the use of only some 70 acres of the surface despite the fact that their claims extend to many hundreds of acres, it should be apparent that Western's operation is being rigidly controlled."

Which whisky do the Jones' really drink?

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.

Yet they don't let others dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

One other thing: you don't have to be one of the Jones' to appreciate Bonded Stock.

All you need is a taste for good whisky.

WOMAN KILLED

Messenger Boy Sought in Blast

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police today searched for a young messenger seen carrying a package into the H. B. La Grenade Ltd. plant Thursday shortly before a time bomb exploded in the shoe factory, killing one person and injuring eight others.

City detectives took six men into custody Thursday, four were picked up in a nearby tavern shortly after the explosion and the other two were detained in the evening.

All six had been picketing the shoe factory, where more than 100 employees have been on strike for over a year.

Police said the messenger entred the building two minutes before the bomb exploded. They said he left the bomb on the desk of Mrs. Therese Morin, 63, the company secretary, who was killed in the explosion.

Witnesses told police that the boy barely made it to the door before the blast rocked the administration office.

Police described the bomb as having the impact of more than four sticks of dynamite, but they are not sure of the exact nature of the explosive.

HAD LONG SERVICE

Mrs. Morin, whose body was found in the wreckage, had been an employee of the company for 40 years.

Severely injured in the blast were Henri B. La Grenade, 51, vice-president of the company, Andr La Grenade, 57, a brother of Henri, and Therese Sirois, 23, an employee. Five others were treated in hospital for minor injuries and shock.

Mrs. Morin was thought to have returned to the office early after lunch to do some work. The injured persons were just entering the building.

The force of the explosion peeled plaster off the walls, shattered desks and office machines and twisted filing cabinets. All windows were blown out.

The factory has been the scene of incidents connected with a labor dispute for more than a year. A strike of 120 employees, members of the National Union of la Grenade Shoe Workers (CNTU), began April 25, 1965, and is still in progress.

RUSSIAN GIRL

She Learns Canadians Friendly

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — A 2-year-old woman crew member of a Russian fishing vessel leaves hospital today for Vancouver, on the first leg of a journey back to her home in Vladivostok.

Tamora Irmakova, a steward-Rupert General Hospital for an emergency appendectomy last week. She has been pronounced fit to travel by hospital surgeons.

A hospital spokesman said the young blonde was lonely and frightened when she first entered hospital, but Prince Rupert residents soon overcame her misgivings by swamping her hospital room with flowers and candy.

The spokesman said the Russian woman formed cordial relations with her roommates and the hospital staff despite the language barrier.

Immigration officer James Nicoll and his wife Joan, a nurse, will accompany Mrs. Irmakova to Vancouver on a regular Canadian Pacific Airline flight today.

She will be turned over to the captain of a Soviet survey ship now in Vancouver.

Right to Mail Strike Urged by Postal Chief

VANCOUVER (CP) — Postmaster-General Cote said Thursday postal workers should be allowed the right to strike in contract disputes with the government.

There is no reason why postal clerks and letter carriers should be excluded from new legislature giving civil servants the right to strike, Mr. Cote said in an interview.

The legislation, introduced in the Commons in April, says the government is prepared to allow strikes in the public services except in those services essential to public safety and security.

"As far as I'm concerned, I can't see how the postal workers would go into these two categories," he said.

PICKING GRAINS FROM COW DUNG: OPPOSITION

Starving Indians Eating Bark

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Opposition members of Parliament charged Thursday that famine-stricken Indians were eating the bark of trees, leaves and undigested grains picked from cow dung.

The charges came after Food Minister Chidambaram Subramaniam waved a telegram from the government of Orissa state denying opposition allegations last week that 19 persons died from hunger in the eastern state.

One opposition member brandished an album of photographs he took there and claimed they showed hungry people selling their children for one rupee (about 21 cents) each.

Another opposition member, Raj Narayan Singh of the Samyukta Socialist party, said he saw people picking grain out of cow dung and human excrement in Uttar Pradesh state.

SAY CHILDREN KILLED

He said mothers were in prison for slaughtering hungry children and he knew of a father who poisoned his wife and three children rather than see them starve.

Subramaniam said the Orissa government told him some of these persons alleged to have died from starvation in fact died from tuberculosis, pneumonia and fever several months ago.

He said some Orissa villagers entrusted their children to an orphanage while they worked on famine relief projects.

Subramaniam said he will look into the starvation reports when he visits Orissa Friday. Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi planned to fly there next week after a tour of drought-stricken Maharashtra state.

Building Permits Snap Mark

Construction in Victoria for the first four months of 1966 has reached a record high with $5,341,452 worth of building permits issued.

The April total was 392 permits for $1,658,091 of construction.

Though down slightly from April a year ago when permits for $1,777,030 were issued, last month's total was still enough to push figures for the first four months of the year $322,249 ahead of the first four months of 1965.

Major permits contributing to the April total were $625,000 for the new Woolworth's store on Douglas, $270,000 for a 45-unit apartment building at 1130 Pandora and $165,265 for a new school on Bank Street.

Assistant city engineer W. N. Jorgensen says the new four month record may forecast an outstanding year for construction in the city.

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno threatened this week to dissolve Indonesia's highest legislative body in an attempt to regain some of his power but backed off under pressure from strong-man Lt.-Gen. Suharto, an informed source said Thursday.

'Canadians Are Square'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Roloff Beny, 42, who is a fair-sized celebrity in most other parts of the world, said Thursday he figures he may finally be able to impress the squares in Canada.

"Canadians," he said at the opening of his photographic exhibit at Vancouver Art Gallery, "are so square they're cubic.

"They don't appreciate anything, not even the beauty of their own country."

Beny hails from Medicine Hat, Alta., so he's not really speaking as an outsider.

So far, he has had more than 250,000 of his large, expensive books of photographs printed in seven or so languages. His sales in Canada have been microscopic.

But this may change, particularly if his latest book of photographs — prepared for the Canadian Centennial — tickles the fancy of his countrymen.

The book, commissioned by John David Eaton, will be distributed to 3,000 libraries and universities around the world as Mr. Eaton's private centennial project.

"Hopefully," said Mr. Beny, "we will also sell a few in Canada. As it stand now, I'm well known all over Europe and ignored at home."

Well, not quite ignored. About 300 people turned out for Mr. Beny's exhibition when it opened Thursday, and were impressed with what they saw.

Fire Destroys Iron Foundry

VANCOUVER (CP)—A sprawling iron foundry in the False Creek area was demolished in a three-alarm blaze in less than three hours Thursday night.

The fire left an estimated 60 employees of the Reliance Foundry Co. out of work, as walls and ceilings crashed to the ground in one of the worst industrial fires in recent years.

An entire off-duty shift of Vancouver firemen was called in when the third alarm went out.

Indecent Assault Trial Ordered

A man charged with indecently assaulting an 18-year-old waitress today was formally committed for trial in a higher court.

The two-day preliminary hearing of the charge against David Manhas, 750 Queens, ended in central court Thursday.

Waitress Sheila Jones, 77 Fort, said she was walking home on the south side of View March 26 when a voice asked: "Honey, do you want a ride?"

REFUSED RIDE

She said she refused and heard the request again from a passing car.

Again she refused and the driver, who she identified as Manhas, got out of the car and grabbed her.

Another man in the vehicle drove over to where she and Manhas were struggling.

Two youths in another car, Philip Mantes, 17, of 1037 Pendergast, and James Haskell, 16, of 1028 Pendergast, said the girl screamed as her assailant was "pushing her around."

BEER, KISSES

She said Manhas tried to make her drink beer and forcibly kissed her in the car.

They all got out of the car and Manhas threw her on the ground and told her "I want your body." she told the court.

L. H. Brydon, watchman at Victoria Plywood, said he saw a car parked behind a pile of two-by-fours on the plant property.

When he went for a second look he said he heard a girl scream: "Please help me. They're trying to rape me," as she broke away.

Mr. Brydon said he took her to his office. Manhas followed.

Driver Convicted Of Dangerous Driving

Donald McKay, 23, of 628 Davida, told police "I thought hot-rodders were chasing me."

He was remanded to May 16 for sentence.

The chase began on Gorge Rd., April 3, where McKay was paced at 50 mph.

This was upped to 60 when he turned on to Jutland and his speed was well over 80 when he turned on to Burnside after going through a stop sign.

McKay admitted consuming four beers which Magistrate William Ostler said was "sufficient alcohol to make him indifferent as to how he drove."

COMMITTEE NAMED

Alcoholism Council To Be Formed Here

A Greater Victoria Council on Alcoholism will be formed immediately.

It follows the Institute on Alcohol Problems held recently in Victoria. Decision to go ahead with it was taken at a meeting in Spencerhouse Thursday.

A steering committee was appointed to submit plans for the council's structure and to present nominations. The council will be composed of interested citizens and the public will be invited to join.

"The duty of the council will be to do educational work and to secure more adequate facilities for remedial work in the field of alcoholism," says Rev. H. T. Allen, chairman of the steering committee.

"We need more adequate accommodation in a well-equipped treatment centre. Measures to reduce the impact of alcohol on society will be advocated and there will be a clearing house for consideration of current problems."

There will be a further meeting in Spencerhouse May 26 at 10 a.m. Persons wishing to take part should contact Mr. Allen at 2140 Kings Road.

Organizations concerned may participate by sending representatives.

Mr. Allen said "the desperate need" for an adequate treatment centre is emphasized by Reg H. Clarkson of the Alcoholism Foundation, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, Metropolitan Board of Health and Capt. Elvet Morgan of the Salvation Army's Harbor Light Corps, 516 Yates Street.

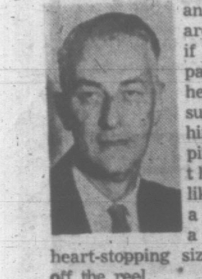
Victoria Daily Times

Arthur Mayse

About fifty miles from Victoria, as the roads wind and bushwackers travel, you will come upon a stream reach that glides between banks thick-timbered with second-growth. A man in chest waders can cover it with reasonable ease.



If the time and the fly are right, and if he is the patient sort, he may of a sudden find himself gripping a rod that bends like a reed in a gale, while a trout of heart-stopping size peels line off the reel.

He may land it, he may not. If he does, he has established a link across the centuries with Isaac Walton, who fished his English streams with a horse-hair line for trout of the same breed.

His catch will have a larger head than our native rainbow and cut-throat, and its golden sides will be dark-splotched as any leopard's pelt.

This is the brown trout of Europe, an immigrant transplanted to a couple of Vancouver Island rivers early in the century.

He didn't do well in the Big Qualicum, but in the larger Cowichan, he is getting along famously.

There, he receives a mixed welcome, since a good many fishermen fear that he may take much of the river away from our native trout. His friends, however, point out that he is tougher and wilier than the natives, and can stand higher water temperatures.

These factors could be important in future years, when the Cowichan—one of the world's truly great trout streams—is certain to be used very much harder than it is today.

In any case, the brownie is here to stay, and I for one regard him as a worthy addition to our sport fishery. The worst that may be said of him is that he has strongly cannibalistic tendencies. But he redeems himself by taking flies both sunken and afloat, as well as a variety of spin-fishermen's enticements.

He has also grown large in the Cowichan. Just how large, I hesitate to guess. However, there are fishermen in this city who consider any brown under two pounds a minnow, and don't begin to get excited until a six-pounder sags in the net.

Conservation officers who have investigated many miles of the Cowichan by rubber boat have peered down through clear water at browns darn near the length of a well-grown boy's leg.

Tony Bristowe, a highly-knowledgeable angler who is familiar with the Cowichan as few men are, once rose to a dry fly a brownie that wrestled out 90 feet of fly line, all the backing on his reel, then broke free in a twisting leap.

One June, my friend Ted Davis and I poked along a tunnel of a logging road that threaded an alder swamp.

Presently Ted nosed his car into a tiny clearing. We bundled up our gear, then scrambled through dim woods, hearing first the whisper of the breeze in the treetops, and finally the river-song close below.

Rigged, we waded in, Ted at the entrance riffle; I farther down the swirling green run, and began to drift floating stone fly imitations along the flange of the main current.

Inch by inch, the last of the filtered sunlight moved off the river, leaving it shadowed, and darker than before.

In due time, I varied the monotony of cast, drift and recover by snagging my fly on a rearward bough. I edged ashore, freed the hook after considerable profane effort, and turned to see a foot-high flirt of spray chop from midstream.

After that, I had nothing to do but watch, not without envy, until the brown trout was ready for the net.

That wasn't for some few minutes; he was a good fish, and fought with every ounce of his four-and-a-half pounds.

A fine trout in anybody's water, but the stream holds better. This Ted proved by going back to the Cowichan next weekend and taking a brownie which, on honest scales, weighed six pounds, eight ounces.

Two-Man Government Splits Portfolios

The provincial cabinet meeting this week comprised only Works Minister Chant and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell but they made the most of a meagre opportunity.

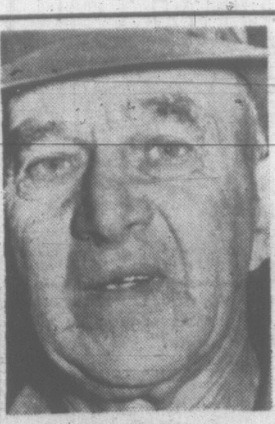
The impact of one of their orders-in-council today may have been small but the language was lofty.

It ordered:

"A proclamation be issued under the Great Seal of the Province of British Columbia appointing the week of May 15 to 21, 1966, inclusive, as Halibut Week in the province of British Columbia."

Among other routine matters, the two ministers appointed Mr. Chant acting provincial secretary, and Mr. Campbell acting attorney-general, education minister, and minister of forests, lands and water resources in the absence of their colleagues.

Max's Maxim: Never Say Sunk



MAX LOHBRUNNER

By TERRY IZZARD

The old-time sealer has received 30 days' notice to do something about his half-sunken whaling ship The Green.

"I'm going to see what I can do about keeping the vessel," he said aboard his floating home in the Inner Harbor.

"I've had a diver down to see if she can be refloated. He's going down again in a few days to take another look."

Though the task looks impossible, Max wants to refloat her and return her to her normal berth besides the city garbage wharf.

However, the department of transport has other ideas.

Explaining the 30 days' notice letter, district marine agent Larry Slaght said: "We don't want to be hard on Mr. Lohbrunner but unless this ship is moved or raised in the near future it's going to become a hazard to shipping.

"All we're asking is for him to inform us of his intentions. If he can't afford to do anything himself then he should inform us."

According to Max, his only earnings come from his pension. However, he seems just as determined as ever to hang on to the 56-year-old derelict that's been in his watery backyard since the end of the Second World War.

A private group suggested shortly after the ship sank, April 4, they would be willing to pay for refloating of the historic vessel.

But Max has heard little since.

MOTHER OF PEARL creation from Peking is like a painting in seashells, almost as pretty as Annette Chan, 15. King-size picture is displayed in her father's store on Fort Street and depicts a 2,000-year-old story of Chinese Joan of Arc. Drum beater is General Leong Hon Yok (Precious Ruby), heroine of the Three Kings era who saved her people with drumming deception, sounding like an approaching army.

FERRY WORK HOURS PROBED

Crews Share in Job Survey

The controversial 1966 shift schedules of B.C. Ferries will be examined by a committee with equal representation from management and crews.

This was agreed this morning at a meeting of a cabinet subcommittee headed by Attorney-General Robert Bonner and representatives of the crews including their lawyer and spokesman, Marney Stevenson.

Management and crews will name two representatives each for the committee which must advise the cabinet subcommittee by May 20 when a report can be expected.

Any ferry employee representing the crews will be given time off with pay to attend meetings.

Mrs. Stevenson said she is "most satisfied" with the outcome of the meeting which instructed the management-crew committee to try to work out equitable shift schedules.

She made a submission to the cabinet subcommittee, composed of Mr. Bonner and Lands Minister Ray Williston, Works Minister W. N. Chant and Mines Minister Donald Brothers.

In it, she asked that the concept of averaging out 40 hours a week over the full year be abolished in favor of a fixed 40-hour week. This would eliminate the schedule calling for 12 days on, three days off.

The attorney-general said the meeting was "most useful" from the government's standpoint.

"We are naturally anxious to see the ferry service not only efficient but happy," said Mr. Bonner.

"The stumbling block, as I see it, has been an inadequate approach to solutions. There has been a good definition of the problems but an inadequate approach to solutions."

WALKOUT REPORTED

The schedule calls for 10 days on, four days off, in place of the old week on, week off system. The four-month summer schedule of 12 days on, three days off was unchanged.

A Civil Service Commission hearing later recommended no change in this year's schedules and the cabinet refused to allow a board of reference arbitration of the dispute.

More than 350 of the 500 deck and catering staff at four terminals signed petitions protesting the schedules.

Q. How did April Fool's Day come about? M.H.

A. The observance began when France adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1564, explains an encyclopedia.

Up to that time, the New Year celebration started on March 21 and finished April 1. When New Year's Day was changed to Jan. 1, people still celebrating it as the first of April were known as April fools.

'Not Guilty' Verdict Given 'Devil' Chaser

Temporary Insanity Defence Accepted

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A Victoria man who went looking for the Devil in order to destroy him was found not guilty today of the non-capital murder of an 83-year-old Victoria farmer.

In Assize Court here, a 12-man jury found that Robert McDonald, 41, of 1036 Caledonia, was insane when he stabbed and killed Frederick Adolph Dyer, 1213 Walnut, on Sept. 27 last.

The charge was reduced from capital murder.

The jury returned its verdict within 10 minutes after retiring from the court.

McDonald will be returned to Riverside Hospital at Essondale for further psychiatric treatment.

Crown prosecutor Louis Lindholm told a 12-man jury that, after the stabbing, McDonald told police he had killed the Devil.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE

"There is abundant medical evidence to show the accused was insane at the time," he said.

Through his counsel, Robert Hutchison, McDonald pleaded not guilty. Mr. Hutchison said that, in the light of recent medical evidence, he was "not unfit to stand trial."

Mr. Hutchison also admitted that the accused stabbed Mr. Dyer in his chest with a knife as a direct result of which Mr. Dyer died the same day.

Crown prosecutor Lindholm said the only issue in the trial was whether McDonald was sane or insane at the time he stabbed Dyer.

Both he and Mr. Hutchison agreed that he was insane at the time.

Mr. Lindholm said McDonald broke into Mr. Dyer's house between 6:30 and 6:45 a.m. and stabbed him in the heart as he was lying in bed.

"It is clear that, when he saw Mr. Dyer in bed he saw him, not as a human being, but as the Devil."

This view was corroborated by Dr. Joseph Thomas, a Vancouver psychiatrist. He said McDonald was suffering from schizophrenia.

"He had religious delusions," the doctor said. "He believed God wanted him to find the Devil and destroy him."

Dr. Thomas said, when he examined McDonald last October, he formed the opinion he was not fit to stand trial because of his mental condition.

But when he examined McDonald earlier this week, he concluded he had recovered to a degree where he could stand trial.

WATER PLAN PUSHED AT PROSPECT

A public meeting to discuss the long-standing problem of water supplies in the Prospect Lake area of Saanich will be held next Wednesday night.

One of the topics to be discussed is the possibility of bringing piped water into the area, a move which failed to gain approval under a local initiative scheme several years ago.

Members of Saanich council will be present and questions from the floor will be answered.

Sanitary sewers instead of septic tanks and the nuisance of the Hartland Road garbage dump will also be discussed.

The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. at the Sparton Road hall of the Prospect Lake and District Community Association.

DIVERS SEARCH FOR BODY

The 47-year-old View Royal man has been missing since he went out to his boat on the Brentwood side of Saanich Inlet.

Naval divers who went down Thursday found Mr. Wellwood's eyeglasses only a short distance from the boat mooring dock.

The bachelor's car was parked nearby.

Firebug Hits Again; Saanich Barn Razed

An arsonist who specializes in barn-burning apparently returned early today to haunt Saanich firefighters.

Destroyed by fire at 1:06 a.m. was a storage barn leased by dairy farmer J. S. Burdge, 817 Beckwith.

The barn, believed to be about 100 years old, was located on the old Rithet property at Pat Bay Highway and Royal Oak Avenue.

It was the third barn in the vicinity to burn in the last year and the fifth on the Saanich peninsula.

An inspector from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver was expected to begin an investigation today.

$4,000 LOSS

A fire department spokesman estimated it would cost about $4,000 to replace the barn destroyed overnight.

There were no animals inside the structure — only a quantity of hay.

The fire erupted during the height of an electrical storm, but firemen don't believe this was the cause.

Two trucks fought the wind-whipped barn fire while a third attacked several grass blazes ignited by the barn.

Also destroyed by fire Thursday were two garages on the property of Paul Vanzanten at 4151 Borden.

Arson is also suspected in this blaze which caused damage estimated at $750, the chief said.

It was the third shed or garage fire in the municipality in two weeks.

Firemen had little trouble extinguishing the fire which began belching clouds of black smoke at 8:17 p.m.

The shed and barn fires this year have been within a one-mile radius of Royal Oak Avenue and the Pat Bay Highway.

Sooke Road Project Tenders Announced

Tenders for blacktopping parts of the Sooke and West Coast Roads and building a small conservatory at Government House were called today in the B.C. Gazette.

The highways department will open tenders May 19 for blacktopping 11 miles of road surface west of Sooke village: along Sooke Road, between Coopers Cove and Otter Point Road, and along the West Coast Road, between Otter Point Road and Tugwell Creek Bridge.

Public works department will open tenders May 18 for an electrically heated conservatory, 18 by 21 feet, to be added to Government House off the dining room.

Fire Victims Say Thanks For Donations

Appeals to assist a widowed mother of 12 after fire destroyed her Brentwood home last week have produced all the goods the family can use.

Mrs. Cecilia Smith and eight of her family moved into a deserted cottage nearby on the reserve after losing their possessions in the fire.

Since then contributions of clothing and bedding, while not large, have met the family's needs, a spokesman said today, and there is no more room in the cottage for more goods.

"Mrs. Smith wants to thank all the people who helped her. She's very happy about the assistance," he added.

Trip to Beach

ROADS TOP THE LIST

City Problems Outlined To Community Planners

Four major problems face Victoria planners in the near future, city planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh told the Community Planning Association of Canada capital region branch Thursday.

He listed the four primary targets:

- An adequate road system offering easy entrance and exit to the city's downtown core.
- Adequate parking for the automobile driver to shed his car once in the downtown area.
- Attractive malls and stores to keep the motorist turned pedestrian happy while shopping.
- A pedestrian-resident population close by to provide the steady day-to-day business the city centre requires.

The resident-pedestrian would come from areas such as the planned urban renewal development for the Rose-Blanshard area.

"In effect these people and others from similar areas should regard the downtown area as a local shopping centre," he said.

Mr. Greenhalgh warned that though Victoria must continue to enhance its reputation as beautiful city, it could not afford to completely neglect industry.

He said that desirable though it may be to have a city completely divorced from industry such an ambition is not economically feasible.

There must be industry in the city to bring an economic balance, he said.

Moderator for the meeting in the First United Church Hall Quadra Street, was N.A. Swainson, professor of economics and political science at the University of Victoria.

The session was the last of four held on the theme "The Capital Region Looks Ahead."

MORE SATURDAY, SAYS WEATHERMAN

Rain Washes Out Early Summer

Victoria's premature summer was rapidly washed away today as rain dropped temperatures almost 20 degrees.

From an all-time May 5 high of 76.2 degrees in the city Thursday the mercury plunged to 60 today.

The return to normal followed a night of thunder and lightning which dumped half-an-inch of rain on the city.

Little change is forecast for the weekend by weatherman William Mackie. More rain is on its way Saturday though a few sunny periods could brighten the Sunday.

While the beach crowd wasn't too happy with the change, Vancouver Island logging companies welcomed it.

Several camps shut down early Thursday as temperatures soared to 94 in the Nanaimo Lakes area and 90 in Gold River.

Three forest districts already are battling serious fires. The situation in Kamloops area was serious with 21 new fires occuring Thursday. Thirty were already burning in that district.

Two other happy men were Victorians James Bramley, city comptroller and Herbert Warren, parks administrator.

Both counted every raindrop as a cent held in reserve in city coffers.

"It's very welcome," said Mr. Warren. "We were right in a drought period and were all ready to start our summer watering schedule to keep things green. Steady rain like this means that we can delay the heavy watering program for a couple of weeks at least."

Mr. Warren said the recent spell of hot, dry weather had forced the city into an early watering program for young trees for the past two weeks.

Any advice for gardeners while rain lasts?

"Yes," said Mr. Warren. "Anyone thinking of planting a lawn this year should do it now. Conditions are ideal. The moisture is just right, the warmth is in the soil. It's perfect for lawn planting."

DEAR ABBY . . .

Hour of Truth Approaches

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I did a terrible thing. I told my boyfriend my parents were dead and I was living with my aunt. You see, we live in a dump in a poor neighborhood, and I was ashamed to have him see my house, so I've been having him pick me up at my girl friend's house. Not only that, but I was ashamed to introduce him to my parents because they're foreigners and don't speak English very well.

He's getting serious, Abby, and I don't know what to do. If I tell him the truth now, he'll never believe another word I say. And he probably won't ever want to see me again. I love him very much, and I'm all torn up inside about what I've done. How can I make things right without losing him?

TORN UP

DEAR TORN UP: Tell him the truth and accept the consequences. If he forgives you, consider yourself lucky and vow never to lie again. And don't ever be ashamed of your parents because they're "foreigners." We all have our roots in a foreign country. Unless we happen to be Indians, that is.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we introduced our very good friends to these people I'll call the "Joneses." Our very good friends invited the Joneses and us out to dinner. The Joneses ordered the best of everything and more than they could eat. I was so shocked and ashamed. Abby, my mother taught me never to eat too much at somebody else's house, and not to order the most expensive meal at somebody else's expense. I wish you would put some rules down for people like the Joneses. They sure need it. Not only that, but my husband had to tell the Joneses to thank our friends for the nice dinner.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: If it was just a spur-of-the-moment dinner party, and the Joneses were included only because they were with you, you owe your "very good friends" an apology. But if your friends merely met the Joneses through you, and sought to entertain them, you needn't feel ashamed. Circumstances sometimes require introducing acquaintances to friends, but an introduction isn't necessarily a recommendation.

DEAR ABBY: My Bob wrote to you a few weeks ago. I saw the letter in the pocket of his coat. I can only guess what he wrote, but I think I know. He has been after me to make our "marriage" legal. He cannot know the nightmares I have had. Perhaps if I tell you about my former marriages, you will understand why I can't marry Bob: Husband number one (a lieutenant in the air force) and I were married six months and 18 days when he was killed in a car accident. I was 19. Husband number two (a sergeant in the army) and I were married three months and 23 days, when he was killed in a hunting accident. I was 23.

Husband number three (a construction engineer) and I were married only 55 days when he died in a fire. I was 27. Bob and I have been together for three years, and he is still in one piece and we are very happy. I have buried three husbands in eight years, and I am taking no chances of adding Bob to that list. He says he is not afraid, but to tell you the truth I am.

BOB'S COMMON-LAW WIFE

Confidential To "Can't Go On" in Del Mar: YOU CAN go on. And you MUST. "Anyone can carry his burden, however hard, until nightfall. Anyone can do his work, however hard, for one day. Anyone can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly, purely, 'til the sun goes down. And this is all that life really means." (Robert Louis Stevenson.)

DEAR ABBY: I like a boy, but he doesn't like me yet. I'll cal' him Gary. The girl who has been liking Gary told me that she has started liking someone else and she plans to quit liking Gary pretty soon. How can I let Gary know I like him without looking like I am running after him? He is real cute and I am average, but people tell me I have a good personality. Don't tell me to ask my mother because she thinks I am too young to like boys. I am nearly 11 and Gary is my age. Thank you.

LIKES GARY

DEAR LIKES: It is pretty hard not to look like you are running after a boy, when you are. Don't worry, when an 11-year-old girl starts liking a boy, it's impossible for him NOT to know it.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Place Shortly After You Eat
Place Shortly After You Eeat

Q. Why is it so important to brush teeth immediately after eating? I keep reading about it. Why does it matter if they are brushed later on, except for the sake of appearance?

Lowman

A. Most decay takes place within 20 minutes after eating. Therefore, much of the damage is done within a short time. Brushing later is somewhat like locking the barn door after the horse has escaped.

Q. I need some help. I am 26 years old, 5 feet 5½ and weigh 142 pounds. My measurements are bust 35, waist 26 and hips 37 inches. Am I overweight and are my measurements out of proportion?

A. If you have a medium build you might lose four or five pounds but no more. Your measurements are in good ratio. For nearer perfection, exercise to lose a couple of inches from your hips.

Q. I am beginning to work on a suntan. I wonder if one-half hour of sunbathing will do any good or if I must spend lots more time. I want a tan and I want a good one in a hurry. I am busy with little children and it is difficult for me to spend more than a half-hour a day sunbathing.

A. You shouldn't spend that much time to begin with. Every year thousands of women make the same mistake, that of trying to acquire a suntan too rapidly. The results are often painful and can be serious. They certainly are not pretty. If you do not tan carefully and gradually you will have peeling skin that makes you look like the victim of some rare skin disease. I will write a column soon about sunbathing. In the meantime spend only 10 minutes on each side at first and build up gradually.

Q. Which measurement is easiest to reduce?

A. When losing weight the waist usually shows the loss first and I think it responds more quickly to exercise, too. The abdomen is next. The hips and thighs are more stubborn.

Q. Can hair really be straightened? I don't believe it.

A. You are wrong. Hair can be successfully straightened and the result lasts about the same length of time as a permanent

Boo Kitchen Friction With Tempting Dishes

By PENNY SAVER

The weatherman certainly hasn't been pulling the wool over our eyes this week, but rather is prompting us to shed those last remnants of winter and get into the swing of the new season. Grocery stores, too, are well stocked with foods that need little preparation to provide a cool treat for your family. Patio dining is a refreshing way to start off a meal. Simply throw something together in the kitchen, then retire to the cool surroundings of your own yard in the shade of neighboring trees.

You don't have to be a master chef to toss together a meal fit for a gourmet. A favorite around our household is a succulent beef pie already prepared, so that all that you have to do is pop it in the oven. This pie is family size, as it weighs 24 ounces. It is full of hearty pieces of beefsteak and carrots in a mouth-watering beef broth. It's hard to resist going back for seconds when this pie is the centre of your table. Priced at just 89 cents, it's irresistible to your pocketbook too.

Sausage rolls are another hit that can go right from your freezer to the oven. A package of five cocktail-size rolls sells for 49 cents. Larger rolls, big enough to satisfy any appetite, are priced at two for 35 cents.

Some days the oven is not very appealing. On those days, something already prepared and ready to serve would be ideal. One shop has cabbage rolls piping hot just waiting for you to take home and put on your table.

Priced at 49 cents for two well-stuffed, juicy rolls, these are bathed in a spicy tomato sauce that will pamper every tastebud. Next time you're in this store, pick some up. Your family will be glad you did.

CHILDREN ENTRANCE THEIR GUESTS

Two-Way Rapport at Home Tea

It was hard to decide which was the most fascinated audience at the annual linen shower and donation tea Thursday afternoon, sponsored by the Ladies' Committee of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage held at the Home. The guests were definitely captured by the children as they sang hymns, and by the looks on the faces of the tiny tots in the first row of choristers, they were fascinated by the audience. It is no wonder too, glancing around at the colorful parade of spring chapeaux worn by the guests.

One little fellow received a raised eyebrow from Rev. C. A. Barner who was leading the children, as his curiosity got the best of him, and he peered around the front of the piano, hoping to get a glimpse of what was going on in the next room.

Atop the piano, played by Mrs. O. Wiseman, assistant matron of the home, was a huge arrangement of red tulips and iris. Lilacs, too, added color to the room.

Some of the youngsters seemed to have a bit of a problem when they reached a high note. This was evident in the strained frown of the face of one little boy who couldn't quite reach that far. Nobody seemed to mind and the children well deserved the healthy applause. One woman was so entranced that she was wiping pensive tears from her eyes as she left the auditorium.

Welcoming the guests as they came in were Mrs. N. Harwood, president of the ladies' committee, and Mrs. A. M. Ludgate, matron of the home.

In charge of receipts, which totalled more than $400, were Mrs. S. J. D. Clack and Mrs. J. C. Scott. Mrs. A. H. Adams was in charge of linen donations.

Tea convener was Mrs. P. W. Mackereth. Mrs. E. Currey and Miss Doris Hassall presided at the refreshment table. Assisting with the tea were Mrs. W. R. Clarke, Mrs. F. Shandley, Mrs. W. E. Scythes, Mrs. J. W. King, Mrs. J. Bigmore, Mrs. C. J. McLeod, Mrs. G. Murdoch, Mrs. A. Wisznewski, Mrs. W. E. Weeks, Mrs. L. R. Hall, Mrs. J. MacLachlan and Mrs. W. Holder.

Reply On Wages Was Big Laugh

Reason for Strike Vote Says Local IWA Official

Coast wood products companies have refused to make a wage offer to their 26,000 employees, a member of the International Woodworkers of America negotiating committee said today.

Murray Drew, president of the union's Victoria local, said negotiators asked Forest Industrial Relations in front of conciliation officer Jack Sherlock to put an offer on the bargaining table.

"All we got from (F.I.R. president) John Billings was a big laugh. This is why we find it necessary to get to our members and ask for a strike vote."

Mr. Drew said "a distorted story" is coming from Forest Industrial Relations, which represents 120 companies.

Thursday, Mr. Billings said that from the start of negotiations March 16 "the IWA made it perfectly clear it was going to take a strike vote before it attempted any serious bargaining."

A meeting will be held here Saturday of the Victoria local's plant committee chairmen and executive to get a full report on the negotiations from Mr. Drew.

The strike vote and a possible mass meeting will be discussed. The local represents 1,700 men and women on southern Vancouver Island including about 1,000 at B.C. Forest Products.

In the Alberni Valley, a mass meeting has been called for Sunday at 10:30 a.m. in the Alberni Athletic Hall. A strike vote will be held before May 25, said a spokesman.

St. Croix Shrugs At Blast

The destroyer-escort HMCS St. Croix returns to Esquimalt Monday, none the worse for the battering she's been taking this week.

The Canadian vessel has been taking part in tests off the southern California coat to determine the effect of underwater explosions.

Only casualty of the operation was a seaman whose thumb was bruised when a clock tumbled from its fixture following the first explosion Wednesday.

Largest of the two underwater blasts came Thursday when the ship and her complement of 230 officers and men were subjected to what amounted to a minor nuclear explosion.

EFFECT RECORDED

Commanding officer, Commander J. S. Hertzberg, reported no major damage to the ship which has special equipment installed to record in minute detail the effects of the blast.

Commander D. C. Waring, officer-in-charge of co-ordinating plans for the tests, said the results will be used to improve design of future warships and to test the ability of present warships to stand up to a nuclear blast.

Following a short stop in Long Beach, St. Croix will tie up here at 3 p.m. Monday. Relatives will be allowed into dockyard an hour earlier.

Brochure Wins Second Award

A Department of Forestry brochure produced for the opening of Victoria's Forestry Research laboratory last year has won a second award for excellence.

The brochure, titled Federal Research in B.C. Forests, won the award in the special projects category of the Association's Evaluation and Awards program.

The 40-page pamphlet, compiled in B.C. and edited in Ottawa under the direction of former Victoria Forestry Department Officer David Monk, treats the full range of the B.C. regional department's research activity.

9 IN MEMORIAM

MUNRO—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, John, who went to his rest May 6, 1963.

One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away
Tis sad but true, we wonder why
The best are always first to die
In silence he suffered, In patience he bore
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

—Sadly missed by Mom, Dad, Clarence and Fred.

OSGOOD—In loving memory of my dear husband, Harold Osgood, who passed away May 6, 1963.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Loves remembrance outlasts all.
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance,
dear, of you.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY AND SON

It is far easier to write about slams and games than about lowly part scores but some of the best played hands occur at lowly contracts.

South was not happy with his hand at any time but he did not like to let West play one no-trump doubled, so ran out into his only four-card suit.

West opened his king of clubs and South was even more unhappy when he saw the dummy. Then he proceeded to make the contract by a series of magnificent plays.

He won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs and returned the suit. East won with the ten and promptly led back the three of trumps. South played low. West cashed his ace and king of trumps and got out with a diamond, won by dummy's ace.

South led dummy's queen of spades. West refused to take his king and a second spade was led from dummy. This time, South played his nine and West had to take his king. A second diamond went to dummy's king and South was able to get to his hand with the jack of spades, in order to lead and ruff his last club. This made six tricks. He had taken two spades, two diamonds and one club and one club ruff. He led dummy's ace of spades and East had no way to keep South from making two of the last three tricks.

Quite a series of plays by South. However, West must be given some credit for making the play possible. Had he opened his ace and king of trumps and then shifted to a low club, South would have had no way to keep East from getting in to lead a third trump and the contract could not have been made.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

The networks are paying big money for the rights to show top quality movies on television. CBS-TV has paid $1,000,000 for network exposure of The Music Man, while ABC-TV has paid a sum of $2,000,000 for the rigts to show Bridge on the River Kwai this fall.

It is not difficult to see the reasons for the spending of such vast monies for good movies. As mentioned here before, millions are spent annually for the production of pilot film series which never get to see the light of day. Add to this the extremely high fatality rate of new shows on television, higher today than ever before in the medium's history.

The films guarantee top stars and superior quality production. In fact, if they enjoy a good theatrical run they will always attract a major audience on television.

There was a movie on NBC-TV's Tuesday night series the other night, The Savage, with Charlton Heston, which in black-and-white deserved the off-switch treatment within the first 10 minutes. In color, the film took on another dimension, allowing viewers to suffer the poor acting and story line just to absorb the tints and hues born of the outdoor scenery, as well as Indian costumes.

Movies command handsome prices from the television industry, too. The average price for films in 1962 was approximately $170,000; in 1965 it had risen to $300,000. It is predicted that soon the price will zoom to about $400,000, with $600,000-$700,000 looming on the horizon, especially if the film can be shown in color.

No matter how you slice it, movies on TV are big business. Next season, there will be more and more prime-time hours devoted to the exposure of Hollywood films.

B.C. MAKES REQUEST FOR IMPORT WORKERS

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia and Alberta have joined Ontario in seeking imported farm workers to help with the harvest, Labor Minister Marchand told the Commons today.

The government recently announced a program to allow West Indian workers to come in this fall to help harvest crops in southwestern Ontario.

He told Creditiste Leader Caouette similar requests have come from the two western provinces for hands to help with the fruit and vegetable harvest.

By DON VIPOND

What to do when all your best friends and some of your favorite enemies have suddenly turned into rhinoceroses?

Simple. Join the herd.

But it's the sort of entertainment which nettles a little too sharply to be much fun. Behind the finely-drawn characterizations of those people we love to hate, the message that just about all of us have sold out on this business of living, is crystal clear.

It's probably healthy to be reminded of this unhappy situation now and again. Who knows? Might even change some of our gutless ways.

All of which is not to suggest that Rhinoceros doesn't provide some fun, that there isn't some sugar on the pill. There is. But it takes a very skillful cast to produce it.

The beauty of this production lies in the way it breathes life into some intriguing characters. Happily, the Campus Players is a company which has the talent to handle it.

A special hand to Robert Price, faced with the task of changing from human to rhinoceros, right before your very eyes. No mean trick and it was the high point in the evening.

Harry Hill as the man driven to ask embarrassing questions like "what's duty?" parleys a reproachful St. Bernard expression and a nice sensitivity into a rich performance.

LITTLE ROOSTER

Both Wolfgang Baba, the little rooster unionist, and Paul Bettis, lend a big hand among the group of strong supporters.

Throughout, the play shows the strong hand of director Robert Hedley, who keeps things moving but always under control.

Bill West's stark sets and the costumes by Biddy Gaddes are clever, blend well and are an asset in a play that you may not like but will probably admire.

4 Out of 5 Runaways Apprehended

Four of five escapers from the city juvenile detention home, 1125 Pembroke, are back in police custody.

The five youths — one of whom was barefoot — broke out of the home Wednesday afternoon.

Two were recaptured in Central Park after police were tipped off by a storekeeper.

CAR STOLEN

Also found in the stolen car the youths were riding in were a wrist watch and a radio taken from a home at 2717 Millstream Ave.

Ald. Lily Wilson, a member of the detention home committee, said the boys removed a ventilator from the door of the home to make their escape.

"It was just fixed on with light beading around the edges," she said. "The thing should never have been built that way in the first place. The boys just pried the beading off and crawled through the hole."

The ventilator has since been replaced — and nailed solidly in position.

The boys were in the recreation room a few minutes prior to their bid for freedom.

"One of the first things they think about when they are taken in is how to get out," said Ald. Wilson. "They regard it as a bit of a challenge. This time it was all too simple for them."

ADJUDICATOR of the Dominion Dama Festival to be held here May 15-21 is British actor-director Marius Goring. Mr. Goring, whose theatre career spans 30 years, has acted in England, France and Germany. Seven companies from both English and French Canada will take the McPherson Playhouse stage in the festival. Company judged best by Mr. Goring will be awarded the DDF trophy and prize of $1,000.

She was guest of honor at a luncheon in Shaughnessy Golf Club, Vancouver, given by members of the commission, which Miss Clay has served since 1948.

She is a past president of the British Columbia and Pacific Northwest Library Associations and has long been active in both the Canadian and American Library Associations.

'No Instant Victory' Against U.S. Crime

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson launched the government Thursday on a long-term drive to wipe out organized crime. He called it "guerrilla war against society."

Johnson recognized that the job would not be easy. "There will be no instant victory," he said, but added than an alliance of federal, state and local police forces can lick the underworld.

The president made the remarks after a White House meeting to discuss the administration's redoubled anti-crime campaign. Present were officials who will lead the drive, including Atty. Gen. Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach and FBI director J. Edgar Hoover.

Johnson said he wanted Katzenbach to be the focal point for the attack. He was given the responsibility of rallying all the government agencies concerned with crime, including the FBI, the treasury and the internal revenue service.

In his statement, Johnson said earlier wars on the underworld had shown results. "Federal prosecutions in organized crime have risen from 17 in 1960 to 491 last year," he said.

Saigon Labelled American Brothel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator J. W. Fulbright (Dem. — Ark.) said Thursday night that "both literally and figuratively, Saigon has become an American brothel."

Fulbright continued his criticism of U.S. foreign policy in the face of a broadside from former senator Barry Goldwater, who argued Fulbright should resign as Senate foreign relations chairman for "his carping criticism" of American policy.

Goldwater hit at Fulbright's expressed concern that the United States is showing signs of the "arrogance of power" that led to the ruin of Napoleonic France and Nazi German.

But Fulbright said in a lecture prepared for a university audience "I do not think for a moment that America, with its deeply rooted democratic tradition, is likely to embark upon a campaign to dominate the world in the manner of Hitler or Napoleon."

Fulbright said what he does fear is the United States "may be drifting into commitments which, though generous and benevolent in intent, are so universal as to exceed even America's great capacities."

NOTES TURBULENCE

Fulbright noted the political turbulence in Saigon last month when some American jeeps were burned and there were other anti-American signs during political demonstrations.

He said most Americans were "understandably shocked and angered to encounter such hostility from people who by now would be under the rule of the Viet Cong but for the sacrifice of American lives and money."

But the reason for it, Fulbright said "is that 'fatal impact' of the rich and the strong on the poor and the weak."

The Vietnamese resented "the disruptive effect of our strong culture upon their fragile one." "What they fear, I think rightly, is that traditional Vietnamese society cannot survive the American economic and cultural impact."

In calling Saigon an American brothel, Fulbright cited reports of Vietnamese putting wives or daughters to work as bar girls "or to peddle them to American soldiers as mistresses."

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Duane Shank, age 14, of Lititz, Pa., for his question:

What causes a spring?

The Blue Hole near Castalia is a famous spring that bubbles up from deep below the surface of the ground. It pours forth some 5,000 gallons of water an hour and its supply comes from far and wide. It is linked to countless other springs and underground streams across our continent.

A single spring is related to a vast system of underground waterways. Its story begins with the pitter-patter of falling raindrops and changes to the drip-drip-drip of seeping water. Later, maybe many years later, the spring gurgles to the surface and perhaps gushes away as a stream. During its lifetime it may travel hundreds of miles mixing and mingling with oceans of water trapped below the surface of the ground.

Every second of every day, more than 16 million gallons of water drop from the clouds. Some of this rain refreshes our plants and animals and some falls into the seas. Some runs to join the rivers on their way to the oceans. And some seeps through the soil to drip through porous rocks below. This is the ground water that rests on solid rocks far below the surface. It rests on top of these deep shelves and basins because it cannot penetrate through their dense, solid rocks.

Bubbles Out of the Ground

The floor of the buried ground water may be a few feet or a mile below the surface. Above this foor, the water may be trapped in pockets and crevasses or in the spongy holes of porous rocks. The top level of the buried water is the water table. In moist regions, the rain lifts the water table up close to the surface. The plants can dip down into it and provide lush greenery for the animals. In desert regions, the water table is low and plants on the parched surface perish from thirst.

In many places the water table rises so high that water bubbles out over the ground. It becomes a spring. Sometimes a spring gushes forth from the side of a hill where ground water is trapped in porous sandstone. Most springs ooze their way out of the ground. But when the ground water rests in a buried basin of dense rock, the water is under pressure from the sides. Here the springs gush up in fountains. All these springs belong to vast systems of underground waters that move in patterns across the continent.

In part of B.C., the farmers use pumps to bring up the ground water for their crops. The history of this ground water began before Columbus discovered the New World. Some of the rain and melting snow seeped down through layers of sandstone and became ground water. Slowly, this ground water moved toward the central Midwest, where the farmers now pump it up from below.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Craig Wilson, age 9, of Weston, Ont., Canada, for his question:

Do rattles tell the age of a snake?

A rattlesnake adds a new rattle to his tail every time he sheds his scaly skin. If he sheds once each year, at the age of 10 he should have 10 rattles. But you cannot count on him to do what you expect. A baby rattler may shed his skin two or three times before his first birthday. An older rattler may shed once a year or once in two years. So the number of rattles on the tail do not tell his exact age.

What's more, rattlesnakes often lose a rattle or two, especially as they grow older. As a rule, an old snake has more rattles than a young one and also he is bigger. In any case, never stay close enough to count the rattles of a rattlesnake. His poisonous bite is deadly dangerous. He is sure to strike you if he can and his aim is both fast and accurate.

Too Great a Fear After Heart Attack

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Alvarez

These days, thousands of people are going around with too great a fear that they will soon get a recurrence of a mild heart attack they had a year or more ago. They are afraid to go back to work, they are afraid to walk, they are afraid to go upstairs, and often the man's wife is much too protective. She does the man harm by constantly telling him to go slow, or not to eat the egg he wants for breakfast. Her oversolicitude only adds to his fears.

When the man gets a slight neuralgic or arthritic pain in his chest wall he may think it is a new heart attack, and then he becomes panicky. Often he keeps feeling his pulse, and he keeps going perhaps from doctor to doctor, having more electrocardiograms made. His trouble is not heart disease, it is fear of heart disease. Statistics show that if he gets by the first year, the chances are that he will live for another 10 to 15 years.

Those wives who are too fearful of allowing their husbands to have eggs occasionally for breakfast, because of a possible rise in blood cholesterol, will be interested in a study made recently by Dr. M. M. Gertler, of the New York University School of Medicine. After studying the blood pressures and blood cholesterol levels of 490 men, Dr. Gertler became satisfied that highblood pressure does not cause coronary heart disease. He studied also the influence of tallness or shortness of the person, the amount in the blood of phospho-lipids (a type of fat), the amount of blood uric acid and the body weight.

His data showy that a short stature with a stoutish build predisposes to heart attacks. He is not much impressed with the influence of a high blood cholesterol; also, he doubts if overweight is as important a factor as some physicians have though it to be, His data does not support the view that a high blood pressure, plus a high blood cholesterol, act together to increase the risk of coronary artery disease. He did find, however, that a person who has had a heart attack, and who has a high blood pressure, has a poorer outlook for the future than has a person who has had a coronary attack, but now has a normal blood pressure.

SALT SPRING TEACHER IN BORNEO

'Never Ask What You Are Eating'

By GERALD McNEIL

A Salt Spring man known as Tuan-bee in the hills of Borneo says they're not as dangerous as Canadian streets.

Manson Toynbee, a 39-year-old school teacher from Ganges, adds teaching is a pleasure among the Kelabit and Penan natives of Sarawak, where he has just ended 7½ years as a worker under the Colombo Plan. He was interviewed at Ottawa.

The tall copper-haired British Columbian went away originally for the normal external-aid assignment of two to four years. He proved so valuable in the Borneo highlands that the Malaysian government kept asking for extensions.

He was principal of Gleneagles Elementary School in West Vancouver in 1957 when the external aid office picked him up in its hunt for teachers to help set up an education system in Southeast Asia under the Colombo Plan.

Canada has sent 66 teachers and 73 advisers to Malaysia and in the process spent $3.7 billion since 1953.

Until Sarawak was turned over to Britain in 1946, it had been ruled for a century by a succession of white rajahs in the British Brooke family. The natives had gone uneducated.

When Mr. Toynbee arrived, the aim was to get everyone to Grade 4 at least. Today the bedrock is Grade 6.

The six-foot-three Toynbee was officially headmaster for groups of from five to 50 schools. He not only supervised and administered, but taught and built.

It took a week on a treacherous river, then eight days of hiking, to get to the highlands of which he has the best memories.

In his time there, Indonesian raiders burned a couple of villages and planes strafed another.

"Fruit was the salvation," said Mr. Toynbee, recalling those years in his Ottawa hotel room.

"I made a habit of never asking what I was eating until after I ate it," he said. "I never could get keen on monkey but food wasn't a problem."

Shows of temper were out among the peaceful Kelabits and violence was rare in the jungle.

"Compared to accidents on Canadian streets, Borneo is much safer," he said.

In six months of teaching 47 teen-agers, he never had to speak to one about discipline or assignments.

"The average Canadian teacher would find it paradise there. Teaching really is a pleasure. There is such a desire to learn."

When he suggested to the village chief that girls not be matched for marriage until they had completed schooling, the chief promptly passed the order along to the women.

He also told them that henceforth Tuan-bee would make the decisions on marriage.

Since 1953, Canada has given higher education to 393 Malay students.

Coming to Canada next year will be Mr. Toynbee's adopted son, a 16-year-old Malay who came under his care shortly after he arrived.

He is one of the five per cent who'll return to Sarawak to continue the job men like his new father have started.

As for Mr. Toynbee, he'll return to education in B.C. for a year or so but he looks forward to another assignment abroad.

Shake Mill Wiped Out

LAKE COWICHAN—A $50,000 shake and shingle mill here was completely destroyed by fire late Thursday night.

The Van Isle Mill, owned and operated by Norman Rook and Bert Rodenbush, was gutted by a blaze which broke out about 11 p.m.

Lake Cowichan volunteer fire department, under chief Bob Weismiller, attended but could do little to save the 100-foot long building.

The flames were fanned by strong winds which made fire-fighting difficult.

No one was in the building at the time.

Mr. Rook said he was at the mill around 9.30 and everything appeared all right. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

The mill employed 10 men and had been in operation three years.

It was a first business venture for Rook and Rodenbush, and Mr. Rook said today: "It was only partially insured."

LADYSMITH — A coroner's jury Thursday night blamed negligence on the part of the driver for the April 16 death of Richard David Gilson, 18, a Ladysmith logger.

Gilson was a back seat passenger in a car driven by Harry Edward Phillips, 18, of Ladysmith.

He was pinned underneath the car on Takala Road, three miles north of here, after Phillips failed to round a curve coming off the Trans-Canada Highway.

The inquest was told Gilson died from head injuries.

The jury, in its verdict, said liquor was a contributing factor to the fatal accident.

At the inquest, Phillips admitted drinking six or seven bottles of beer between 1:30 p.m. that day and the time of the accident, about 9:30 p.m.

The other youths in the car, for a Saturday night drive, were Bob Irwin, 18, and Richard Smillie, 17, both of Ladysmith.

SOOKE — Sooke school board has been criticized for failing to provide kindergartens in district schools.

Several letters from Sangster Parent Teacher Association and Millstream Home and School Association claim the board is falling behind other school districts by failing to provide this service.

Said Mrs. Marjorie Emerson of Sangster Kindergarten Committee: "There are several private kindergartens in the district and this discriminates against the children whose parents can't afford to send them.

"People seem to have the idea that if you live out of town you don't need things like kindergartens or parks.

"Thers's nothing for children to do unless you happen to live near the beach."

Mrs. Isobel Reader, of Sooke school board pointed out that Victoria and Saanich had kindergartens only in selected schools.

"This is unfair," she said. "If Sooke does provide kindergartens it will be in every school.

"This will cost money and I don't know if the taxpayers are willing to pay the money."

Board chairman M. O. Bartanus was not available for comment.

Street Lighting Role

The provincial cabinet Tuesday granted a Colwood Fire Protection District request to add provision of street lighting as one of the objects in its letters patent.

DEEP COVE AREA

Water Rates Cut Announced

Trustees have reduced the minimum charge from $13 for 8,000 gallons every two months to $11.50 for 6,000 gallons, effective on the next bills.

It is the first time there has been a reduction since the system started in April, 1964, said B.W.W. Clowes, board chairman.

The reduction will not apply to consumers on the Lands End Road extension which was connected to the system earlier this year. The 61 consumers on this line will continue to pay at least $15.50 every two months for 10,000 gallons, although Mr. Clowes said there could be a reduction in the future when more connections are made to the Lands End line.

The chairman noted the reduction will mean a saving for most of the consumers in the district which now has some 350 connections.

350 CONNECTIONS

Few households use more than 6,000 gallons of water every two months, particularly during the winter, Mr. Clowes said.

However, water consumption in the summer is about double that in the winter.

The Deep Cove consumers pay $1 every two months for each 1,000 gallons of water consumed in excess of the minimum.

Deep Cove buys its water from Central Saanich but this summer it will have a small supply of its own to augment this source.

Mr. Clowes said a well has been drilled which is expected to produce 20,000 to 30,000 gallons daily. This should be in operation before the peak summer period, he said.

Deep Cove is permitted to draw up to 100,000 gallons of water daily from Central Saanich, "and we were getting fairly close to that last summer," Mr. Clowes said.

Employment Improves In April

DUNCAN — The number of unemployed in the Cowichan district dropped 50 per cent during April.

ger of the National Employment Service, reported Thursday there were only 222 men seeking jobs compared to 431 in March.

Mr. Robinson said: "I expect this unusually high level of employment to continue for an indefinite period unless there's a breakdown in the contract negotiations now under way."

He said a shortage of workers was avoided by the employment of some 200 university students in the logging, pulp and sawmill industries.

Mr. Robinson said a small surplus of these students will be absorbed in the next week as employers make every effort to provide them with summer work.

But Mr. Robinson said: "The situation for women students is not so good.

GIRLS LESS LUCKY

"Many young women will be forced to seek jobs in other parts of the province.

"The chief problem is that the major industries locally do not employ women in their operations.

He said the shortage of cooks, waitresses, nurses' aides, kitchen helpers, gardeners and front-end men continues to be acute, adding: "It will worsen as the tourist season approaches."

Mr. Robinson forecast the need to obtain labor from other areas on the Island and lower mainland when expansion programs start shortly at Crofton and Ocean Cement Ltd., Bamberton.

Salt Spring Ferry Talks Scheduled

GANGES — The local Chamber of Commerce is to discuss several aspects of the local ferry service with government officials next week.

One aspect to be discussed is weekend ferry reservations to Long Harbor.

Heavy weekend traffic to Galiano and Mayne Islands has sometimes left room for only a few Salt Spring-bound on Friday and Saturday nights.

The chamber is also to ask for establishment of toilet facilities at Ganges boat basing and Vesuvius Bay ferry wharf.

At its monthly meeting, the chamberalso:

- Decided to move flower boxes from the waterfront to the firehall to allo wfor work on Centennial Park, now under construction.
- To develop an area of the new park for use as a bowling green, swimming pool, tennis court or some other public activity. This is in addition to a children's playground to be built by Lions Club and an adult recreation area to contain checkerboard und horseshoe pitches.
- Accepted an invitation to join Galiano and Pender Islands in exploring the feasibility of forming a regional district composed of the Gulf Islands.

L. G. Ramsey will represent Salt Spring in the discussions.

REGIONAL BODY ELECTED

A joint Chambers of Commerce committee of Salt Spring, Galiano and the Pender Islands is exploring the feasibility of forming a regional district, separate from Vancouver Island.

L. G. Ramsay of Salt Spring Wednesday was appointed to the committee.

Art Excites Fiery House Leader

He said: "Every exhibitor here is making a contribution to a Canadian culture.

"And you can't have a civilization without culture.

"I feel it is important at the local level that as many people as possible participate in all the forms which go to make up a nation's culture."

Mr. Strachan added: "I find art exciting and take pleasure attending an exhibition in my own constituency — an exhibition rapidly gaining in fame."

Some 97 paintings were on display plus sculptures and wood carvings.

Mr. Strachan, MLA for Cowichan-Newcastle, was due to display his own characteristic talents on the Duncan courthouse fence today but it was likely postponed because of rain.

He said: "My message will be quite evident," but he declined to say what the subject will be

GERDA HEARINGS

More Testimony 'Up to Lawyers'

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice Wishart Spence said today counsel at the Gerda Munsinger inquiry must make up their own minds whether to request further testimony from RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan.

He said in an interview he has read part of the Hansard record of a Commons debate Monday and Tuesday which arose out of testimony by Commissioner McClellan a week ago.

He had no idea at present whether efforts will be made to submit the Hansard record of Prime Minister Pearon's statement as evidence before the inquiry which resumes public hearings Monday.

Commissioner McClellan, attending an Interpol conference in Paris, testified at the last public hearing that Mr. Pearson asked him in late November, 1964, for any information indicating impropriety or of a scandalous nature involving any MP of any political party in the previous 10 years.

The RCMP commissioner said he mentioned the Gerda Munsinger case and gave Mr. Pearson a file on it Dec. 2, 1964, which had been returned to him April 1 this year after the Munsinger inquiry had been set up.

PM CONCERNED

In a Commons debate Tuesday, Mr. Pearson said he had requested only information of any contact by an MP with dubious or criminal elements. This was done at a time when he was concerned about charges of improper use of influence in connection with efforts to get narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard out of jail on bail.

Commissioner McClellan is expected to return from the Paris conference of the international police organization by May 16.

Mr. Justice Spence, sitting as a one-man royal commission, said he cannot say who will appear as witnesses when hearings resume Monday.

Many Human Organs Will Be Replaced

HOUSTON (UPI) - A London heart surgeon said Wednesday that within the not-too-distant future doctors will be replacing all parts of the human body except the brain either with mechanical substitutes or with duplicate parts from other humans.

"It may not be in my lifetime or yours, but the time is not too far away," Dr. Donald Ross told a news conference at the Houston meeting of the North American Federation of the International College of Surgeons.

Ross, a lecturer in heart surgery at the Institute of Cardiology and a surgeon at Guy's Hospital in London, said great steps have already been taken in replacing faulty human organs.

Only the brain will probably never be replaced, he said, because its operations are so complex and there is apparently no aging process that takes place in brain.

Ross gave as examples of mechanical replacement such operations as the now-familiar use of mechanical valves in the human heart and Dr. Michael Debakey's recent implantation of an artificial heart in Illinois coal miner Marcel de Rudder.

In de Rudder's case, the artificial heart worked perfectly but de Rudder died five days after the operation from a collapsed lung.

Ross said examples of replacement with human parts included the use of substitute human valves in the heart and such eye operations as the corneal transplant, a procedure which has helped hundreds to regain their sight.

Parole Law Changes Under Study

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is considering amendment of Canada's parole laws in the light of the recent Commons debate on capital punishment, Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday.

He was replying in the Commons to Robert Simpson (PC—Churchill), who recalled that although MPs had turned down abolition of capital punishment, there had been a general agreement on the need for parole revisions.

At present persons serving life sentences are eligible for parole after 10 years. Convicted murderers may receive parole with the approval of both the cabinet and the National Parole Board.

There have been many suggestions that the minimum prison term for convicted murderers be made longer than 10 years. It is said this change would help prepare the way for abolition of hanging in Canada.

Labor Gov't Sets Price On ECM Entry

Demands Protect Canada

STOCKHOLM (CP) — George Brown, Britain's deputy prime minister, said today trade with Canada, Australia and New Zealand lies at the heart of Britain's difficulties in considering new moves to join the European Common Market.

In the clearest outline yet provided on the Labor government's Common Market policy, Brown said in a speech prepared for a socialist's conference here that Britain insists that five principles must be preserved if it is to enter the European trade bloc.

These are: Safeguards for British farmers; safeguards for European Free Trade Association partners; freedom to allow Britain to pursue its own foreign policy and the preservation of British rights to plan its own economy.

Brown, economics minister charged with exploring Common Market entry, said he does not believe these problems are insurmountable but some present major difficulties.

THINKS AHEAD

"It is clear," he said, "that if Britain were to enter the European Economic Community andap ply the common agricultural policy as it now stands, it could have profound effects on the pattern of our imports from New Zealand, Australia and Canada—the heart of the overseas Commonwealth.

"At present Britain's imports from them are free of duty and many items enjoy a tariff preference over the same products imported from foreign countries."

LIFE IN PRISON

'Moor Murders' Pair Guilty

CHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) — A young man and his mistress were found guilty today in the "moor murders" and both were sentenced to life improsnment.

Ian Brady, 28, and Myra Hindley, 23, were convicted of killing Edward Evans, 17, and Lesley Ann Downey, 10. Brady alone was found guilty of murdering 12 - year - old John Kilbride.

Judge Fenton Atkinson termed the lovers "sadistic killers of the utmost depravity," adding: "These were three calculated, cruel, cold - blooded murders.

He told Brady: "In your case I pass the only sentence which the law now allows, which is three concurrent sentences of life imprisonment."

The death penalty for murder was abolished in Britain last year for a five-year trial period.

Just before the jury retired Judge Fenton Atkinson said it was not possible to find Brady not guilty in the axe slaying of 17-year-old Edward Evans.

HACKED TO DEATH

Brady allegedly hacked and strangled the youth to death after enticing him from a Manchester homosexuals' club to demonstrate the art of murder to a friend.

He advised the jury not to convict the couple of killing either Kilbride or the girl if there was any reasonable doubt.

He also said Brady's collection of books of pornography, perversion and torture did not prove anything.

"I daresay that dozens of people read books of that sort and never dream of putting the things they read into practice," he said.

The judge said a tape-recording of Lesley's screams and protests, made while Brady took pornographic pictures of her, was obviously highly prejudicial to the two accused.

"They cannot escape that. It must throw a merciless light on the character and disposition of persons who treat a little girl in that way."

One could never forget hearing the little girl begging and praying for mercy, he said.

It was obvious Lesley had been indecently assaulted, a serious crime in itself, he said. But the jury must ask whether this offence threw any light on the way the girl died.

CBC CHIEF TELLS COMMONS COMMITTEE

Officials Openly Defied Management Authority

OUIMET
. . . impossible situation

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC officials who have openly defied the management are in an impossible situation, CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet told the Commons broadcasting committee today.

He said the board of directors will decide what to do with producers and supervisors who have defied the management in the dispute over the program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Reeves Haggan, general supervisor of public affairs, now had supported the attitude of the Seven Days producers and he had "placed himself in an impossible position."

Mr. Ouimet said Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of Seven Days, and Patrick Watson, the co-host, have openly defied the authority of the corporation since mid-April. This was unheard of and unprecedented.

Resignation normally preceded any public attack on an employer.

David Lewis (NDP — York South) asked whether a "wholesale firing" would do the CBC any good.

Mr. Ouimet said he could not answer yes or no. He personally had the power to hire and fire, but in this case he preferred not to take any decision alone.

Therefore, he would ask the CBC board to review the whole Seven Days controversy.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) asked whether the board would await the House committee's report before taking any action.

Mr. Ouimet said this is one of the factors being considered.

"It had better be," Mr. Peters replied.

L. R. Sherman (PC—Winnipeg South) asked whether Mr. Haggan would be dismissed because of his testimony before the committee.

Mr. Ouimet said he was being careful not to refer to testimony before the committee. But Mr. Haggan's attitude now was known and his case would be placed before the board of directors.

The CBC president said he means no disrespect for Parliament, but he shares the view that the committee's hearings are complicating the solution of the Seven Days dispute.

Mr. Haggan told the committee Tuesday that senior executives of the CBC don't know anything about programming and have suggested indirectly that he should resign.

Mr. Ouimet read an hour-long prepared statement after asking the committee to hear him immediately, rather than continue questioning CBC Vice-President H. G. Walker.

Mr. Ouimet said his statement had been ready for two days and he was anxious to read it to the committee because of the possibility of "leaks inside the corporation."

Mr. Lewis said this remark showed Mr. Ouimet did not trust his own staff. "This alleged reason is not dignified enough to justify changing the order of witnesses."

Other committee members replied that Mr. Ouimet was acting in good faith and should be heard immediately. The committee voted to call the CBC president and to continue questioning him Monday.

Reporter Hit on Head By Sevigny

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet said Friday a CBC reporter was hit on the head by former Conservative cabinet minister Pierre Sevigny when he attempted to interview Mr. Sevigny without permission last March.

Mr. Ouimet cited the incident before the Commons broadcasting committee as an example of the questionable journalistic ethics of the program This Hour Has Seven Days.

"When it was rumored that Mr. Sevigny was involved in the Munsinger affair," the CBC president said in a prepared statement, "Seven Days sent a camera crew to his home in Montreal, who set up their cameras and lighting equipment on Mr. Sevigny's property and then rang the doorbell.

"The intention was for the camera to act as a reporter when Mr. Sevigny appeared. The objectionable aspect here was the intention to confront and question with the camera rolling without permission, on private property.

"In this instance, the reporter was hit over the head by Mr. Sevigny with his cane and the item was turned down for broadcast because it constituted an invasion of privacy."

In earlier testimony before the committee, Vice-President H. G. Walker identified the reporter as Larry Zolf.

Cost of Living Continues Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index rose by eight-tenths of a point during April to a record of 143.2, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

Increased food costs and an increase in the Ontario provincial sales tax to five per cent from three were mainly responsible. All seven sections of the index were up.

The index, based on 1949 consumer prices equalling 100, had stood at 141.2 in January, 142.1 in February and 142.4 in March, the previous high. The April figure was four per cent higher than in the same month of last year.

There is no exact parallel index of incomes. But an index of industrial wages and salaries, based on 1961 equalling 100, was at 116.9 in December, latest figure available.

RADAR ADEQUATE

Bomber Alert Curb Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has ordered a reduction in the continuous airborne alert of B-52 bombers, it was disclosed today.

He told the House of Representatives appropriations committee the constant bomber alert aloft, conducted for more than five years, no longer is needed because:

—Of "the declining importance of bombers in relations to missiles."

No indication of the extent of the reduction was available.

McNamara's testimony, given in secret earlier this year, seemed certain to arouse new criticism from advocates of the bomber and from those who question reliance on missiles.

ALERT WILL GO ON

The defence secretary's published words gave the impression that the airborne alert will be ended entirely, but the defence department said this is not so—that there will continue to be an airborne alert, although reduced in size.

Defence sources said a portion of the bomber force will remain ready to take up a broader airborne alert, ifth is becomes necessary in an emergency.

They also said that 50 per cent of the fleet of about 600 B-52 bombers will continue to be held on airstrip alert, ready to take off on 15 minutes' warning—well within the maximum 30 minutes warning radar installations could provide in event of an intercontinental ballistic missile assault.

The U.S. now has about 900 ICBMs in firing position, all in protected underground launch sites. It also has 36 Polaris subs in commission, mounting a total of more than 575 missiles.

LONDON (Reuters)—An improved method of detecting cancer by fluorescent effects was reported by two British doctors today in the medical magazine Lancet.

RCMP Evidence Attacked As Spy Hearing Closes

VANCOUVER (CP) — The royal commission into the affair of alleged spy Victor Spencer ended its hearings today with a lawyer attacking evidence given by an RCMP official which said the former postal clerk's action fitted into an espionage program.

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, one-man commissioner, said he will return to Ottawa today or Saturday to start writing his report.

He hoped to have the report in the government's hands within a month. The commission had sat here for two days.

The hearings ended with a summing up by J. J. Robinette, commission counsel, rebutting a summation by Spencer lawyer Harry Rankin that said there is nothing in the law that forbade Spencer giving such information as the location of available farms to the Soviet embassy.

Mr. Justice Wells replied it depends on the purpose for which it was given.

Mr. Rankin was summing up the two days of hearings of the commission which is seeking to determine if Spencer was unfairly dealt with when he was dismissed from his post office job after allegations of spying were made in the Commons. Spencer died last month.

Today and Thursday he attacked the evidence of RCMP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Abraham R. Ribicoff revealed today that U.S. automakers had conducted recall campaigns involving 8.7 million cars produced since 1960.

But he noted that 18.5 per cent of all cars made during the past six years "have been defective in some respect."

Ribicoff did not immeditely release the list dealing with individual makes.

VACCINE REDUCES SIDE EFFECTS

Scientists Win First Round in Flu Battle

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two advances in the battle against the flu were disclosed Thursday at a meeting of the American Society for Microbiology.

Two scientists of the University of Michigan's school of public health reported what they called a "striking finding": a vaccine which reduces side effects and can be given safely to newborn children.

A research team of the University of Maryland school of medicine told of an experiment with the drug amantadine hydrochloride in which high fever was eliminated and the incidence of generalized aching and headache was cut by half.

The Michigan researchers, Dr. F. M. Davenport and Dr. A. V. Hennessy, noted that standard influenza vaccines usually have a toxic effect on children under three and are not often recommended by pediatricians.

Their new vaccine, developed in the last five years, eliminates the flu-like symptoms of fever and headache felt by adults after standard vaccination and is safe for infants, they said.

It differs from other vaccines in that it uses only one-tenth of the influenza virus instead of the whole virus but is several times stronger than standard vaccines, they reported.

Half the group were given amantadine capsules every 12 hours for nine days and the other 23 were given an inactive placebo. After 36 hours all 46 volunteers had nose and throat sprayed with live A-2 Asian flu virus.

Minor symptoms showed up only half as frequently in the drug-treated men. The most severe form of the illness—high fever—occurred only in those men not given the drug.

SPOKANE MAN

City Exchange Chief Named

By AB KENT
Times Business Writer

President G. C. "Pat" George of the Spokane Stock Exchange is slated to become working president of the revived Victoria Stock Exchange, with trading floors here and in Vancouver.

Vancouver mining, real estate and investment dealer Stanley E. Cropper today confirmed that a group of Vancouver, Victoria and American businessmen are picking up the unlapsed charter of the old Victoria exchange that was granted in 1911.

Mr. George, he said, has discussed the re-establishment of the old Victoria exchange with superintendent of brokers William Irwin and the group is confident of getting government support.

So far there has been no discussion with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whose written consent must be given to setting up a stock exchange.

Mr. George is an experienced man in his field, Mr. Cropper said.

CURB SECTION

The Spokane exchange deals about 80 per cent in unlisted, or curb market stocks, the Vancouver man said.

It would be the intention of the Victoria exchange to pick up companies trading shares on the Vancouver Stock Exchange "unlisted" board, he said.

VSE is dropping its unlisted market June 6 in an effort to tighten up market control and encourage proper listing. Exchange president Jack Van Luven said Thursday many of the unlisted companies can't qualify for VSE listing.

MAIN FLOOR

Mr. Cropper said Mr. George intends to establish residence in Vancouver, where the Victoria Stock Exchange would have its main trading floor and expect to handle most of its business.

"It is essential that it be handled by the most senior and qualified and experienced men in the business," he said.

Mr. Cropper said that since the first announcement of the revival in the Times Wednesday he has had requests for seats on the Victoria exchange.

POLICE FIRMS

By taking all unlisted stocks into one exchange, a burden will be lifted from the superintendent of brokers by helping his staff police companies better, Mr. Cropper said.

SUMMARIES

Wall St. Battered Again

Wall Street made a feeble attempt to recover and then was battered by another heavy wave of selling late this afternoon. The ticker tape lagged five minutes behind transactions.

Another stiff loss was in the making as IBM sank nearly 17 points, Zenith and Eastern Air Lines 3, Xerox 11, Polaroid 4½, Texas Instruments 6 or more.

General Motors was down between 1 or 2 points, touching new lows.

Brokers said the fresh wave of selling arose from disappointment over failure of a rally to develop.

Four mines dipped to new lows in a generally bearish morning on the exchange.

Casino was off four to 96 cents; Chataway lost 10 cents to $1.30; New Cronin was down Titan lost 15 to $3.15—all new lows.

Other losers were Arlington down three to 60 cents; Buttle Lake off 10 to $1.25 and Lornex down 20 to $6.30.

Dynasty reversed the trend and rose 75 cents to $13.25.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1966—PAGE 21

Second Section
Pages 21-38

Arthur Mayse

About fifty miles from Victoria, as the roads wind and bushwackers travel, you will come upon a stream reach that glides between banks thick-timbered with second-growth. A man in chest waders can cover it with reasonable ease.

If the time and the fly are right, and if he is the patient sort, he may of a sudden find himself gripping a rod that bends like a reed in a gale, while a trout of heart-stopping size peels line off the reel.

He may land it, he may not. If he does, he has established a link across the centuries with Isaac Walton, who fished his English streams with a horse-hair line for trout of the same breed.

His catch have a larger head than our native rainbow and cut-throat, and its golden sides will be black-splotched as any leopard's pelt.

This is the brown trout of Europe, an immigrant transplanted to a couple of Vancouver Island rivers early in the century.

He didn't do well in the Big Qualicum, but in the larger Cowichan, he is getting along famously.

There, he receives a mixed welcome, since a good many fishermen fear that he may take much of the river away from our native trout. His friends, however, point out that he is tougher and wilier than the natives, and can stand higher water temperatures.

These factors could be important in future years, when the Cowichan—one of the world's truly great trout streams—is certain to be used very much harder than it is today.

In any case, the brownie is here to stay, and I for one regard him as a worthy addition to our sport fishery. The worst that may be said of him is that he has strongly cannibalistic tendencies. But he redeems himself by taking flies both sunken and afloat, as well as a variety of spin-fishermen's enticements.

He has also grown large in the Cowichan. Just how large, I hesitate to guess. However, there are fishermen in this city who consider any brown under two pounds a minnow, and don't begin to get excited until a six-pounder sags in the net.

Conservation officers who have investigated many miles of the Cowichan by rubber boat have peered down through clear water at browns darn near the length of a well-grown boy's leg.

Tony Bristowe, a highly-knowledgeable angler who is familiar with the Cowichan as few men are, once rose to a dry fly a brownie that wrestled out 90 feet of fly line, all the backing on his reel, then broke free in a twisting leap.

One June, my friend Ted Davis and I poked along a tunnel of a logging road that threaded an alder swamp.

Presently Ted nosed his car into a tiny clearing. We bundled up our gear, then scrambled through dim woods, hearing first the whisper of the breeze in the treetops, and finally the river-song close below.

Rigged, we waded in, Ted at the entrance riffle, I farther down the swirling green run, and began to drift floating stone fly imitations along the flange of the main current.

Inch by inch, the last of the filtered sunlight moved off the river, leaving it shadowed, and darker than before.

In due time, I varied the monotony of cast, drift and recover by snagging my fly on a rearward bough. I edged ashore, freed the hook after considerable profane effort, and turned to see a foot-high flirt of spray chop from mid-stream.

After that, I had nothing to do but watch, not without envy, until the brown trout was ready for the net.

That wasn't for some few minutes; he was a good fish, and fought with every ounce of his four-and-a-half pounds.

A fine trout in anybody's water, but the stream holds better. This Ted proved by going back to the Cowichan next weekend and taking a brownie which, on honest scales, weighed six pounds, eight ounces.

Two-Man Government Splits Portfolios

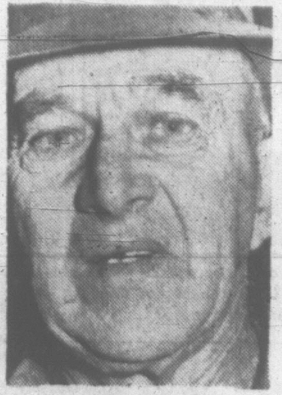
The provincial cabinet meeting this week comprised only Works Minister Chant and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell but they made the most of a meagre opportunity.

The impact of one of their orders-in-council today may have been small but the language was lofty.

It ordered:

"A proclamation be issued under the Great Seal of the Province of British Columbia appointing the week of May 15 to 21, 1966, inclusive, as Halibut Week in the province of British Columbia."

Among other routine matters, the two ministers appointed Mr. Chant acting provincial secretary, and Mr. Campbell acting attorney-general, education minister, and minister of forests, lands and water resources in the absence of their colleagues.



MAX LOHBRUNNER

Max's Maxim: Never Say Sunk

By TERRY IZZARD

The old-time sealer has received 30 days' notice to do something about his half-sunken whaling ship The Green.

"I'm going to see what I can do about keeping the vessel," he said aboard his floating home in the Inner Harbor.

"I've had a diver down to see if she can be refloated. He's going down again in a few days to take another look."

Though the task looks impossible, Max wants to refloat her and return her to her normal berth besides the city garbage wharf.

However, the department of transport has other ideas.

Explaining the 30 days' notice letter, district marine agent Larry Slaught said: "We don't want to be hard on Mr. Lohbrunner but unless this ship is moved or raised in the near future it's going to become a hazard to shipping.

"All we're asking is for him to inform us of his intentions. If he can't afford to do anything himself then he should inform us."

According to Max, his only earnings come from his pension. However, he seems just as determined as ever to hang on to the 56-year-old derelict that's been in his watery backyard since the end of the Second World War.

A private group suggested shortly after the ship sank, April 4, they would be willing to pay for refloating of the historic vessel.

But Max has heard little since.

Temporary Insanity Defence Accepted

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A Victoria man who went looking for the Devil in order to destroy him was found not guilty today of the non-capital murder of an 83-year-old Victoria farmer.

In Assize Court here, a 12-man jury found that Robert McDonald, 44, of 1036 Caledonia, was insane when he stabbed and killed Frederick Aloph Dyer, 1213 Walnut, on Sept. 27 last.

The charge was reduced from capital murder.

The jury returned its verdict within 10 minutes after retiring from the court.

McDonald will be returned to the Riverdale Hospital at Essondale for further psychiatric treatment.

Crown prosecutor Louis Lindholm told a 12-man jury that, after the stabbing, McDonald told police he had killed the Devil.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE

"There is abundant medical evidence to show the accused was insane at the time," he said.

Through his counsel, Robert Hutchison, McDonald pleaded not guilty. Mr. Hutchison said that, in the light of recent medical evidence, he was "not unfit to stand trial."

Mr. Hutchison also admitted that the accused stabbed Mr. Dyer in his chest with a knife as a direct result of which Mr. Dyer died the same day.

Crown prosecutor Lindholm said the only issue in the trial was whether McDonald was sane or insane at the time he stabbed Dyer.

Both he and Mr. Hutchison agreed that he was insane at the time.

Mr. Lindholm said McDonald broke into Mr. Dyer's house between 6:30 and 6:45 a.m. and stabbed him in the heart as he was lying in bed.

"It is clear that, when he saw Mr. Dyer in bed he saw him, not as a human being, but as the Devil."

This view was corroborated by Dr. Joseph Thomas, a Vancouver psychiatrist. He said McDonald was suffering from schizophrenia.

"He had religious delusions," the doctor said. "He believed God wanted him to find the Devil and destroy him."

Dr. Thomas said, when he examined McDonald last October, he formed the opinion he was not fit to stand trial because of his mental condition.

But when he examined McDonald earlier this week, he concluded he had recovered to a degree where he could stand trial.

WATER PLAN PUSHED AT PROSPECT

A public meeting to discuss the long-standing problem of water supplies in the Prospect Lake area of Saanich will be held next Wednesday night.

One of the topics to be discussed is the possibility of bringing piped water into the area, a move which failed to gain approval under a local initiative scheme several years ago.

Members of Saanich council will be present and questions from the floor will be answered.

Sanitary sewers instead of septic tanks and the nuisance of the Hartland Road garbage dump will also be discussed.

DIVERS SEARCH FOR BODY

The 47-year-old View Royal man has been missing since he went out to his boat on the Brentwood side of Saanich Inlet.

Naval divers who went down Thursday found Mr. Wellwood's eyeglasses only a short distance from the boat mooring dock.

The bachelor's car was parked nearby.

Firebug Hits Again; Saanich Barn Razed

An arsonist who specializes in barn-burning apparently returned early today to haunt Saanich firefighters.

Destroyed by fire at 1:06 a.m. was a storage barn leased by dairy farmer J. S. Burdge, 817 Beckwith.

The barn, believed to be about 100 years old, was located on the old Rithet property at Pat Bay Highway and Royal Oak Avenue.

It was the third barn in the vicinity to burn in the last year and the fifth on the Saanich peninsula.

An inspector from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver was expected to begin an investigation today.

$4,000 LOSS

A fire department spokesman estimated it would cost about $4,000 to replace the barn destroyed overnight.

There were no animals inside the structure — only a quantity of hay.

The fire erupted during the height of an electrical storm, but firemen don't believe this was the cause.

Two trucks fought the wind-whipped barn fire while a third attacked several grass blazes ignited by the barn.

Also destroyed by fire Thursday were two garages on the property of Paul Vanzanten at 4151 Borden.

Arson is also suspected in this blaze which caused damage estimated at $750, the chief said.

It was the third shed or garage fire in the municipality in two weeks.

Firemen had little trouble extinguishing the fire which began belching clouds of black smoke at 8:17 p.m.

The shed and barn fires this year have been within a one-mile radius of Royal Oak Avenue and the Pat Bay Highway.

Sooke Road Project Tenders Announced

Tenders for blacktopping parts of the Sooke and West Coast Roads and building a small conservatory at Government House were called today in the B.C. Gazette.

The highways department will open tenders May 19 for blacktopping 11 miles of road surface west of Sooke village: along Sooke Road, between Coopers Cove and Otter Point Road, and along the West Coast Road, between Otter Point Road and Tugwell Creek Bridge.

Public works department will open tenders May 18 for an electrically heated conservatory, 18 by 21 feet, to be added to Government House off the dining room.

Fire Victims Say Thanks For Donations

Appeals to assist a widowed mother of 12 after fire destroyed her Brentwood home last week have produced all the goods the family can use.

Mrs. Cecilia Smith and eight of her family moved into a deserted cottage nearby on the reserve after losing their possessions in the fire.

Since then contributions of clothing and bedding, while not large, have met the family's needs, a spokesman said today, and there is no more room in the cottage for more goods.

"Mrs. Smith wants to thank all the people who helped her. She's very happy about the assistance," he added.

Trip to Beach

FERRY WORK HOURS PROBED

Crews Share in Job Survey

The controversial 1966 shift schedules of B.C. Ferries will be examined by a committee with equal representation from management and crews.

This was agreed this morning at a meeting of a cabinet subcommittee headed by Attorney-General Robert Bonner and representatives of the crews including their lawyer and spokesman, Marney Stevenson.

Management and crews will name two representatives each for the committee which must advise the cabinet subcommittee by May 20 when a report can be expected.

Any ferry employee representing the crews will be given time off with pay to attend meetings.

Mrs. Stevenson said she is "most satisfied" with the outcome of the meeting which instructed the management-crew committee to try to work out equitable shift schedules.

She made a submission to the cabinet subcommittee, composed of Mr. Bonner and Lands Minister Ray Williston, Works Minister W. N. Chant and Mines Minister Donald Brothers.

In it, she asked that the concept of averaging out 40 hours a week over the full year be abolished in favor of a fixed 40-hour week. This would eliminate the schedule calling for 12 days on, three days off.

The attorney-general said the meeting was "most useful" from the government's standpoint.

"We are naturally anxious to see the ferry service not only efficient but happy," said Mr. Bonner.

"The stumbling block, as I see it, has been an inadequate approach to solutions. There has been a good definition of the problems but an inadequate approach to solutions."

WALKOUT REPORTED

The schedule calls for 10 days on, four days off, in place of the old week on, week off system. The four-month summer schedule of 12 days on, three days off was unchanged.

A Civil Service Commission hearing later recommended no change in this year's schedules and the cabinet refused to allow a board of reference arbitration of the dispute.

Ask The Times

Q. How do you get rid of caterpillars in trees? P.A.

A. Sprays are available for this purpose, but Times' garden expert Jack Beastall suggests you snip off the nest, wrap it in paper and burn it.

Q. How did April Fool's Day come about? M.H.

A. The observance began when France adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1564, explains an encyclopedia.

Up to that time, the New Year celebration started on March 21 and finished April 1. When New Year's Day was changed to Jan. 1, people still celebrating it as the first of April were known as April fools.

City Problems Outlined By Community Planners

Four major problems face Victoria planners in the near future, city planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh told the Community Planning Association of Canada capital region branch Thursday.

He listed the four primary targets:

- An adequate road system offering easy entrance and exit to the city's downtown core.
- Adequate parking for the automobile driver to shed his car once in the downtown area.
- Attractive malls and stores to keep the motorist turned pedestrian happy while shopping.
- A pedestrian-resident population close by to provide the steady day-to-day business the city centre requires.

The resident-pedestrian would come from areas such as the planned urban renewal development for the Rose-Blanshard area.

"In effect these people and others from similar areas should regard the downtown area as a local shopping centre," he said.

Mr. Greenhalgh warned that though Victoria must continue to enhance its reputation as beautiful city, it could not afford to completely neglect industry.

He said that desirable though it may be to have a city completely divorced from industry such an ambition is not economically feasible.

There must be industry in the city to bring an economic balance, he said.

Moderator for the meeting held in the First United Church Hall Quadra Street, was N.A. Swainson, professor of economics and political science at the University of Victoria.

The session was the last of four held on the theme "The Capital Region Looks Ahead."

Rain Washes Out Early Summer

Victoria's premature summer was rapidly washed away today as rain dropped temperatures almost 20 degrees.

From an all-time May 5 high of 76.2 degrees in the city Thursday the mercury plunged to 60 today.

The return to normal followed a night of thunder and lightning which dumped a half-an-inch of rain on the city.

Little change is forecast for the weekend by weatherman William Mackie. More rain is on its way Saturday though a few sunny periods could brighten the Sunday.

While the beach crowd wasn't too happy with the change, Vancouver Island logging companies welcomed it.

Several camps shut down early Thursday as temperatures soared to 94 in the Nanaimo Lakes area and 90 in Gold River.

Three forest districts already are battling serious fires. The situation in Kamloops area was serious with 21 new fires occuring Thursday. Thirty were already burning in that district.

Two other happy men were Victorians James Bramley, city comptroller and Herbert Warren, parks administrator.

Both counted every raindrop as a cent held in reserve in city coffers.

"It's very welcome," said Mr. Warren. [illegible] right in a drought period and were all ready to start our summer watering schedule to keep things green. Steady rain like this means that we can delay the heavy watering program for a couple of weeks at least."

Mr. Warren said the recent spell of hot, dry weather had forced the city into an early watering program for young trees for the past two weeks.

Any advice for gardeners while rain lasts?

"Yes," said Mr. Warren. "Anyone thinking of planting a lawn this year should do it now. Conditions are ideal. The moisture is just right, the warmth is in the soil. It's perfect for lawn planting."

SELF-TAUGHT biologist, Gaston Naessens, was sentenced in absentia Thursday in Paris, to two years in prison and 10 years loss of civil rights on charges of false pretences. Naessens, who claimed to be able to cure leukemia, is said to be doing cancer research in the U.S.

MEMORIAL SERVICES IN HOLLAND

'Heroes We Owe Our Liberation'

BERGEN OP ZOOM, Holland (CP)—Some 1,400 Canadian soldiers who lie buried here were described by a Royal Dutch Air Force chaplain Thursday as "the young heroes to whom we owe our liberation."

At a memorial ceremony for Canadians killed in Holland in the Second World War, and attended by many children, the chaplain, Rev. Henrik Laan, spoke of the events of 1944-45. He said the youngsters should know about them, and about a debt of gratitude they and their families owe Canada.

Canadian Ambassador W. F. Bull and his wife also attended the rites, held at the Canadian military cemetery here. Units of the Canadian 4th Infantry Brigade formed a guard of honor and the Canadian national anthem was played by the band of the Royal Dutch Engineers.

This town of 35,000 is in Zeeland province near the Scheldt Estuary, where Canadian soldiers engaged the Germans in some of the bitterest fighting of the war.

It was 21 years ago Thursday that German forces in Holland surrendered.

Tory MP Resigns

OTTAWA (CP)—The resignation of Conservative MP Clement Vincent, who plans to enter Quebec provincial politics, was formally announced to the Commons Wednesday. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux said he has asked for a writ of election for Mr. Vincent's riding of Nicolet-Yamaska. This gives the government six months in which to set a date for a byelection.

Eskimo Hunting Rights Upheld

OTTAWA (CP)—The government of the Northwest Territories cannot enact laws restricting hunting rights of Eskimos, the Supreme Court of Canada was told Thursday.

A. E. Williams of Yellowknife, appearing for Eskimo hunter Sigeareak of Whale Cove, said the N.W.T. Council can make laws relating to preservation of game but that these laws are subject to an act of Parliament which says no territorial ordinance can restrict "Indians or Eskimos from hunting for food."

A full bench of nine judges reserved judgment on an appeal by Sigeareak against a Territorial High Court decision finding him guilty of abandoning game fit for consumption contrary to N.W.T. law.

Sigeareak killed three caribou in July, 1964 and took only parts of the animals. A few months later an RCMP constable found the remainder of the carcasses in a badly-decomposed condition.

Police Magistrate P. B. Parker refused to convict the hunter because he felt bound by a previous N.W.T. High Court decision which said N.W.T. hunting laws do not apply to Eskimos. The Crown appealed to the Territorial Court of Appeal which reversed the decision.

Mr. Williams also said the Royal proclamation of 1763 has the force of a statute as far as Indians and Eskimos are concerned. The proclamation assures the native peoples of continued unfettered hunting rights.

SPOKANE MAN

City Exchange Chief Named

By AB KENT
Times Business Writer

President G. C. "Pat" George of the Spokane Stock Exchange is slated to become working president of the revived Victoria Stock Exchange, with trading floors here and in Vancouver.

Vancouver mining, real estate and investment dealer Stanley E. Cropper today confirmed that a group of Vancouver, Victoria and American businessmen are picking up the unlapsed charter of the old Victoria exchange that was granted in 1911.

Mr. George, he said, has discussed the re-establishment of the old Victoria exchange with superintendent of brokers William Irwin and the group is confident of getting government support.

So far there has been no discussion with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whose written consent must be given to setting up a stock exchange.

Mr. George is an experienced man in his field, Mr. Cropper said.

CURB SECTION

The Spokane exchange deals about 80 per cent in unlisted, or curb market stocks, the Vancouver man said.

It would be the intention of the Victoria exchange to pick up companies trading shares on the Vancouver Stock Exchange "unlisted" board, he said.

VSE is dropping its unlisted market June 6 in an effort to tighten up market control and encourage proper listing. Exchange president Jack Van Luven said Thursday many of the unlisted companies can't qualify for VSE listing.

MAIN FLOOR

Mr. Cropper said Mr. George intends to establish residence in Vancouver, where the Victoria Stock Exchange would have its main trading floor and expect to handle most of its business.

"It is essential that it be handled by the most senior and qualified and experienced men in the business," he said.

Mr. Cropper said that since the first announcement of the revival in the Times Wednesday he has had requests for seats on the Victoria exchange.

POLICE FIRMS

By taking all unlisted stocks into one exchange, a burden will be lifted from the superintendent of brokers by helping his staff police companies better, Mr. Cropper said.

SUMMARIES

Wall St. Battered Again

Wall Street made a feeble attempt to recover and then was battered by another heavy wave of selling late this afternoon. The ticker tape lagged five minutes behind transactions.

Another stiff loss was in the making as IBM sank nearly 17 points, Zenith and Eastern Air Lines 3, Xerox 11, Polaroid 4½, Texas Instruments 6 or more.

General Motors was down between 1 or 2 points, touching new lows.

Brokers said the fresh wave of selling arose from disappointment over failure of a rally to develop.

Four mines dipped to new lows in a generally bearish morning on the exchange.

Casino was off four to 96 cents; Chataway lost 10 cents to $1.30; New Cronin was down Titan lost 15 to $3.15—all new lows.

Other losers were Arlington down three to 60 cents; Buttle Lake off 10 to $1.25 and Lornex down 20 to $6.30.

Dynasty reversed the trend and rose 75 cents to $13.25.

DEAR ABBY . . .

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I did a terrible thing. I told my boyfriend my parents were dead and I was living with my aunt. You see, we live in a dump in a poor neighborhood, and I was ashamed to have him see my house, so I've been having him pick me up at my girl friend's house. Not only that, but I was ashamed to introduce him to my parents because they're foreigners and don't speak English very well.

He's getting serious, Abby, and I don't know what to do. If I tell him the truth now, he'll never believe another word I say. And he probably won't ever want to see me again. I love him very much, and I'm all torn up inside about what I've done. How can I make things right without losing him?

TORN UP

DEAR TORN UP: Tell him the truth and accept the consequences. If he forgives you, consider yourself lucky and vow never to lie again. And don't ever be ashamed of your parents because they're "foreigners." We all have our roots in a foreign country. Unless we happen to be Indians, that is.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we introduced our very good friends to these people I'll call the "Joneses." Our very good friends invited the Joneses and us out to dinner. The Joneses ordered the best of everything and more than they could eat. I was so shocked and ashamed. Abby, my mother taught me never to eat too much at somebody else's house, and not to order the most expensive meal at somebody else's expense. I wish you would put some rules down for people like the Joneses. They sure need it. Not only that, but my husband had to tell the Joneses to thank our friends for the nice dinner.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: If it was just a spur-of-the-moment dinner party, and the Joneses were included only because they were with you, you owe your "very good friends" an apology. But if your friends merely met the Joneses through you, and sought to entertain them, you needn't feel ashamed. Circumstances sometimes require introducing acquaintances to friends, but an introduction isn't necessarily a recommendation.

DEAR ABBY: My Bob wrote to you a few weeks ago. I saw the letter in the pocket of his coat. I can only guess what he wrote, but I think I know. He has been after me to make our "marriage" legal. He cannot know the nightmares I have had. Perhaps if I tell you about my former marriages, you will understand why I can't marry Bob: Husband number one (a lieutenant in the air force) and I were married six months and 18 days when he was killed in a car accident. I was 19. Husband number two (a sergeant in the army) and I were married three months and 23 days, when he was killed in a hunting accident. I was 23.

Husband number three (a construction engineer) and I were married only 55 days when he died in a fire. I was 27. Bob and I have been together for three years, and he is still in one piece and we are very happy. I have buried three husbands in eight years, and I am taking no chances of adding Bob to that list. He says he is not afraid, but to tell you the truth I am.

BOB'S COMMON-LAW WIFE

Confidential To "Can't Go On" in Del Mar: YOU CAN go on. And you MUST. "Anyone can carry his burden, however hard, until nightfall. Anyone can do his work, however hard, for one day. Anyone can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly, purely, 'til the sun goes down. And this is all that life really means." (Robert Louis Stevenson.)

DEAR ABBY: I like a boy, but he doesn't like me yet. I'll call him Gary. The girl who has been liking Gary told me that she has started liking someone else and she plans to quit liking Gary pretty soon. How can I let Gary know I like him without looking like I am running after him? He is real cute and I am average, but people tell me I have a good personality. Don't tell me to ask my mother because she thinks I am too young to like boys. I am nearly 11 and Gary is my age. Thank you.

LIKES GARY

DEAR LIKES: It is pretty hard not to look like you are running after a boy, when you are. Don't worry, when an 11-year-old girl starts liking a boy, it's impossible for him NOT to know it.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most Tooth Decay Takes Place Shortly After You Eat

Lowman

Q. Why is it so important to brush teeth immediately after eating? I keep reading about it. Why does it matter if they are brushed later on, except for the sake of appearance?

A. Most decay takes place within 20 minutes after eating. Therefore, much of the damage is done within a short time. Brushing later is somewhat like locking the barn door after the horse has escaped.

Q. I need some help. I am 26 years old, 5 feet 5½ and weigh 142 pounds. My measurements are bust 35, waist 26 and hips 37 inches. Am I overweight and are my measurements out of proportion?

A. If you have a medium build you might lose four or five pounds but no more. Your measurements are in good ratio. For nearer perfection, exercise to lose a couple of inches from your hips.

Q. I am beginning to work on a suntan. I wonder if one-half hour of sunbathing will do any good or if I must spend lots more time. I want a tan and I want a good one in a hurry. I am busy with little children and it is difficult for me to spend more than a half-hour a day sunbathing.

A. You shouldn't spend that much time to begin with. Every year thousands of women make the same mistake, that of trying to acquire a suntan too rapidly. The results are often painful and can be serious. They certainly are not pretty. If you do not tan carefully and gradually you will have peeling skin that makes you look like the victim of some rare skin disease. I will write a column soon about sunbathing. In the meantime spend only 10 minutes on each side at first and build up gradually.

Q. Which measurement is easiest to reduce?

A. When losing weight the waist usually shows the loss first and I think it responds more quickly to exercise, too. The abdomen is next. The hips and thighs are more stubborn.

Q. Can hair really be straightened? I don't believe it.

A. You are wrong. Hair can be successfully straightened and the result lasts about the same length of time as a permanent.

SHOPPING GUIDE

By PENNY SAVER

The weatherman certainly hasn't been pulling the wool over our eyes this week, but rather is prompting us to shed those last remnants of winter and get into the swing of the new season. Grocery stores, too, are well stocked with foods that need little preparation to provide a cool treat for your family. Patio dining is a refreshing way to start off a meal. Simply throw something together in the kitchen, then retire to the cool surroundings of your own yard in the shade of neighboring trees.

You don't have to be a master chef to toss together a meal fit for a gourmet. A favorite around our household is a succulent beef pie already prepared, so that all that you have to do is pop it in the oven. This pie is family size, as it weighs 24 ounces. It is full of hearty pieces of beefsteak and carrots in a mouth-watering beef broth. It's hard to resist going back for seconds when this pie is the centre of your table. Priced at just 89 cents, it's irresistible to your pocketbook too.

Sausage rolls are another hit that can go right from your freezer to the oven. A package of five cocktail-size rolls sells for 49 cents. Larger rolls, big enough to satisfy any appetite, are priced at two for 35 cents.

Some days the oven is not very appealing. On those days, something already prepared and ready to serve would be ideal. One shop has cabbage rolls piping hot just waiting for you to take home and put on your table.

Priced at 49 cents for two well-stuffed, juicy rolls, these are bathed in a spicy tomato sauce that will pamper every tastebud. Next time you're in this store, pick some up. Your family will be glad you did.

GIVEN FOR MRS. S. G. PITT

Trio of Showers Honors Bride

Mrs. S. G. Pitt (nee Irene Barrick) has been feted at a trio of showers since her recent marriage.

Mrs. I. Hansen and Mrs. R. Burtenshaw entertained at a cup and saucer shower at the Mayfair Lanes, prior to their regular bowling game. Yellow daffodils and cherry blossom decorated the banquet room. Guests included members of the Unity Ladies' Bowling League.

Candy pink carnations were presented to the bride when Mrs. J. Hess and Mrs. R. Thompson gave another shower. Pink and yellow flowers decorated the container of gifts.

Yellow carnations en corsage were received by the honor guest's mother, Mrs. F. E. Barrick. Games were played and refreshments served. A decorated cake, inscribed with "Best Wishes, Stu and Irene," was the focal point of the head table.

William Huber, secretary-treasurer of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, said horse owners voted 203 to 6 not to file entries for Saturday's races at the suburban Cicero track unless the dispute is settled.

Reporter Hit on Head By Sevigny

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet said today a CBC reporter was hit on the head by former Conservative cabinet minister Pierre Sevigny when he attempted to interview Mr. Sevigny without permission last March.

CANADA'S $21 MILLION pavilion at Expo 67 in Montreal will house more than $6 million worth of exhibits. More than 100 exhibits featuring all aspects of Canadian life have been designed for the pavilion and its huge inverted pyramid. General view of the scale model shows one of the highlights, a People Tree (front of pyramid), a six-storey high maple whose 500 colored "leaves" are photos of Canadians at work and in leisure. Also shown are the Challenges area, left; Arts Centre, right, and bandshell.

Cost of Living Continues Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index rose by eight-tenths of a point during April to a record of 143.2, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

Increased food costs and an increase in the Ontario provincial sales tax to five per cent from three were mainly responsible. All seven sections of the index were up.

The index, based on 1949 consumer prices equalling 100, had stood at 141.2 in January, 142.1 in February and 142.4 in March, the previous high. The April figure was four per cent higher than in the same month of last year.

There is no exact parallel index of incomes. But an index of industrial wages and salaries, based on 1961 equalling 100, was at 116.9 in December, latest figure available.

Bomber Guard Cutback Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has ordered a reduction in the continuous airborne alert of B-52 bombers, it was disclosed today.

He told the House of Representatives appropriations committee the constant bomber alert aloft, conducted for more than five years, no longer is needed because:

—Of "the declining importance of bombers in relations to missiles."

No indication of the extent of the reduction was available.

McNamara's testimony, given in secret earlier this year, seemed certain to arouse new criticism from advocates of the bomber and from those who question reliance on missiles.

ALERT WILL GO ON

The defence secretary's published words gave the impression that the airborne alert will be ended entirely, but the defence department said this is not so—that there will continue to be an airborne alert, although reduced in size.

Defence sources said a portion of the bomber force will remain ready to take up a broader airborne alert, if this becomes necessary in an emergency.

They also said that 50 per cent of the fleet of about 600 B-52 bombers will continue to be held on airstrip alert, ready to take off on 15 minutes warning—well within the maximum 30 minutes warning radar installations could provide in event of an intercontinental ballistic missile assault.

The U.S. now has about 900 ICBMs in firing position, all in protected underground launch sites. It also has 36 Polaris subs in commission, mounting a total of more than 575 missiles.

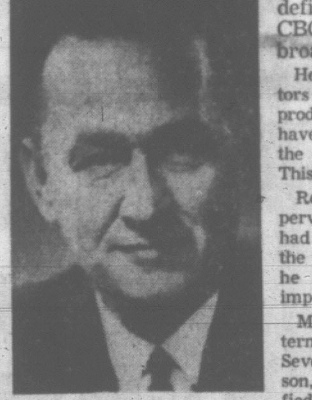
CBC CHIEF TELLS COMMONS COMMITTEE

Officials Openly Defied Management Authority



OUIMET
. . . impossible situation

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC officials who have openly defied the management are in an impossible situation, CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet told the Commons broadcasting committee today.

He said the board of directors will decide what to do with producers and supervisors who have defied the management in the dispute over the program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Reeves Haggan, general supervisor of public affairs, now had supported the attitude of the Seven Days producers and he had "placed himself in an impossible position."

Mr. Ouimet said Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of Seven Days, and Patrick Watson, the co-host, have openly defied the authority of the corporation since mid-April. This was unheard of and unprecedented.

Resignation normally preceded any public attack on an employer.

David Lewis (NDP — York South) asked whether a "wholesale firing" would do the CBC any good.

Mr. Ouimet said he could not answer yes or no. He personally had the power to hire and fire, but in this case he preferred not to take any decision alone.

Therefore, he would ask the CBC board to review the whole Seven Days controversy.

ONE OF FACTORS

Mr. Ouimet said this is one of the factors being considered.

"It had better be," Mr. Peters replied.

L. R. Sherman (PC—Winnipeg South) asked whether Mr. Haggan would be dismissed because of his testimony before the committee.

Mr. Ouimet said he was being careful not to refer to testimony before the committee. But Mr. Haggan's attitude now was known and his case would be placed before the board of directors.

The CBC president said he means no disrespect for Parliament, but he shares the view that the committee's hearings are complicating the solution of the Seven Days dispute.

Mr. Haggan told the committee Tuesday that senior executives of the CBC don't know anything about programming and have suggested indirectly that he should resign.

FEARED LEAKS

Mr. Ouimet read an hour-long prepared statement after asking the committee to hear him immediately, rather than continue questioning CBC Vice-President H. G. Walker.

Mr. Ouimet said his statement had been ready for two days and he was anxious to read it to the committee because of the possibility of "leaks inside the corporation."

Mr. Lewis said this remark showed Mr. Ouimet did not trust his own staff. "This alleged reason is not dignified enough to justify changing the order of witnesses."

Other committee members replied that Mr. Ouimet was acting in good faith and should be heard immediately. The committee voted to call the CBC president and to continue questioning him Monday.

U.K. SETS PRICE ON ECM ENTRY

STOCKHOLM (CP) — George Brown, Britain's deputy prime minister, said today trade with Canada, Australia and New Zealand lies at the heart of Britain's difficulties in considering new moves to join the European Common Market.

In the clearest outline yet provided on the Labor government's Common Market policy, Brown said in a speech prepared for a socialist's conference here that Britain insists that five principles must be preserved if it is to enter the European trade bloc.

These are: Safeguards for British farmers; safeguards for European Free Trade Association partners; freedom to allow Britain to pursue its own foreign policy and the preservation of British rights to plan its own economy.

Brown, economics minister charged with exploring Common Market entry, said he does not believe these problems are insurmountable but some present major difficulties.

THINKS AHEAD

"It is clear," he said, "that if Britain were to enter the European Economic Community and apply the common agricultural policy as it now stands, it could have profound effects on the pattern of our imports from New Zealand, Australia and Canada—the heart of the overseas Commonwealth.

"At present Britain's imports from them are free of duty and many items enjoy a tariff preference over the same products imported from foreign countries."

NOTHING can be arranged now for any exchange of prisoners of war in Viet Nam, U.S. roving Ambassador Averell Harriman said today in Geneva.

Jury Finds Pair Guilty

CHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—A young man and his mistress were found guilty today in the "moor murders" and both were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Ian Brady, 28, and Myra Hindley, 23, were convicted of killing Edward Evans, 17, and Lesley Ann Downey, 10. Brady alone was found guilty of murdering 12-year-old John Kilbride.

MYRA HINDLEY

IAN BRADY

Judge Fenton Atkinson termed the lovers "sadistic killers of the utmost depravity," adding: "These were three calculated, cruel, cold - blooded murders.

He told Brady: "In your case I pass the only sentence which the law now allows, which is three concurrent sentences of life imprisonment."

The death penalty for murder was abolished in Britain last year for a five-year trial period.

Just before the jury retired Judge Fenton Atkinson said it was not possible to find Brady not guilty in the axe slaying of 17-year-old Edward Evans.

HACKED TO DEATH

Brady allegedly hacked and strangled the youth to death after enticing him from a Manchester homosexuals' club to demonstrate the art of murder to a friend.

He advised the jury not to convict the couple of killing either Kilbride or the girl if there was any reasonable doubt.

He also said Brady's collection of books of pornography, perversion and torture did not prove anything.

"I daresay that dozens of people read books of that sort and never dream of putting the things they read into practice," he said.

The judge said a tape-recording of Lesley's screams and protests, made while Brady took pornographic pictures of her, was obviously highly prejudicial to the two accused.

"They cannot escape that. It must throw a merciless light on the character and disposition of persons who treat a little girl in that way."

One could never forget hearing the little girl begging and praying for mercy, he said.

It was obvious Lesley had been indecently assaulted, a serious crime in itself, he said. But the jury must ask whether this offence threw any light on the way the girl died.

IMPROVED DETECTOR

LONDON (Reuters)—An improved method of detecting cancer by fluorescent effects was reported by two British doctors today in the medical magazine Lancet.

8.7 Million Cars Recalled by Firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Abraham R. Ribicoff revealed today that U.S. automakers had conducted recall campaigns involving 8.7 million cars produced since 1960.

At a news conference, Ribicoff said all the cars involved in the recall operations did not have safety defects. Some recalls were related to mechanical problems, he said.

But he noted that 18.5 per cent of all cars made during the past six years "have been defective in some respect."

Ribicoff did not immeditely release the list dealing with individual makes.

HOPES DIM FOR VIET PEACE TALKS

THANT
. . . no initiative

NEW YORK (UPI) — UN Secretary General Thant returned from meetings with European leaders Thursday and said "there is no hope for an early settlement" of the war in Viet Nam.

"No new initiative on the part of anybody, on the part of any government, is called for at the moment," Thant told newsmen at Kennedy International Airport. He returned from a 10-day Europe trip which included talks with Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain and President Charles de Gaulle of France.

RCMP Evidence Attacked As Spy Hearing Closes

VANCOUVER (CP) — The royal commission into the affair of alleged spy Victor Spencer ended its hearings today with a lawyer attacking evidence given by an RCMP official which said the former postal clerk's action fitted into an espionage program.

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, one-man commissioner, said he will return to Ottawa today or Saturday to start writing his report.

He hoped to have the report in the government's hands within a month. The commission had sat here for two days.

The hearings ended with a summing up by J. J. Robinette, commission counsel, rebutting a summation by Spencer lawyer Harry Rankin that said there is nothing in the law that forbade Spencer giving such information as the location of available farms to the Soviet embassy.

Mr. Justice Wells replied it depends on the purpose for which it was given.

Mr. Rankin was summing up the two days of hearings of the commission which is seeking to determine if Spencer was unfairly dealt with when he was dismissed from his post office job after allegations of spying were made in the Commons. Spencer died last month.

Today and Thursday he attacked the evidence of RCMP

B.C. MAKES REQUEST FOR IMPORT WORKERS

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia and Alberta have joined Ontario in seeking imported farm workers to help with the harvest, Labor Minister Marchand told the Commons today.

The government recently announced a program to allow West Indian workers to come in this fall to help harvest crops in southwestern Ontario.

He told Creditiste Leader Caouette similar requests have come from the two western provinces for hands to help with the fruit and vegetable harvest.

By DON VIPOND

What to do when all your best friends and some of your favorite enemies have suddenly turned into rhinoceroses?

Simple. Join the herd.

But it's the sort of entertainment which nettles a little too sharply to be much fun. Behind the finely-drawn characterizations of those people we love to hate, the message that just about all of us have sold out on this business of living, is crystal clear.

It's probably healthy to be reminded of this unhappy situation now and again. Who knows? Might even change some of our gutless ways.

All of which is not to suggest that Rhinoceros doesn't provide some fun, that there isn't some sugar on the pill. There is. But it takes a very skillful cast to produce it.

The beauty of this production lies in the way it breathes life into some intriguing characters. Happily, the Campus Players is a company which has the talent to handle it.

A special hand to Robert Price, faced with the task of changing from human to rhinoceros, right before your very eyes. No mean trick and it was the high point in the evening.

Harry Hill as the man driven to ask embarrassing questions like "what's duty?" parleys a reproachful St. Bernard expression and a nice sensitivity into a rich performance.

LITTLE ROOSTER

Both Wolfgang Baba, the little rooster unionist, and Paul Bettis, lend a big hand among the group of strong supporters.

Throughout, the play shows the strong hand of director Robert Hedley, who keeps things moving but always under control.

Bill West's stark sets and the costumes by Biddy Gaddes are clever, blend well and are an asset in a play that you may not like but will probably admire.

4 Out of 5 Runaways Apprehended

Four of five escapers from the city juvenile detention home, 1125 Pembroke, are back in police custody.

The five youths — one of whom was barefoot — broke out of the home Wednesday afternoon.

Two were recaptured in Central Park after police were tipped off by a storekeeper.

CAR STOLEN

Also found in the stolen car the youths were riding in were a wrist watch and a radio taken from a home at 2717 Millstream Ave.

Ald. Lily Wilson, a member of the detention home committee, said the boys removed a ventilator from the door of the home to make their escape.

"It was just fixed on with light beading around the edges," she said. "The thing should never have been built that way in the first place. The boys just pried the beading off and crawled through the hole."

The ventilator has since been replaced — and nailed solidly in position.

The boys were in the recreation room a few minutes prior to their bid for freedom.

"One of the first things they think about when they are taken in is how to get out," said Ald. Wilson. "They regard it as a bit of a challenge. This time it was all too simple for them."

ADJUDICATOR of the Dominion Dama Festival to be held here May 15-21 is British actor-director Marius Goring. Mr. Goring, whose theatre career spans 30 years, has acted in England, France and Germany. Seven companies from both English and French Canada will take the McPherson Playhouse stage in the festival. Company judged best by Mr. Goring will be awarded the DDF trophy and prize of $1,000.

Librarian Honored On Retirement

Miss Margaret J. Clay, chief librarian of Victoria Public Library from 1923 to 1952, was honored Thursday on her retirement from the B.C. Public Library Commission.

She was guest of honor at a luncheon in Shaughnessy Golf Club, Vancouver, given by members of the commission, which Miss Clay has served since 1948.

She is a past president of the British Columbia and Pacific Northwest Library Associations and has long been active in both the Canadian and American Library Associations.

'No Instant Victory' Against U.S. Crime

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson launched the government Thursday on a long-term drive to wipe out organized crime. He called it "guerrilla war against society."

Johnson recognized that the job would not be easy. "There will be no instant victory," he said, but added than an alliance of federal, state and local police forces can lick the underworld.

The president made the remarks after a White House meeting to discuss the administration's redoubled anti-crime campaign. Present were officials who will lead the drive, including Atty. Gen. Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach and FBI director J. Edgar Hoover.

Johnson said he wanted Katzenbach to be the focal point for the attack. He was given the responsibility of rallying all the government agencies concerned with crime, including the FBI, the treasury and the internal revenue service.

In his statement, Johnson said earlier wars on the underworld had shown results. "Federal prosecutions in organized crime have risen from 17 in 1960 to 491 last year," he said.
